SIX WAYS GARDENERS ARE PLANTING WITH A PURPOSE

by Ana Kreutzer

In 2018, gardens will do much more than provide attractive accents around homes. Environmental concerns and awareness of the calming effects of nature are having a big impact on garden design and plant selection. People are turning to gardens to escape, unplug and rejuvenate their minds by creating private spaces that focus on wellness. Concerns about water and pesticide use, dwindling pollinator populations, and eating a healthy diet also are influencing what people choose to plant and why. Following are six trends to consider when planning your garden.

THE PERFECT VENUE

by Renee Sklarew

Selecting the perfect place to say, “I do” can be a challenge. So VivaTysons compiled descriptions of seven unconventional wedding and rehearsal venues to help you plan your special day. Most couples want a setting with flexible spaces that fit within their budget, and professional support to help them plan this essential milestone. Whether you’re planning an intimate affair or a grand event, the wedding planners at these venues stand ready to design a wedding that everyone will recall with the fondest of memories.

PREVENTING BEAUTY BACKFIRES

by Ana Kreutzer

You don’t always get the results they expected from cosmetic surgery, which can leave you disheartened, especially when you have to spend more time and money to change the outcome. You need to take a proactive role in your procedure from start to finish, because there are things you can do to prevent or resolve disappointing results. Dr. Christopher Knotts of Austin-Weston, The Center for Cosmetic Surgery shared some stories about what can go wrong and what patients can do to ensure the best possible outcome.

THE BORO

by Keith Loria

Spring in the DC area is one of my favorites seasons. There is something about the light green on the trees of the parkways and streets, the hustle and bustle of restaurants getting ready for outdoor dining and a newness in the air that says to me: "wake up, there's a new year and new opportunities headed our way." It's exciting!

More. More new buildings and developments in our future such as the Boro. It's really awesome when you think of it. We asked Keith to bring us some thoughts on the plans and the opportunities for housing, dining, and developments in retail, entertainment, and workspace. As we put our publication to bed, there is more talk of the proposed "View at Tysons" by Clemente Development rising up 48 stories with approx 840,000 sq ft of condos, 412,000 sq. ft of Hotel Space and 44,000 sq ft of retail. Stay tuned!

Michelle and I were married in the spring of '72 on Long Island and even back then, wedding plans had to be made well in advance. Our editors and writers have put together some options for your big day in hopes of bringing you ideas and suggestions from the rehearsal dinner to the big celebration.

Gardening? It starts now and Ana Kreutzer gives us "Planting with a Purpose," a new look at the joys and benefits of those gardens my mom loved so much. Linda went to Capon Springs, the all-inclusive resort in West Virginia. Great read—thanks, Linda.

Make math into a fun puzzle and STEM aspirations become accessible.

What if math was a fun puzzle that you couldn’t wait to explore?

Imagine a wooden cube made of colorful rectangular prisms, painted in shining yellow, red, blue, and black. A puzzle that fits into a box, but only if put together just so. Twenty-seven pieces, which physically represent the trinomial formula, \((a+b+c)^3\). That’s the Montessori Trinomial Cube.

A four-year-old who discovers patterns. A five-year-old who (blindfolded!) completes a puzzle that baffles many adults. A Montessori 5th grader who, when studying the algebraic expression \((a+b+c)^3\), recalls the same colorful puzzle from his preschool days and, with a smile, thinks, “but of course!” That’s how joyful learning builds from concrete to abstract at LePort Montessori.

How do you get children excited about math and science?

In Montessori, the magic happens in a carefully prepared environment—where a trained, caring teacher observes each child, gives an individualized lesson with an irresistible material, and allows them to master it at their own pace.

The Montessori sensorial materials prepare preschoolers for arithmetic, algebra, geometry and science. Watch the puzzle solved and see how it concretizes the trinomial formula.

ELLIS PAUL

Jammin Java, 7:30pm, $20-22

Though some may refer to Ellis Paul as a folksinger, he is more, for lack of a better word, a singular storyteller, a musician whose words reach out from inside and yet also express the feelings, thoughts and sensibilities that most people can relate to in one way or another, regardless of age or upbringing: the exhilaration of the open road, a celebration of heroes, the hope for redemption, descriptions of those things that are both near and dear.

HARVEY

Fridays and Saturdays at 8pm, Sundays at 2pm at the Grange Theatre Mar 9, 2018 - Mar 24, 2018

Co-Producers: Jennifer Levy , Mike Scott

Director: Eleanore Tapscott

Assistant Director: Matthew Monroe

Technical Director: George Farnsworth

Choreographer: Victoria Bloom

Harvey, the 1944 Pulitzer Prize-winning comedy by Mary Chase, features like Beckett's Waiting for Godot a principal character who is ever present but never apparent. Unlike Godot, however, Harvey is a whimsical "forget-all-your-worries" flight of fancy, principally powered by the endearing eccentricities of Elwood P. Dowd, a middle-aged bachelor who, in his own words, wrestled with reality all his life but "finally won out over it".

Elwood is the only member of the cast (or audience* for that matter), who can see and converse with Harvey, an invisible six-foot three-inch mythical rabbit. The Players first brought Harvey to the Grange 30 years ago, and there are those local citizens who swear, despite the rabbit's "disappearance" after the last show of the 1986 run, that he never left. After all, he has the power to stop a clock so that no time passes. It is our joy to try to find out the truth by bringing the show back to the Grange for eight performances in March 2018.

Tickets for Harvey at the Grange may be purchased at the door, online, or by phone through Brown Paper Tickets at 800-838-3006. Per ticket convenience charges apply. All seating is "open" -- no assigned seats.
comprising some of the metro area's finest jazz musicians in this sensational concert. The orchestra is joined by the multitalented Skonberg, whose soulful, sultry voice and impressive trumpet dexterity fuses modern pop with jazz. In 2016, she released a debut LP of original compositions titled BRIA showcasing her extensive range from the bluesy instrumental “Down the Deep” to the Brazilian-flavored “How Can It Be.” The Wall Street Journal called Skonberg one of the “most versatile and imposing musicians of her generation,” and she was recognized in 2016 as one of “25 for the Future” by DownBeat Magazine.

1946 Chain Bridge Rd, McLean, VA 22101, 10am-9:30pm
Working with the humble material of recycled corrugated cardboard, German-born, Maryland-based artist Artemis Herber creates massive depictions of space and place. Devoid of people, the works insist on viewer interaction. They strongly suggest a possibly risky entrance into her imagined hybrid environments of abandoned cities threatening clouds, distant horizons, and eternal twilight. These are places that reside within the realm of what Herber describes as "alienated poetry" and to view them is to experience a place that hovers somewhere between the past, present, and future.

It was nearly 25 years ago when singer Dar Williams started earning notice in the folk industry thanks to three small-release albums and opening for Joan Baez in concert. The folk legend even recorded several of Williams’ songs, and the two women have also had a successful duet in the song, “Ring Them Bells.”

Over the years, Williams has released nine successful studio albums, including her latest Emerald in 2015. In 1996, the album, Mortal City put her on the map and Williams notes these are the songs that have kept her travelling.

“Back then, I was working with coffeehouse volunteers, local radio stations and promoters who were trying very hard, with limited resources, to bring music, poetry and life back into their downtowns,” she says. “That recording, a wistful and upbeat travelogue carried by a hopeful narrative, poetic lyrics, and a sleek full band comprised of friends, was a statement of faith, and now, 20 years later, I say it as a statement of fact.”

Recently, Williams has been involved in a wide range of different efforts and projects: teaching a course titled “Music Movements in a Capitalist Democracy” at her alma mater, Wesleyan University; working with children at several summer camps; leading songwriting workshops; and writing a book about the ways she’s seen towns becoming more independent and prosperous over her 20 years of touring.

Her new book, What I’ve Found in a Thousand Towns, details the experiences of the country trying to find its way back to its downtowners and its urban centers for the last 25 years.

“There are very few examples of cities going backwards since the mid-’90s in terms of people finding ways to dig in, and there was such a strong surge of the return of the downtown that I wanted to figure out how it happened,” Williams says. “I wanted to find out how they’ve grown and grown so robustly, and I feel as if I figured it out.”

Although writing the book took some time away from her music, she used the almost two-year writing process to focus and feels that now that it’s finished, her songwriting will be better for it.

“I have about six different fragments in my head right now and I nudge at them separately and then they surface quickly. I have learned not to push the timeline,” she says. “When I write, I go to places that are interesting to me and might catch me off guard. The best scenario for me is to walk around and have your creative windows open so a tree is no longer a tree but a symbol of your youth.”

Williams also was part of the band Cry Cry Cry, a successful musical pairing of Williams, Lucy Kaplansky and Richard Shindell. Together, the folk singers recorded a chart-topping self-titled record, and were a mainstay on the radio for more than a decade.

The singers went their separate ways 20 years ago, but have reunited in 2018 for a tour and possibly new music.

“Cry Cry Cry has reunited and it’s been a great homecoming,” Williams says. “It’s taken some time to get it right, but it’s been great...”
fun and we'll be playing throughout 2018.”

On April 8, Williams will be appearing with Cry Cry Cry at sixth & I, for a night that will see tunes from their album, personal faves of each singer and some new music that the trio has been experimenting with.

“There are certain audiences that seem more active than passive, and seem more engaged in what's going on and you can feel that up on the stage, feel it during the first song,” Williams says. “The most wonderful night is when you're on stage and in tune and you come out and you see them watching and hear them listening.”

Looking ahead to the rest of 2018, Williams plans on allowing equal time to both her musical career and writing career.

“I would like to do some pieces around what I have learned since releasing the book. It turns out I couldn't have released it at a better time in terms of wanting to talk about how they feel they are engaging with their towns and cities,” she says. “I want to write some essays about that. I'm also excited about writing more songs and toggling back and forth. I expect to be in the studio by the end of the year.”

1. Planting for wellness. People are turning to their gardens as a source of both physical and mental well-being. Gardens provide a calming place to disconnect from our 24/7 digital world and find peace and renewal. According to the Garden Media Group’s 2018 Trends Report, “Gardening is becoming more about creating relaxing spaces.” The trends toward mindfulness and meditation that have emerged over the past few years have extended to the garden, where people are creating “breathing rooms,” using plants to clean the air, clear the mind and escape from day-to-day stress.

   Gardens devoted to physical wellness also are gaining popularity. Recent dietary trends have seen people eating less meat and concentrating on a more plant-based diet. As a natural extension of that movement, people are growing more of their own food. If you’re focusing on eating more plants, consider growing protein-rich edibles, such as peas, broccoli, corn, edamame, spinach, kale and sunflowers.

   In addition, gardeners are intrigued by the health benefits and color accents afforded by purple foods. Look for berries, purple cabbage, eggplant, black raspberries, purple asparagus and herbs like purple basil to be popular in home gardens in 2018.

2. Cooperative gardening. You may have heard about the dwindling population of bees and butterflies due to disease, loss of habitat and widespread use of pesticides, but Garden Design magazine reports that habitat loss is also impacting birds, frogs and even turtles. As news of this threat to the ecosystem spreads, people are adjusting their garden plans to provide havens for pollinators. Three-quarters of the plants on earth require animals for pollination, and the most important thing gardeners can do is plant pollinator-friendly native species to support local wildlife. Native plants occur naturally in a region and form the ecological basis for the life in that area. To download a guide to native plants in our area, visit www.plantnovanatives.org.

   Not only are gardeners choosing plants that cooperate with pollinators, they are also focusing on plants that form a social network. Choosing perennials and self-seeding plants that come back or establish new plants year after year leads to a community of plants that help sustain a healthy environment.

3. A new take on lawns. If the word lawn conjures up an image of an expanse of neatly trimmed, lush green grass, 2018 may get you to rethink that definition. The Garden Media Group’s 2018 Trends Report cited imperfect gardening, or embracing the spirit of the Japanese term wabi-sabi—finding beauty in imperfection—as a rising trend. The report stated that “perfectly maintained lawns are getting less common and sought-after.”

Although traditional lawns may not go away anytime soon, busy schedules mean people have less time to devote to maintaining a manicured lawn, and smaller lawns or lawns that are not grass require less water, thereby preserving resources.

According to Architectural Digest, people are replacing grass lawns with ground covers, tall grasses and even sedge. Groundcovers prevent erosion, don’t need as much water and don’t need to be mowed. The 2018 Trends Report also reported that “growing clover and dandelions in untreated lawns is becoming a status symbol of conservation.”

4. It’s big to go small. Lawns aren’t the only thing shrinking in the garden. To keep gardens in scale with smaller lawns, and because people don’t want to put as much effort or maintenance into their plantings, you will see more dwarf versions of plants going into gardens in 2018. The American Meadows Blog attributes the popularity of dwarf plants to Millennials and retirees who more often live in smaller spaces, so growers are developing dwarf plant varieties to fit with their surroundings.

Another way people are going small is with container gardening. Although not new, the American Meadows Blog predicts that container gardening will become even more popular as city populations increase and yards get smaller. Containers also allow small-scale gardeners to participate in other trends, such as planting for pollinators, growing food or creating an oasis on a patio or balcony. Even gardeners with plenty of space are using containers to decorate porches, entryways, decks and outdoor eating areas.

5. Creating privacy. People not only are turning to their gardens for mental escape, they are using them to physically escape the world as well. Gardeners are turning to plants, rather than fences, to carve out a private outdoor space and to block out noises and eyesores. According to the American Meadows Blog, some gardeners are taking it a step further. “Many aren’t just planting for privacy in their outdoor spaces but are also strategically planting vines and thorny bushes to help with home security.”

6. Bringing the outside in. Although houseplants never really went away, prepare to see them make a big comeback in 2018. You will see potted plants, hanging plants and even terrariums being included as accessories in home design.

In addition to houseplants, indoor food gardening is increasingly popular. This trend allows people to grow and eat fresh food year round, regardless of weather conditions. Gardeners are growing herbs on kitchen windowsills or placing pots of leafy greens, peppers or tomato plants in a sunny spot.

Imagine a wonderland bursting with flowers, fountains and waterfalls. Blossoms hang from the ceiling; rain showers fall to dancing puddles at your feet. Scents from orchids and flowering vines tickle your nose, while bamboo rustles above your head. Mist and fog cool your skin. No, this is not a rainforest, though it’s as close you can get in downtown Philadelphia. What you’ve entered is the fairy-tale landscape of the 2018 Philadelphia Flower Show inside the Philadelphia Convention Center. These magical creations are just a few of the many breathtaking exhibits you’ll interact with during this annual event.

The Philadelphia Flower Show was founded in 1829 by the Philadelphia Horticulture Society (PHS). It’s the largest and longest running horticultural event in the world, displaying more than 30,000 flowers; thousands that are suspended from a floral canopy. Each year, the Philadelphia Convention Center is transformed into ten acres of extravagant displays, botanical crafts and eco-gardening demonstrations. It’s a fully immersive experience that involves spectacular scenery including a reproduction of the four layers of the nearby Delaware River Watershed, Frank Lloyd Wright’s water-bound Falling Water, and a riot of spring flowers emerging from the first snow melt.

This year, PHS features the Wonders of Water, a theme that chief of shows Sam Lemheney has been developing for several years. “Water is a concept I've had in my theme bank for many years and haven’t been able to bring to fruition,” says Lemheney. “This is one of those areas we were finally able to pull together and really bring a good story around it.” Although there are instructional aspects to this story, it’s mainly about entertainment. “The Flower Show is all about entertaining visitors with flowers, and this year it will be with fountains and waterfalls,” Lemheney adds.

An important but less obvious factor in attending the Flower Show is how educational it is. “Gardeners interact with water every day,” notes Lemheney. “From PHS’s standpoint, we’re all about inspiring and engaging the gardeners 365 days a year. The Flower Show is one of our mouthpieces to do that.”

The 2018 Philadelphia Flower Show has an underlying message too—teaching conservation and protecting water on a global scale. “Drinking water is a finite resource,” Lemheney states. “All of us are responsible...we should be advocating to protect the water so that our drinking water is safe for years and generations to come.” Gardeners and everyone who loves nature will learn how to defend water sources from contaminants. “You have to know how to be water wise in your own garden,” Lemheney explains.

Several exhibits feature watering techniques and plant choices to help gardeners maximize their natural resources. “We show what to plant to reduce the amount of watering that you might have to do and some of the organic and fertilizing techniques that help protect the water so no harsh chemicals flow into the water sources we have. There are a lot of things gardeners can do to protect the environment, and but we also want them to have fun with water, like doing containers with water gardens and building small ponds in their yard.”

Even if you're not a gardener, you'll find many activities to explore and delight. Kids adore the Butterflies Live garden; photographers can enter ahead of the crowds to shoot undisturbed; and there is a daily
Garden Tea with refreshments and lectures. PHS’s Designer’s Studio is the perfect place to try your hand at creating floral arrangements with the help of top floral designers. This fast-paced competition is a reality show come alive, and you can be a competitor.

Buy a ticket to the wine and spirits tasting area in the Grand Hall, or attend Flower Show After Hours event where you dress in your best 70’s ensemble and dance to nostalgic tunes spun by DJ Drake. See award-winning creations by gardeners who participate in the Hamilton Horticultural competition. Or shop at the Flower Show Marketplace, where 180 vendors sell garden-related products including patio furniture and tools, fresh cut flowers, bulbs and seeds, garden art, home goods, aromatherapy, vases, jewelry and honey to name a few.

Along with teaching stewardship of the environment, and providing lots of amusements, the Flower Show is PHS’s biggest fundraiser. Through this event, PHS raises between one and two million dollars to support the Society’s LandCare program. LandCare builds and maintains Philadelphia’s community gardens, as well as plants trees and landscapes all over the city. The beautification of Philadelphia is the result; along with building urban farms in neighborhoods that formerly suffered from urban blight.

Lehmeney offered tips on planning your visit: “The last Saturday is our busiest day. The busiest times are between 11 am and 3 pm. The best time to come is after 5 pm when you can grab a glass of wine, and enjoy the show with friends and family,” says Lehmeney. Several hotels offer Flower Show packages, and definitely buy your tickets in advance online. The 2018 Philadelphia Flower Show runs from Saturday, March 3 through Sunday, March 11.

Between the excitement of your engagement and the joy of your wedding, there’s a whole lot of work to be done to plan your big day. If the thought of orchestrating your wedding leaves you feeling overwhelmed, then you might want to consider getting some help. Wedding planners—also called wedding consultants or wedding coordinators—offer a range of services, so your first step is to decide what level of help you want.

If you already have a venue in mind, check if it has an on-site coordinator before you spend any time searching for a wedding planner. Many larger venues that host a number of weddings each year, such as hotels or country clubs, employ on-site coordinators whose services are usually included in your rental fee.

On-site coordinators explain what the venue provides, help plan the menu, provide written cost estimates, oversee the setup for your event and more. At places, some of the decisions are made for you. For example, you may be obligated to use the venue’s catering services, but for other decisions, such as music, the on-site coordinator should be able to make recommendations if you need them.

Types of Wedding Planners

- Full-service planners are with you throughout the process, working on all the details from the beginning through the wedding day itself. They work closely with you to get to know your tastes, needs, budget and timeline. They have relationships with vendors, and can find the ones that fit your style and budget. Full-service wedding planners keep the process on track, create a timeline for your wedding day and make sure everything runs smoothly.

- Partial planners step in a few weeks before your wedding to make sure all the details are finalized and the rehearsal and wedding go according to plan. Partial planners also can be used to help with specific tasks, such as catering or floral arrangements.

- Day-of wedding planners ensure that everything goes well on your wedding day so you can relax and enjoy yourself. If you’re using a day-of coordinator, you select all the vendors and make all the arrangements, then you meet with the planner prior to your wedding day and go over everything that has been arranged. They handle all the vendor coordination leading up to the final days before the wedding and the wedding day itself.

Another alternative is to have a consultation with a wedding planner to get one-time help early in your planning process so you start on the right path. The consultation could include help with your timeline, budget and to do list so you know what needs to be done, when to do it and how you can create or stay within your budget. Your wedding consultant may also make vendor recommendations.

Finding the Right Fit

Now that you've decided to get some help, you need to identify potential candidates. The best way is to ask family and friends who they have used. If you're among the first of your family or friends to get married, or none of them used a planner, ask a trusted local vendor, such as a florist, for recommendations. Your church or reception venue may be able to recommend wedding planners, or you can use the locate a wedding planner function on the Association of Bridal Consultants website (www.bridalassn.com).

After you've gathered a list of potential planners, your next step is to check them out online. Look at photos of weddings they have done to see if you like their style. Also see if they tend to specialize in anything. For example, if a planner focuses on large weddings for the rich and famous, maybe she's not the right fit for your small intimate affair. Look for information about the services she offers, professional associations she's a member of and clients she's worked with.

Once you've identified a few you like, find out if they are available for your date and their price range and cost. These are the two biggest obstacles you may face, and you'll be wasting your time if you set up a meeting only to find out the planner's not available or is way out of your price range.

Set up a meeting, and note how easy or difficult it is to do that. Did the planner return your call right away? Was it easy to find a mutual time to meet? Did she seem excited to get together with you? The most important part of the meeting is to find out if you can work with this person for potentially months on one of the biggest events of your life. You may have gotten a feel for this person's work from her website, but this phone call will provide your crucial first impression. If she's abrupt with you, it could just be that she was in a rush, but be wary if she continues to be brusque in your face-to-face meeting.

Before the meeting, gather any Pinterest images, magazine clippings, swatches or other ideas you'd like to share. Gauge the planner's reaction to your ideas. Is she enthusiastic? Does she listen to what you're saying?

You'll find many lists of questions to ask a wedding planner posted on the internet. These lists cover everything from how many other weddings she will be working on during your timeframe to her pricing structure to whether she has insurance. Take some time to look at some of these lists and compile yours based on the things that are important to you and relevant to your situation.

After the meeting, check some of the wedding planner's references. Call a few recent clients and see how things went. She's probably not going to give you names of people who were unhappy with her services, so don't just ask if they were satisfied. Ask specific questions to uncover any issues. What was the planner was responsible for? (You may be looking for a full-service coordinator and this reference only hired her for day-of services.) Find out if anything went wrong and how the planner handled it. Ask about the vendors she recommended, how easy it was to reach her during the planning process, and whether she executed the couple's vision to their satisfaction.

Once you've found someone who's available, you have a rapport with, who fits your budget and embraces your vision, you can relax and enjoy this special time.

If opening your eyes in never-seen-before-by-you places fills you with unrelenting excitement, and your thirst for first-time experiences is never quenched, then you are a nomadic spirit filled with wanderlust and traveling is the only cure.

Planning for your next international travel adventure grows more complex every year and sometimes, day to day. The new reality of ever-changing travel regulations and guidelines tests even the most seasoned adventurers who know preparation is as much mental as physical. In fact, your mental calisthenics may be more rigorous than packing. Keeping things simple, light, and easy is the key to success for the overseas traveler.

Mental Preparation

In today's world, safety is paramount. You must account for new security measures in a fluid political situation and consider what you would do if you get waylaid in a foreign place. While no one wants to think about getting locked up abroad or pulled into secondary, it is worth running the scenarios through your mind. Imagining such things can put people off, but for travel hungry nomads, this is part of the adventurer’s admission fee.

After you buy your plane tickets, register with the Smart Traveler Enrollment Program (STEP). This free Department of State service allows US citizens and nationals to enroll with US Embassies and Consulates in the countries they will be visiting. In the event of a national emergency or disaster, officials will know to look for you. When you register, put relevant US Embassy and Consular phone numbers in the cell phone you will be taking. Additionally, enrolling in STEP will help your family find you if they cannot reach you directly. STEP also provides needed Visa and immunization information.

Banking and credit and debit cards. Before you go, contact your bank and let them know where you will be traveling, how long you will be gone, which countries you will be visiting, and what credit and debit cards you will be taking. This will prevent them for blocking your charges while abroad, landing you in a regrettable situation. Many countries do not accept American Express and most countries, including all of Europe, require credit and debit cards with a chip. While chip cards are finally catching on in the US, I learned about this the hard way in 2009 onboard a train in France when I could not pay for my ticket with my chip-free credit card. Luckily, I was not thrown off the train mid-transit. If you do not have a card with a chip, contact your bank and request a credit card for international travel.

Cash. Carry only enough US dollars to get you through airport incidentals and or tips required in US dollars. Use your debit card to withdrawal a few days worth of cash once you reach your destination. You will incur transaction and exchange rate fees, but this is the simplest, safest way to obtain cash, which is still the best—and possibly only—way to pay for things in many developing foreign countries. Also, many banks reimburse users for some if not all of these transaction fees.

RFID. Credit cards and passports contain scannable personal identifying information (PII) technology. To prevent your information from being wirelessly obtained, spend a few dollars to protect your PII with RFID protected cases. You can purchase an assortment of lightweight RFID protected passport and credit card sleeves perfect for backpacking through REI.
Physical Preparation

Immunizations. Having the proper immunizations is required for safe overseas travel, and is literally part of the admission price to get into some countries. In Peru, for example, you must show you have been immunized for Yellow Fever. Travel clinics throughout the US give adventurers the immunizations, medications, and travel tips needed for safe passage through foreign lands. Keep your immunization card close at hand as evidence you have received your shots.

Water. Being fit goes a long way to making traveling anywhere a better experience, but it’s not the only thing that is important. Staying hydrated is key. While it is easy to get caught up in “rules” for water intake, the simplest way to know if you are hydrated is to check your pee. It ain’t mellow if it’s yellow. Urine should be clear. If it’s not, drink more. Make sure you are well-hydrated at least three days before you travel, especially if you are traveling to high altitudes, and especially if you are taking altitude medication which can have unpleasant side-effects if you are dehydrated. Also remember caffeine is a diuretic. So if you are a coffee or pop lover, you must do a one-for-one replacement of water to coffee or pop.

Gear

Now comes the fun part, laundry. Haha, just kidding. But once it is done, you can pack with ease. Every adventure comes with its own set of gear requirements and you have to figure out what those will be for the adventure you are taking.

Airport baggage. The most important thing I learned hiking the Camino de Santiago is: less is more. The lighter my pack, the more free I am to adventure. Ten percent body weight is an excellent rule of thumb to avoid injury when thru-hiking and not camping. Using a backpack that is 40 liters or less will prevent you from having to check your bag at the airport. If you are carrying a laptop and are traveling to/from the Middle East, review the laptop ban recently enacted by the US Government. Stay on top of TSA requirements and have a back-up plan should you be unable to get back into the US for any reason.

Go bag. Take a small, secondary, lightweight, preferably waterproof “go-bag” in case of emergency. Make sure it is big enough to carry your ID, passport, immunization card, water, medication, a change of clothes, and any other necessities and toiletries. This comes in handy should you unexpectedly have to check your bag at the airport, or be separated from your primary bag for any other reason.

Electronics. Again, less is more. Unless you are a photojournalist or photographer, taking a big, heavy, expensive camera is ill advised. iPhones take amazing pictures as do many pocket sized cameras. On the Camino, I ditched my camera and iPad and kept only my iPhone. I discovered it was all I needed to blog, take photographs, listen to music, and stay as connected as I wanted to. Be sure to pack a converter as well; you will need it. If you are going to Ireland, you will need to buy a different type of converter; they do not use the two-pronged European converter.

Toiletries. You don’t have to pack everything. People all over the world wear clothes, use soap, and brush their teeth. To keep your pack light, just pack enough. You can replenish abroad if need be, and who knows, you may find even better products overseas. Consider it part of the adventure. I found some great lotions and muscle creams in Spain I have yet to find in the US. Also, consider taking only a single razor blade and leave the handle behind. Practice once or twice before you go, but every ounce counts. Remove unnecessary packing from products. Wearing glasses instead of contact can make things easier, but if you are going to be a rainy environment, contacts may be the better option. If you are going to share sleep quarters, ear plugs are a must!

First-aid kit. Put one together yourself, it’s cheaper and you can tailor it for your needs. Also, it is best to wear shoes that do not hurt your feet. Don’t plan to break them in abroad. This sounds like a no-brainer, but you’d be surprised how many people get blisters walking the Camino. And don’t forget sunscreen and a hat.

Ladies. True freedom can be found when we can extricate ourselves from jewelry, make-up, and non-essential beauty product, including contacts. My skin never looked better than it did in Spain, devoid of make-up for six weeks. I’m not saying this is a must, just something to consider. It also opens the door for a foreign shopportunity...

Rejuvenate Your Soul

Once all the preparation is done and your packing completed, it is time for the best part. Have fun, keep an open mind, and explore the world abroad without inhibition. Make the best of every day’s unique experiences and your trip will be just what it is meant to be. Adventure on!
Soon the warm weather will be here, summer vacations begin, and boys and girls will need to keep minds and bodies active. Remember the scene in the movie Brigadoon where the “blessed village rises out of the mists every hundred years for only a day?” That’s how I felt after ascending the winding road into the West Virginia mountains and entering Capon Springs & Farms.

I wasn’t sure what to expect, but I surely didn’t anticipate the overwhelming old-fashioned charm of this family-friendly 19th-century resort that simply took my breath away. Or perhaps it was that clean, cool mountain air in that provided me with the heady oxygen. How have I not heard of this place?

A family-owned operation, Capon Springs has been cared for by generations of the Austin family and more than 140 co-workers, many of whose families have been with the resort for generations, as have the guests. “It not unusual to see the same multi-generational families here year after year,” explained Jonathan Bellingham, a third-generation family member himself and current marketing and recreation manager, or “chief host,” as he likes to say.

Capon Springs is an all-inclusive historic mountain resort surrounded by 4,700 acres of West Virginia wilderness—the perfect place to get away from it all. Meals, lodging, activities, and complete access to the resort facilities and farms are all included (golf and spa are extra for a tiny fee).

Leave your stress and your electronics behind. This resort encourages family togetherness with a multitude of fun daily activities in a kind of fusion between a summer camp and a pampering bed and breakfast. You won’t have a care in the world except when to show up for meals. And even that is taken care of for you with inspiring music through the trees and the ringing of the dinner bell to announce meals three times a day.

Arrive early for the pre-breakfast flag-raising ceremony to hoist a flag that previously flew over the U.S. Capitol, or help lower it after the hilltop barbeque. Those who assist receive an official certificate suitable for framing…like mine!

There is a renewed focus on livestock farm-to-table, like the eggs from free-range chickens and pork products from the resident pig herd. “We serve comfort-style foods presented family-style and several buffets throughout the week, with three of the meals at the outdoor lodge,” Bellingham explained. “And all the breads, rolls, pies, cakes, and cookies are all baked daily onsite.”

“Guests can walk down to visit with the hogs, dig for fossils, or fish in the stocked pond and bring their fish to the kitchens to serve with breakfast the next day,” he continued. “And anything you need—from equipment to bathing suits—is available for you to borrow.”

There are a variety of room options, from the quaint Pavilion, to the centrally-located Main House, to 14 wonderful and unique cottages. Each historic building has its own special attributes that makes it perfect for a family, couple, individual or groups. We were lucky enough to stay in the Pavilion, with its two wide porches, front and back, and a babbling brook just beyond that lulled us to la-la-land through the screen door.

To help you disconnect from the outside world, guest rooms do not have televisions or phones. (Cell service depends on your carrier.) Old-fashioned ceiling and box fans cool the rooms, while air conditioning is available in public spaces. Guests are encouraged to unplug; go outside and play! If you need internet connectivity, ultra-high-speed access is now available throughout the Meeting House facility.
Capon's Healing Waters

It wouldn't be right to talk about Capon Springs without mentioning the waters around which it was built. (The name “Capon” itself comes from the Native American language, meaning “medicine or healing waters.”) In the early 1800s, up and down the Appalachian region, many resorts like Capon Springs were first developed based on underground springs. When the popularity of these resorts began to die off in the early 1900s, Capon Springs began bottling and delivering its water up and down the East Coast. Extremely popular for its purported healing powers, it was used by the 1924 and 1928 U.S. Olympic teams in training, and in the 1930s-40s was the “official” and only water used by the entire U.S. Congress.

Guests can enjoy this natural spring water in the swimming pool and spa, and for drinking, cooking and bathing. All the water at Capon Springs comes entirely from the spring itself.

Spa

The entire essence of Capon Springs was founded on its water, so it is only natural that co-founder Lou Austin envisioned a “spa for the practice of natural healing” in its future. Opened in 2006, the Hygeia Bath House and Spa offers a variety of body treatments, from massage to facials to reflexology, but the highlight is a hot soak in the Capon water. Your aches and pains will vanish. A Wellness Room and endless pool are also housed within the Hygeia Spa. Tip: Schedule your appointments before you arrive for the best times.

Golf

The two distinct golf courses include The Golf Course at Capon Springs, a nine-hole regulation course with tees placed for golfers of all ages, and a nine-hole Par 3 course to hone your short game. Golf carts and sets of clubs are available for rent daily or for your stay; single clubs and other equipment are free.

In 2016, Capon Springs added Fling Golf. A hybrid between lacrosse and golf, this family-friendly game involves “flinging” the golf ball. 2018 welcomes the new U.S. Kids Golf Family Course layout and upgrades to the locker house. Try a round of Hickory Golf, as golf was played when the course opened in 1936, named for the sport’s original use of Hickory-Shafted clubs. Or take a lesson or clinic from resident golf professional Mike Rogers.

For more than a century, Capon Springs has served as a hidden gem, a secluded refuge from the world, yet it is less than a two-hour’s drive from Northern Virginia, and the ideal spring, summer or fall getaway for the entire family.

ON THE ICE AND OFF
Former Olympic Ice Skater Michael Weiss

On January 5, 2018, local resident and former Olympic skater Michael Weiss, 41, was elected to the U.S. Figure Skating Hall of Fame, accepting his award in a ceremony at the 2018 Prudential U.S. Figure Skating Championships in San Jose, California, surrounded by friends and family.

“When I was younger, my family traveled with me often—my mom, dad, sisters, aunts and uncles—so having them all come to the ceremony was reminiscent of my old competitive days,” Weiss said. “But since my daughter and son were younger when I was competing, they knew about the titles, but they hadn’t heard my training stories and how and why I started my foundation,” which Weiss related in his acceptance speech. Weiss resides in McLean with his wife and former choreographer Lisa and their two children, Annie Mae and Christopher.

Michael Weiss is a two-time Olympian (1998 and 2002) and two-time World bronze medalist (1999-2000), winning the U.S. men’s titles in 1999, 2000 and 2003. In 2003, as the Grand Prix Final bronze medalist, Weiss earned a top-four finish in each of his nine senior U.S. Championships. In 2000, Weiss won U.S. Figure Skating’s SKATING Magazine Reader’s Choice Award and was named USOC Athlete of the Year for figure skating.

Weiss was the first American to land a quadruple toe loop in competition (1999 World Championships). “I always wanted to push the bar technically. When competing against people like Todd Eldredge who were pushing skating artistically, I wanted to take it to another level and began trying to land the quad at age 18. When I was about 20 or 21 I could do them consistently in competition.” Weiss was also the first to do a backflip with a full twist on the ice (not allowable in competition, however).

Retiring from competing, Weiss skated in professional shows including Stars On Ice, and currently coaches hockey. His advice for local kids: “Get onto the ice and have fun.”

“Having fun is why I got involved in this sport,” he explained. “I loved the individuality, the speed I felt when on the ice, and the fact that I relied on myself. The things I learned through skating were important too, like how you had to deal with setbacks and failures in order to be successful. When I messed up, I took the blame, and when I did well, I took the praise.”

Weiss has been lucky to have a number of outstanding moments in his career. One of his favorites happened when being selected for his first Olympics team. “I was not really favored, but I had a shot at the team after winning the nationals in Philadelphia. I had been practicing the quad lutz all week, but nobody ever did it before and the judges told me I didn’t have to take the risk. But I was young, just 21, and I went for the quad as my first jump in the program. Everyone knew it would be the first time ever tried in a competition.”
“I built up speed, rotated four times, and the crowd just went crazy,” he remembered. “The hair on my arms and the back of my neck stood straight up. But I had to completely compose myself; I still had eight other jumps to do and had to land everything else. Immediately I had to refocus. I landed all the other jumps, and as I reached the final pose in the last spin, that’s when I knew I made my first Olympic team. Now when people asked me ‘Are you going to the Olympics?’ I could finally say ‘Yes.’”

LIFE AFTER COMPETITIVE SKATING

After retiring from competitive skating, Weiss has served as a figure skating commentator for NBC, ABC, Universal Sports and icenetwork. He also established the Michael Weiss Foundation that has awarded more than $850,000 in scholarship money to promising athletes to help offset costs of the sport.

“I started the Michael Weiss Foundation in 2003 to help financially support the skating careers of up and coming Olympic figure skating hopefuls,” Weiss explained. One of the skaters who benefitted was 2018 Olympic favorite Nathan Chen who wrote and said his skates were two sizes too small, and asked if the foundation could help get him new skates. “We’ve been supporting him ever since.”

Weiss was the first American to land a quadruple toe loop in competition (1999 World Championships).

“I was given a picture of Nathan at then age five doing a spiral on the ice, a position I couldn’t even hit—and I was in the Olympics! Now he does quads like I used to do triple jumps,” Weiss laughed. Among other skaters the foundation has supported are Olympians Ashley Wagner and Mirai Nagasu.

Growing up in Fairfax County, Weiss hails from a family of athletes. His father Greg was a 1964 Olympic gymnast, his mother Margie a national champion gymnast, and older sisters Geremi and Genna were a junior national silver medalist in skating and a junior world diving champion, respectively.

“When I was young, I started out as a diver, but at age nine told my mother I didn’t want to dive any more. She recommended ‘Why don’t you go with your sister to the rink.’ After seeing me skate, she said ‘You’re not the figure skating talent in the family; that belongs to your sister. Luckily being surrounded by a great coaching staff, I quickly picked it up.’

Nowadays, Weiss has his hands in several endeavors. In addition to coaching, playing indoor soccer and skating in an occasional charity event, he owns Weiss Design & Build, a custom homebuilding company. His wife Lisa owns the Wine Cellar Company that designs and builds wine cellars. He also owns and manages several rental properties in Reston.

The family plays together often, whether in their backyard basketball court, the basement synthetic skating rink or out on the soccer field. They also sing together, creating special musical tributes for Michael’s skating show routines. “It was a cool way to collaborate, with us all doing what we loved.”

“My family has been a huge part of my success and I am a stronger person when I have family around,” Weiss said. “It was wonderful to have them there at my Hall of Fame induction.”
ASK AN ADVISOR
ABOUT PICKING INVESTMENTS IN YOUR COMPANY’S 401(k)

If your company offers a 401(k) retirement plan as a benefit you may have questions about choosing your investment options. Everyone’s situation is unique, but unique doesn’t have to mean complicated or time-consuming.

In most company sponsored 401(k)’s your investment options are limited. Typically you have two options: creating a diversified portfolio from the mutual fund options available in your plan, or putting your money in a target date fund. Both options have benefits and drawbacks.

Target date funds—these are mutual funds which invest in other stock and bond mutual funds. The investment company determines the allocation to different funds based on targeted year for retirement. You can see the targeted retirement year in the name of the fund i.e. “Company 2040 Fund” which tells us that the targeted retirement is the year 2040. A target-date fund’s asset allocation will become more conservative as it approaches its objective target date. Since a target date fund is a diversified portfolio within itself, it is designed to hold 100% of your account balance.

Benefits: Target date funds are usually a good option if you have limited investment experience. It is easy to do the math and figure out what year you might want to retire in, and pick the fund that has that date in the name. Since all of your money is being held in a single fund, there is no need for you to rebalance, so this is a great “set it and forget it” option. It is important to understand that target date funds do not guarantee performance and do come with similar risk to other diversified accounts.

Drawbacks: Some target date funds are expensive. It is important to identify the expense ratio of the fund (which can be found on the fund’s information page). As a comparative data point, the average expense ratio was 0.73% across all target-date funds in 2015, according to data published by Morningstar.

Target date funds are also not the best option once you reach retirement and need to begin accessing the money. When you take distributions it is important to have the ability to choose which investments you liquidate in order to expand the longevity of your portfolio.

Creating a diversified portfolio—most company retirement plans have a list of funds that are available; with this option you choose how to allocate your money. There should be funds that invest in different types of stocks and bonds (there may even be a few that hold both). It is important to keep two general rules in mind when creating your portfolio:

Benefits: You get to choose your allocation and can make adjustment to your holdings. You also are able to choose how aggressive you want to be with your portfolio. If you want to learn about the basics of investing and are committed to spending time to review the investment selections, this is a great option.

Drawbacks: You will need to do some research on your options. Your plan’s website should have an easy way to view a page with various statistics and descriptions of each investment. You will need to focus on two things:

- Investment selection—consider the following when selecting your investments: the fund’s expense ratio (cost), strategy (goal), past performance (though not a predictor of future performance, it can give you some insight on how consistent the funds’ performance has been) and risk level.
- Allocation—regardless of how far you are from retirement, have at least some (i.e. 10%) of your investments in low-risk investments such as bonds. Keep in mind you will want to move into lower-risk investments as you near retirement, and this will be something you will need to need to manage.

In the end you are responsible for preparing yourself for retirement and picking the right investments is a vital part of that process—the more time you spend learning about your options the better.

A diversified portfolio does not assure a profit or protect against loss in a declining market. The target date of a target date fund may be a useful starting point in selecting a fund, but investors should not rely solely on the date when choosing a fund or deciding to remain invested in one. Investors should consider funds’ asset allocation over the whole life of the fund. Often target date funds invest in other mutual funds and fees may be charged by both the target date fund and the underlying mutual funds.

How to Read a Wine Label

by Linda Barrett

When selecting a bottle of wine, the first thing you notice on the shelf is the wine's label. Perhaps it’s the bright colors, or the catchy name that turns your eye. But there is so much more to a wine label than a pretty picture or a graphic logo.

There are many parts to a wine label: the wine producer, the region in which it was produced, the vintage or year produced, the grape variety or appellation, the ABV or alcohol by volume percentage, and the bottle volume. It may also list the wine type or class.

In the United States, there are strict laws on what must be shown on a wine label, a process managed by the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax and Trade Bureau (TTB). By law, U.S. wine must carry the brand name, producer’s name and address, wine type, bottle volume, the alcohol and sulfite content, and a government health warning.

BRAND NAME

The brand name typically lists the producer or vineyard, but in more recent times, a more fanciful name is used for additional marketing appeal.

PRODUCER AND BOTTLER

Many wine producers use their own name as the wine’s brand. If a different brand name or logo is used, the producer and bottler of the winery who made, or the estate, it is listed at the bottom of the label. For an Estate Bottled wine, 100% of the grapes must be grown, crushed, fermented, finished and bottled on the same property.
Wine Type and Wine Region

The type of wine, or class, is listed, such as Pinot Grigio or Cabernet Franc. Or the label could just indicate a sparkling wine or table wine. A varietal wine will list one type of grape like Sauvignon Blanc (but only 75% of the actual content is required to come from that varietal). A blend may or may not list the types of grapes.

In place of the class indication, an American Viticultural Area (AVA) title or varietal type may also be used. AVA classifications refer to the wine region in which the grapes were grown. To carry an AVA title, a minimum of 85% of the grapes must be grown within that particular AVA (or 75% for a state- or county-level AVA). For a varietal label, no less than 75% of that grape variety must be used in that wine.

Appellation refers to where the wine was made, whether it refers to an entire state, like Virginia, or a specific vineyard. For Old World labels, the terms “Appellation Controlee” or “Denominazione della Origine Controllata” refer to legally-regulated regions of wine production.

Vintage

Although not mandatory, you will most often see the year that the wine was produced. To qualify, at least 95% of the grapes must be from that vintage, or picked in that year. This is important if there was a particularly good wine made in a specific year and you want to purchase that wine again.

Alcohol Content

In the United States, if a wine contains more than 14% ABV the alcohol content must be explicitly stated. For bottles containing less than 14% ABV, options include the generic label of “table wine” or listing of the specific alcohol content. For wines with a less than 14% ABV content, there is an allowable 1.5% up or down variance, however, for wines with more than 14%, the variance drops to 1%. The actual alcohol content may differ from the label due to this variance, as ABV content of more than 14% is charged a higher excise tax by the TTB than those under. In addition, so as not to scare consumers off from higher-alcohol wines containing 15% or 15.5% ABV, these wines are often listed as 14%. Most table wines fall between 11.5% and 14.5% ABV. Wines lower in alcohol content are generally considered to be “lighter” in style.

Volume

The bottle volume may be listed in fluid ounces, liters or milliliters.

Sulfites

If a wine contains more than 10 parts per million (ppm) of sulfur dioxide, the sulfite declaration must be listed on the label. If a wine is labeled as “organic,” it must not contain any artificially-added sulfites, however, wine “made with organically-grown grapes” does contain some sulfites.

Government Health Warning

This is a mandatory label requirement for all alcoholic beverages sold in the U.S.

Sweetness Levels

Wines that contain higher residual sugar content may list on their labels classifications including Extra Brut (driest), Brut, Extra-Dry, Sec, Demi-Sec and Doux. For sweet wines, you may see the terms Dry (least sweet), Semi-Dry, Semi-Sweet and Sweet.

European Union Wine Labels

Roughly 70% of the world’s wines are produced in the 27 member states of the European Union, which as classified into two categories: PDO and PGI, additional designations you may see on a wine label.

PDO

PDO, or Protected Designation of Origin, products are “produced, processed and prepared in a given geographical area, using recognized know-how,” states the EU definition. This refers to the quality and properties that are exclusively determined by their environment, with factors whether natural or human.

PGI

PGI, or Protected Geographical Indication, defines a product that is closely linked to the geographical area in which it is produced, processed or prepared. It must also have specific qualities it can attribute to that geographical area. Some of the more respected wines fall into this category, such as those from Tuscany.

Correct Your Children’s Eye Sight Without Surgery

Did you know that you could correct your eyesight and reduce your dependence on glasses or contact lenses without having to go for eye surgery?

Most people don’t, but thanks to Orthokeratology (Ortho-K), one can wear custom molded breathable contacts while they sleep, and the lenses reshape the front surface of the cornea, allowing someone to see clearly the following day once they remove the lenses when they wake up. Vision can be improved or perfected strikingly fast, with results that are often immediate.

This is ideal for children as it can stop and reverse the progression of nearsightedness (myopia) at an early age and allow kids to live a glasses-free life.

Metro Eyes in Vienna is a huge advocate of the procedure for children and are one of the few places in Northern Virginia where Ortho-K is offered. Both Dr. Joanna Barnett and Dr. Linh Hoang-Braley are big proponents of this and hope more children and their parents learn of what a difference it can make.

“Ortho-K has been around since the 1960s but doctors didn’t really grasp the concept because it was daytime wearing and material that was not very breathable, but in the ’90s they started to realize materials were better and more breathable, and it started to take off,” Hoang-Braley says. “Doctors realized this was a game changer for kids because they could slow down the myopia progression in their eyes.”

The country is currently facing a myopic epidemic with children, with approximately 45 percent of kids facing myopia. Those with parents who have myopia are particularly vulnerable.

“If we can capture kids in their growing years—kids 8-11—and slow down their progression or even halt their progression, we can make a huge difference,” Hoang-Braley says. “We decided to get involved with Orthokeratology because we’ve been seeing a lot of kids in our practice with the problem and we wanted to get on board with this technique so they are not wearing thick glasses when they are 15.”

Metro Eyes is touting this procedure for kids because of how big a problem myopia is on the younger generation and they have seen it make a drastic difference in the lives of its younger patients.

“Because of electronics, I think we are seeing people come in younger and younger and they need glasses sooner and sooner,” Barnett says. “Certain ethnic groups also have more prevalence for nearsightedness and their parents are very concerned.”

Consider a young swimmer who needs to wear contacts when they swim or a soccer player who needs glasses to see on the field. Orthokeratology makes the need for contacts and glasses a thing of the past for these kids, and they can partake in their sport without relying on anything but their 20-20 eyes.

“They need to wear the contacts every night, putting them in before they go to sleep, they take them out when they wake up and they can see all day,” Barnett says. “If they don’t wear them every night, it would regress.”

Ortho-K can be used by adults as well, especially wannabe pilots or those who want to get certain positions in the military, whose eyesight is holding them back.

“It may take a little longer with adults, but it will work,” Hoang-Braley says. “And it’s reversible. People don’t have to worry like going into surgery where it’s permanent.”

Barnett noted that those who are super nearsighted are also at a higher risk for retinal detachments and glaucoma, and this is another way to decrease that.

For those interested, a visit to Metro Eyes and a comprehensive examination is required, and corneal maps of the eyes are done, creating a custom-made lens. The patient sleeps with the lens and comes in for follow-up visits to ensure everything is healthy and going well. The lenses should last about a year.

“It is a commitment and we do ask that the parents are on the same team to go through the process with the kids,” Hoang-Braley said. “We are excited to be on this adventure with the kids and want to benefit from the freedom of not needing glasses.”

Ask Dr. Dima about Genevieve

WellMedica would like to introduce the latest technology in non-surgical vaginal rejuvenation. It is called the Genevieve—and it is a clinically proven treatment that is revolutionizing feminine wellness as we know it. Currently it is used in 52 different countries around the world and has benefited thousands of women improving their health and quality of life.

What is the Genevieve?

Excessive stretching of the vaginal muscles is a common occurrence after vaginal birth or due to aging. Therefore, many have sought out different treatment options to help get their bodies back. The Genevieve does all this and more. This treatment uses clinically-proven cryogen-cooled monopolar radiofrequency (CMRF) to uniformly deliver gentle volumetric heating while cooling delicate surface tissue. This unique technology stimulates the body’s natural collagen formation process.

What to expect?

The Genevieve treatment is a comfortable, single-session, 30-minute treatment performed by a trained healthcare professional in an outpatient setting. During the visit, Dr. Dima uses a small treatment tip (about the size of your thumb) which is then inserted into the vaginal opening. The tip is then rotated while it alternately cools the surface and heats the soft tissue beneath. Women typically begin to feel the results at about 30 days and the full effect at about 90 days. Depending on how you respond, we may recommend a touch up treatment every year or as you see fit.

Is there any downtime?

During this treatment the vaginal tissue swells slightly. It is recommended that patients abstain from intercourse for 48 hours, although resuming other normal activities right after receiving treatment is acceptable. This includes exercise and bathing.

What does the Genevieve treat?

Vaginal tissue ages over time. With age and childbirth, certain symptoms can occur such as vaginal dryness, urinary incontinence, sexual dysfunction, vaginal pain, air passing from the vagina, less satisfaction with intercourse, and increased self-consciousness. All of these symptoms are easily treatable with the Genevieve and we have seen amazing results with our patients and around the world. In fact, 90% of the women who had the procedure in clinical studies, reported significant, sustained tightening, sensation, satisfaction and noticeably reduced bladder incontinence 12 months after treatment!

What makes the Genevieve different?

Traditional invasive surgical procedures are expensive, can have a long and extremely painful recovery time and carry significant risk. Genevieve is non-invasive, painless, discreet, safe and very effective.

The Lowdown on Highlights
By Analiese Kreutzer

Highlights add dimension, depth and brightness to hair. If you want to know the latest trends and techniques, how to care for your highlights, or if you’ve never had them and don’t know where to start, we can help. We talked to Tania Ferrel-Saldana, American Board Certified Haircolorist and founder of Colour Bar Studio in Tysons, to find out the facts about highlighting.

THE TECHNIQUES

Instead of changing your hair color using an all-over, one-color process, highlights add color only to sections of hair. They can be placed all over, used to frame your face or to accent aspects of your haircut. Today, salons offer two types of highlighting, foils and balayage.

With foil highlights, the colorist takes a thin section of hair, lays it on a piece of foil, paints the section with color and folds the foil over to keep the section separate from the rest of the hair. The heat induction provided by the foil also helps the lightener lift the color higher. Foil highlights lighten hair from the root to the end, which leaves a clear line of regrowth, so you need to go in for a touch up every six to eight weeks.

One variation on foil highlights is babylights, which uses very small sections of hair—sometimes just a few strands. Another option using foils is a combination of highlights and lowlights to lighten some sections while adding richer, darker hues to others.

Balayage is a freehand technique that is applied on the surface of a section of hair starting about an inch from the roots and getting thicker as it reaches the ends of the hair. The highlights are less systematically placed and result in a softer, more natural look.

“Balayage is a lot more freehand and customized,” said Ferrel-Saldana. “It also takes less time to do it, and it needs less maintenance since the regrowth isn’t as noticeable.”

THE TRENDS

Ferrel-Saldana said a lot of clients are asking for the tiger eye look. Like the tiger eye gemstone, this style features a soft mix of rich brown, golden and bright hues.

The ombre trend—an all-over style of darker hair at the crown that gets lighter or changes to a different color toward the ends, resulting in hair that looks like it has been dipped in color—has sparked a softer version called sombre, where the color change is more subtle.

Sometimes getting the look you want means mixing techniques, such as adding some babylights along with balayage.

CONSULT WITH A PROFESSIONAL

With all the different techniques, it’s important to go to a good hair colorist with training and experience to guide you. Certified hair colorists go through some pretty intense training, and they not only know how to match color to your skin tone, but they know how to mix formulas to suit your hair’s porosity and texture.

Kits purchased in the store to use at home are one-size-fits-all solutions, so the color and formulations aren’t customized for your hair. You may not get the right shade, and you can damage your hair because the products are much harsher than those used in the salon. Of course, even with a friend helping you, it’s very hard to apply highlights like a professional.

“We do a lot of fixing,” said Ferrel-Saldana. “The products used at home are more damaging, and most people don’t have the expertise to get the look they want. We do at least one color correction every day. As a hairdresser, you use products that are best for the hair, because your name is on that hair.”

Ferrel-Saldana stresses the importance of having a consultation with your colorist. She suggests bringing in pictures of looks you like to show your stylist what you want. “If you go to a salon and they don’t give you a consultation, you should leave,” she said. “You should always have a consultation so you and your stylist know your expectations. I think a lot of mistakes by hairdressers are because there’s not enough communication.”

CARING FOR YOUR HIGHLIGHTS

“I always suggest that after you get highlights, you get a protein treatment or even Olaplex,” said Ferrel-Saldana. “Protein will give it strength, and Olaplex helps restore hair from the inside out to strengthen, condition and reconnect the hair strand structure.

“When you get highlights, you remove a lot of color, so you put a lot of stress on the hair. I always follow up with highlights with a moisturizer and tell clients to condition their hair every time they shampoo.”

Ferrel-Saldana recommends Kerastase and Oribe products. Oribe offers a whole line of very high quality, high performance hair care products. Ferrel-Saldana puts together customized Kerastase kits for her clients that treat hair for four weeks after applying color.

Before you highlight, find photos of results you like, take them with you when you consult with a professional to find the right technique and shades for you, and keep your highlights looking their best by restoring protein and moisture to your hair.

Dieting is not something anyone looks forward to these days. Nowadays, with readily available apps that can pick up your favorite junk foods from anywhere, it comes as no surprise that the apps people are more likely to use are apps for ordering favorite foods and not apps necessarily for dieting. Well, believe it or not, dieting apps do exist—and they can actually work to help you lose weight.

Research from Northwestern Memorial Hospital shows that people can lose weight from dieting apps alone and can also keep that weight off—in the study, the people who used the dieting apps to lose weight kept the weight off for an entire year. If diabetes and potential heart disease can be avoided by keeping your weight in check, then you have nothing to lose when it comes to using a daily dieting app to keep track of your health and manage your weight; especially since it works if you can get yourself to commit to using them.

Looking for some suggestions on where to start when it comes to navigating the world of dieting apps? Well, the apps below are tried and true and have settings that help you diet by using simple tracking methods or incentives such as cash to increase the rewards center in your brain to keep you going strong.

PACT: This app comes for free on both iPhone and Android. Not only does this app track your calories, but it also motivates you by giving you cash if you can keep to your weekly goals. However, if you do not you will have to pay a fee, so the accountability is there with this app. To use this app, you will need a PayPal account and to become a member. The idea is that you set up a weekly pact to meet your exercise goals and you verify this by allowing GPS access from the app to verify your login at a gym or to show your motion detector if you only work out from home.

I do not think anyone likes to lose money, so this makes this a great motivational dieting app if you getting rewards makes you want to try harder and stay committed.

Lose It!: this app comes free on both iPhone and android. The essence of this app is a daily food calorie diary, which you do by logging in every piece of food that you eat. The great thing about this app is that it will find the food for you to log in based on your searches—even restaurant menus—and give you every piece on nutritional information about it, thus at the end of the day, notifying you of how many calories you have consumed for the day. The app tells you how much you should be consuming daily to stay at a specific weight or to lose weight. You will see a bar graph showing you how many calories you have left for the rest of the day; search something up to eat with those remainder calories on the app and you will notice how many options (even healthier ones) you can choose from to consume that meet your requirement goals. You can also use their Snap! feature that logs food by a simple photo upload.

My Diet Coach: this app comes free on both iPhone and android. This app takes a quirky take on dieting and brings the fun of ‘apps’ to how it works. You can create your avatar with this app and earn rewards for it such as clothing along with other virtual rewards for good behavior with your eating patterns. You can also record your body measurements on the avatar for your neck, waist, etc. and add photos too along with inspirational quotes to help you get to your target weight loss. And, if you are ever experiencing a panic moment where you feel you want to eat something but that it will mess up your calorie count for the day, the “panic button” feature, where you can type in what kind of craving you are experiencing, will give you tips on how to avoid the craving.
You don’t always get the results they expected from cosmetic surgery, which can leave you disheartened, especially when you have to spend more time and money to change the outcome. You need to take a proactive role in your procedure from start to finish, because there are things you can do to prevent or resolve disappointing results. Dr. Christopher Knotts of Austin-Weston, The Center for Cosmetic Surgery shared some stories about what can go wrong and what patients can do to ensure the best possible outcome.

Prevent a Minor Complication from Becoming Something Bigger

A woman came to Dr. Knotts several years after returning to her native South America for a tummy tuck. He noticed right away that her incision was quite high.

“The incision was halfway between her underwear and the belly button. Normally, we try to put it low, where it hides under underwear,” Knotts said. However, the patient’s main complaint was a feeling of fullness in her upper abdomen. When she pushed on it, it felt like a water balloon. She knew something was wrong. She just didn’t know what.

The patient had a seroma—a collection of fluid under the skin—which is a very common complication following any type of liposuction. During follow-up visits after surgery, a doctor usually recognizes this complication, and drains the fluid with a needle.

“If it’s not diagnosed, and it sits in there for years, your body will heal different, so you need to get advice about what is best for you. We have an abundance of plastic surgeons in our area, so make appointments for a couple consultations. If the medspa and two doctors all say you would benefit from the same procedure, then that probably is what you need. But if there’s disagreement, dig deeper. Ask them why they think you’re a good or bad candidate for a certain procedure and what the alternatives are.

Once you’ve identified the right procedure, have it done somewhere that specializes in what you want. They are more likely to know how to get the best results and will be more familiar with typical complications from the procedure. Don’t be afraid to ask the surgeon about how much experience he or she has with the particular procedure you’re considering and discuss the plan for your procedure. Poorly planned cosmetic surgery often results in visible scars.

Find the Right Practitioner

An unusual complication that Dr. Knotts has seen twice in the last year was infected filler. In both cases, the patients—who didn’t know each other—had gone to Thailand for their procedures. “Once you have something foreign in your body that’s infected, it will never resolve as long as there is something foreign present,” he said. Not only did the patients need antibiotics for six months, but the filler had to be removed. “Luckily, it was dissolvable, but it took five or six sessions of dissolving to get rid of it all.”

Finding an experienced, qualified and highly rated practitioner is the best thing you can do for yourself when considering any sort of procedure. Start by checking with friends and family members for recommendations. If you know several people who recommend a certain practice or doctor who they liked and had good results with, then you meet and feel comfortable with the doctor, then your work is done.

Don’t worry about insulting a doctor by getting a second opinion. They understand. It’s part of their business. Not only can it help you know you’re getting the right procedure, but it’s important for you to feel comfortable with your surgeon. Dr. Knotts recommends asking yourself, “If I had a problem—because anyone can have a problem—is this the person I’d want taking care of me?”

If you’re having a noninvasive procedure that doesn’t require a doctor, know that different states have different licensing and oversight regulations, and they change frequently. Check our reviews online, ask the practice about their state certifications and check with your state or local agencies about any complaints against the business.

If you are using a doctor, check that your doctor is certified by a board recognized by the American Board of Medical Specialties (ABMS). The ABMS recognizes a small subset of boards with strict standards such as the American Board of Plastic Surgery (ABPS), the American Board of Dermatology and others. The ABPS is the only plastic surgery or cosmetic surgery organization in the United States recognized by the ABMS. You can verify your surgeon’s board certification by visiting www.abplasurg.org.

Even if you’re having an in-office procedure, check that your surgeon has operating privileges in an accredited hospital for the same procedure you’re considering. Hospital review committees evaluate a surgeon’s training and competency for specific procedures before they grant operating privileges.

If you’re thinking about having plastic surgery, doing your homework and advocating for yourself can ensure that you’re getting the right procedure and the best care that will get you the results you’re looking for.

Stars and Swipes

Spring flings in feminine pieces...

Whether you’re swiping right in hopes of finding that Mr. Right or already have a beau, these flirty style tips will have you feeling extra cute on date night or day romps.

A few spring trends to try out this year are: skin revealing sheer fabrics; the beautiful and feminine shade of lavender; and pastels that evoke feel-good memories of sidewalk chalk and ice cream on sunny days. Although, rich brights are equally in for spring, and pairing a jewel tone with a pastel can be gorgeous.

And, not that we must ever wait for what’s "in" to rock what makes us happy, but florals seem to always be "in" one way or another, whether its ditsy prints or oversized boldness. Wear them in a clean and classic, minimalist way or spliced and mix ‘n’ matched...you really can’t go wrong.

The same goes for stars and shimmer. Whether these are on the trend list or not, when do these not inspire comments of oos and ahhs and "oh my goodness, cuuute, where did you get that?!". Sparkle equals joy in my book.

Now get out there and have fun with this style inspo and have a happy spring!

How does Hair Growth Scalp Micro Needling Work

By Nuha Handoush
Licensed LME
Clinician, Medical Laser Technician
at Astoria Laser Clinic & Med Spa

Stimulate Cellular Activity in the Hair Follicle to regrow Hair by Needling the Scalp. 50% of men and 33% of women suffer from hair loss. This is a progressive disease that may affect patient’s confidence, self-esteem, job opportunities, and personal relationships. Traditional non-invasive treatments require patients to take drugs or use topical medications, such as Propecia or Minoxidil, every day for the rest of their life. More invasive treatments like Transplants require a costly and painful surgery.

Scalp Needling with infusion of a growth factor increases cellular activity to heal the dying hair follicles, resulting in thicker, fuller, healthier looking hair. This procedure activates the body’s wound healing response. The theory goes that this response could be utilized to reverse alopecia, the male pattern hair loss. After 12 weeks patients will see a change in the baseline hair count.

Patient self-assessment of hair growth found that wound healing opened an embryonic window of opportunity within, which dormant molecular pathways were awakened.

How long is too long? The shelf life on different beauty products can vary. Here are some guidelines for different cosmetics that may be in your makeup drawer.

MASCARA—mascara should be tossed after three months. Bacteria begins to multiply and it’s just not worth risking an eye infection.

FOUNDATIONS—liquid foundations expire after about one year, cream foundations are good for up to 18 months. Why risk getting breakouts, a rash, or other skin issues?

POWDER PRODUCTS—blushes, eyeshadows, bronzers, and setting powders have a two year shelf life before it’s time to say goodbye. Yes parting can be such sweet sorrow but just think about the excitement of getting the latest trends in your replacement makeup!

CREAM BLUSHES AND EYESHADOW—these products don’t have as long a shelf life as their powder counterparts, only lasting 12-18 months. Something to consider when investing in your cosmetics.

GEL LINER—these eyeliners should be kept no longer than three months, for the same reason as mascara. When it comes to your eyes it’s just not worth the risk!

LIPSTICKS AND GLOSSES—lipsticks last about one year. If you refrigerate your lipsticks you can extend their shelf life. Glosses can last up to two years!

Besides replacing makeup in a timely manner, I recommend wiping down your products with alcohol from time to time. Cleaning the bottles and tubes keeps them sanitary. We handle our makeup daily and the dirt and oils can build up on the containers and that transfers to our face during application.

Keeping brushes clean is also important. Washing them thoroughly with a gentle cleanser on a monthly basis is good sanitary practice and it will extend the life of your brushes. Brushes collect dirt and oil and can cause skin irritations and/or breakouts. I love SHANY Detox Professional Brush Cleaner! It’s gentle, paraben free, and works well on natural hair as well as synthetic brushes.

Spring is the perfect time to assess your products and decide what needs to be thrown away and replaced. As a makeup artist I understand the importance of keeping the makeup area and products clean and sanitary, not only for my personal makeup collection but especially for my professional makeup kit. I recommend my clients do the same. I hope these guidelines help!

The gradual wasting away of the body over the course of decades is not a necessary or normal component of aging. Rather, it is the natural outcome of a lifetime of unenlightened choices. Through unhealthy choices you may actually function and be aging biologically at the same level as someone 15-20 years older. The question is how can you be one of those people who function and age biologically at a level equivalent to someone who is many years younger than you?

The answer can be found at Longevity Wellness Centers with a Preventive-Aging Consultation. Longevity Wellness Centers offers a number of consultative levels:

Youthful Hormone Replenishment

We age, in part, because our hormones decline. Hormones regulate cellular functions and genetic expression. You were the healthiest when hormones were at optimal levels in your youthful prime. It is only when hormones decline and synthetic hormones are introduced to the body that we see problems. Replenishing a youthful balance with natural bioidentical hormones can restore youthful vitality and delay many aging-related health problems.

This service level provides a comprehensive assessment of your hormone blood levels and related medical history, with individualized recommendations for optimum hormone replenishment. One-on-one physician consultation and instruction covers all aspects of safe hormone replenishment, specific for you.

Other Services Include:

- Weight loss plan which includes HCG, appetite suppressant and counseling. $300.00/month
- Botox, Dermal Fillers and Latisse
- Body Fat Analysis
- Breast Cancer Screening
- Bioidentical Hormone Replacement Therapy
Hormone Replenishment and Nutritional Lifestyle

Obesity is the fastest growing health problem in the U.S. Managing a healthy weight becomes increasingly difficult as we age, and most diets fail because they are not individualized to your needs. This consultation adds a comprehensive nutritional lifestyle evaluation to the hormone replenishment service described on the opposite page.

A detailed assessment and computer analysis of your current nutritional lifestyle, and a body fat analysis provide the basis for a customized dietary program to achieve your goals. One-on-one physician consultation and instruction covers all aspects of safe hormone replenishment and optimal nutrition, specific for you.

Comprehensive Preventive-Aging Program

Patients typically describe the Longevity Wellness Centers Comprehensive Preventive-Aging Program as a “life-changing experience.” It is a total body, mind, and spirit approach to wellness. A custom life-plan is created to personally guide your journey to functionally age at a level equivalent to someone many years younger than your chronological age, and replenish your youthful vitality.

Pricing

Initial comprehensive assessment for the Hormone & Weight Loss Programs is $475.00 which includes history evaluation, laboratory analysis and initial visit.

30-minute brief consultation for $125.00 can be applied to the $475 fee for the Hormone & Weight Loss Program when you sign up.

Annual retainer fee for the Comprehensive Preventive-Aging Program $1,200.00* includes quarterly/semi-annual office visits, email and phone consultations as needed, treatment plan adjustment and monitoring.

*(Note that the prices provided above do not include the cost of lab tests or prescriptions. These costs are usually covered by your insurance carrier depending on your coverage minus your co-pay to the pharmacy and laboratory.)

Terra Christa Offers Inspirational Healing

There’s a building on Church Street in Vienna that people visit each day, and as soon as they walk in its doors, a feeling of calmness comes over most, and the stress of their lives seem to fade away.

Bridging religion and spirituality, allopathic and holistic therapies, as well as providing a haven for those in need to receive counseling or guidance, Terra Christa provides the perfect atmosphere for those interested in a more mindful or spiritual life.

The store is owned by Mary Ruth Van Landingham and run by her daughter Michele Barlock and a team of spiritual individuals who are there to guide people on a more peaceful journey in their lives.

The origins of Terra Christa begin in 1988, when the business first opened on Fenwick Island in Delaware, with the idea of providing a resource for the metaphysical community at a time where there were so few options available to learn and heal.

“A lot of people come to Terra Christa on the same path, already being spiritual in nature but more on an organized standpoint and feeling there was something more,” Barlock says. “My mom stumbled upon this little rock shop, and they decided to sell and they reached out to her. She was one of the first people, 30 years ago, to bring a spiritual nature into the community.”

The summer-only store became so popular, that Van Landingham decided to move it to a larger location in Vienna on Maple Ave. It eventually moved again, to its current home at 130 Church St., and now offers six rooms featuring a blend of nurturing products and people willing to share their knowledge and experience to help shed some light on the path.

“We welcome people from all walks to come in and support them,” Barlock says. “The thing we hear every day is that the energy just feels so good here and we have a great vibe. Sometimes people say they come in just to ‘breathe the air.’”

The staff enjoys helping people and educating them about the spiritual journey, and can point them to the best crystals, books, oils, music or other items that can give them the peace of mind they seek.

“The store is really known for the amount of crystals and minerals we have. We have hundreds of different varieties and people are so intrigued by the vibrational property of them,” Barlock says. “A phrase we hear all the time is, ‘what crystal would be good for someone who’s (fill in blank)? It could be sad or stressed. They just want that thing that they can hold on to that’s simple but powerful to them.”

The customer base for Terra Christa ranges from millennials to those over 60, though a majority of them are in the 30-50 range.

“We have such a huge retention. We even have customers who have been coming to the store since Fenwick Island, and that’s 30 years ago,” Barlock says. “We have customers whose kids are now coming in because they came in when they were little. There’s such a love and loyalty with our customers.”

She understands that people are skeptical sometimes but notes that much of what she does is backed by scientific research and major hospitals have programs devoted to Reiki and many of these services.

“I tell people to go look it up. If people are questioning why the crystals work, it has to do with vibration. There is too much information that scientifically backs the use of oils and crystals,” she says. “We have conversations and expand people’s knowledge so people can go to it on their own.”

Terra Christa also offers healing services such as Reiki, psychic readings and intuitive readings, and these healing sessions bring into balance any misaligned energy, which promotes healing. Some sessions involve the use of crystals and gemstones to enhance the stream of energy.

“We teach traditional, Usui Reiki and more,” Barlock says. “Someone can call and make an appointment for any of the services we offer. We’ll talk through it and find what’s best for them.”

The store also presents a wide variety of classes to bring people the latest on healing techniques and other information that will assist them as they move forward on a spiritual path. It offers reading and counseling-based services and offer healing, therapeutic services.

“When you want to help someone, sometimes a Hallmark card just doesn’t cut it,” Barlock says. “You want to give something special that has meaning and has a purpose and is going to support them. Terra Christa provides that in a lot of different ways.”

Merle Norman Cosmetic Studios have been independently owned and operated since 1931.
Just steps away from the Greensboro Metro Station along the new Silver Line, adjacent to Route 7, Westpark and Greensboro Drives, the innovative mixed-use residential, retail, entertainment, and office environment captures the spirit of a true downtown experience.

In its initial phase, approximately 700 luxury units across four buildings, as well as 223,000 square feet of destination retail and culinary attractions, will join the vibrant, ever-changing landscape of Tysons.

“After we closed our financing in the summer of last year, we are continuing with our construction activities,” says Caroline S. Flax, senior analyst with the Meridian Group. “On Boro Tower, a 437,000-square-foot trophy office building designed by Gensler, we are several floors out of the ground, and we are almost complete with the residential podium, and the three towers will become distinct soon. In the meantime, we are working on our retail and office leasing, bringing together the tenants that will build this neighborhood.”

The entire site is a walkable urban environment, creating a “live-work-play” neighborhood where one can walk from Greensboro Metro Station to their office, take a walk through the park and down Boro Place, all with street-activating retail. Employees could walk to work from their apartment, and grab coffee in the morning, and grab groceries on the way home, all without leaving the Boro.

In short, the Boro is a premier example of a new, urbanized Tysons.

“It orients activity around the Metro, creating a true mixed-use neighborhood in a typically office or residential market,” Flax says. “The Boro will be the go-to spot for tenants in the surrounding office areas to come and grab lunch or a beer after work, giving employees in the area more options and entertainment.”
The residences will be luxury units with a full-service amenity package, including a fitness center and rooftop decks.

Verse, the condo building, will have a 24-hour concierge, an entertainment lounge, reserved parking, and swimming pool.

“Sales begin for the condos in a few months,” Flax says. “All three residential projects will share a half-acre sky park that will have a central kitchen and bar, grills, outdoor space for lounging and dining, and fire pits. All the luxuries residents are looking for with spectacular views.”

Additionally, Boro Tower, a Gensler-designed office building, and a luxury, 15-screen ShowPlace ICON Theatre will overlook the expansive Boro Park, which will feature amphitheater seating, outdoor tables and chairs, and water features open to the public. It will be a central hub of the project, and between the park and Boro Place we will have the capacity to hold large-scale events that will bring activity to the project year-round.

Boro Tower will boast 9 to 10-foot ceiling heights, an expansive rooftop terrace and panoramic views from the Blue Ridge Mountains to downtown Washington.

Already announced, Tegna will be moving its headquarters and will lease the top floors of Boro Tower, approximately 46,205 of the building’s 440,000 square feet. The anchor tenant is comprised of a dynamic portfolio of media and digital businesses, including 46 television stations, and G/O Digital.

Joining the arrivals will be a 70,000-square-foot flagship Whole Foods Market, the largest in the DC area.

“The neighborhood goes above and beyond in providing the life to the project,” Flax says. “With tenants like Alarm.com, M.C. Dean, and Booz Allen Hamilton—who already have a large presence in Tysons—all within walking distance, they will provide life to the project by taking advantage of our retailers during the day and once the work day is over.”

Aspects of the project will be open as early as later this year, with Whole Foods Market and ShowPlace ICON opening in summer 2019.

Flax notes that whether one craves streetscapes, pedestrian-friendly roadways, public green spaces, or a curated selection of first-class entertainment, dining, and shopping, they will find it all at The Boro.
What’s Affecting the Real Estate Market in 2018?

As we enter another busy home buying and selling season, it is important to know what is going on in the marketplace. What’s influencing buyers? How is the Realtor business changing? What implications does the new tax bill have on home owners?

Tax Reform Implications

The biggest topic of discussion is the new tax reform bill and its changes to home ownership. Some of the most important changes to tax laws include (check with your tax consultant/accountant):

- A reduction in the amount of allowable interest deduction on mortgage amounts to $750,000 (including second homes, yachts, etc.) This only applies to mortgages borrowed after December 14, 2017; mortgages prior to that date are grandfathered in.
- Preservation of the deduction for second homes to the combined $750,000 cap
- Elimination of the deduction for home equity loans
- Limitation of state and local taxes (SALT) to a $10,000 household limit per return
- Reduction in estate taxes
- Elimination of the alimony payment deduction, however, taxes on alimony received have been eliminated (making it easier to afford a mortgage)
- Doubling of the standard deduction from $6,350 to $12,000 (individuals) and from $12,700 to $24,000 (couples.)

While this new standard deduction may provide higher benefits to some, it can also reduce the financial incentives for renters to purchase a home.

Realtor Industry Changes

“Virtual reality is the future of real estate,” said Ryan Conrad, CEO of the Northern Virginia Association of Realtors. Already in use are 3D, 360-degree, and drone-enabled photography and videography that can offer a virtual visit in and around a home and its neighborhood, virtual staging technology, and drone mapping.

Newly developed, the ability to “walk through” a home via Google Glass or a video can greatly assist Realtors in narrowing down the number of homes a client will actually want to visit. Google Glass is a tiny computer/camera worn around the head that enables a real estate agent to video chat while offering a live tour of a property, for up to nine others. It works through Google+ Hangout technology and allows hands-free voice or video calls directly from the Realtor’s point of view while they are in the home. Those connected are able to ask questions or request that the Realtor show them specific areas of the home or grounds.

Professionalism is also at the forefront of the Realtor experience, as traditional realty companies compete with low-commission and online firms. Personalized services and more interaction through social media and feedback sites will increase. Visual methods of marketing will take preference, and online advertising, such as sponsored Facebook ads, will become more prevalent.

Housing Trends

Home sales going into 2018 are still slow, attributed largely to the lack of inventory and new construction. But with interest rates remaining extremely competitive at below 5%, home prices rising only a fraction, and rents reporting sky-high, it is still an excellent time to buy.

“One trend we’re seeing is a move toward high-density, mixed-use, amenity-rich communities,” said Eric Maribojoc, Executive Director of the Center for Real Estate Entrepreneurship, George Mason University. Already, communities like this are springing up in Tysons, Reston, the Mosaic District, and Fairfax Circle that combine residential living with grocery and service providers.

Older people are also moving back into more urban areas, especially within the Boomer population. Instead of migrating to retirement villages as they downsize, many are looking for the convenience of a walkable community in “smart growth,” urban centers. For those who wish to remain in their homes, remodeling and upgrading their homes for aging in place is rising in popularity.

Another trend is for Accessory Dwelling Units (ADU), sometimes known as “granny flats,” generally used as rentals. These are separate structures, or units within an existing home, that have their own entrance, living space, kitchen, bathroom and utilities, with the property owner required to also reside on the same lot. "There is a demand for more affordable housing in high-priced areas," Maribojoc added. In November 2017, Arlington County adopted revisions to its legislation to remove limitations previously in place and increase opportunities for residents to add accessory dwellings.

A third trend noted by Maribojoc are e-lofts, where former office spaces are transformed into flexible, mixed-use, live-and-work apartments and office suites, as in the newly-opened e-lofts by Delta Associates in Alexandria.

Shifts in the Buyer/Seller Population

“One market segment that is really going to make a difference is the younger population,” reported S. Scott Avery, president of AveryHess Realtors in his market report seminar held in January. While the Baby Boomers aren’t downsizing and are staying in the workplace longer, the younger generations like the Millennials and Centennials (Gen Z) have surpassed them in numbers. They are graduating college, establishing families, and looking to purchase their own homes. According to Realtor.com, “Millennials could make up 43% of home buyers by taking out a mortgage by the end of 2018.”

The ideal of owning a home continues to be the American Dream. And with sales of existing homes, new construction, and revitalization continuing, along with highly-desirable mortgage rates, we should see continued growth in 2018.
Our real estate market is the envy of the nation. So, it comes as no surprise that so many of our area Realtors are celebrated in national magazines and newspapers for their accomplishments and dedication to the industry. Here are a few for your consideration.

There’s nothing like the sweet, sticky, amber-colored goodness of pure maple syrup over a steaming stack of pancakes. Especially in late February and March, when maple syrup harvests take place in our region.

“When the forecast is for freezing nights and warm, thawing days, you get out and tap. It has to do with the atmospheric pressure in the tree.” A tree can have up to four taps, depending on the tree size.

“Maple is part of our economy here; producers are still on their family farms doing it as a serious seasonal business ranging from a few dozen taps to more than 20,000 on a property,” Ware said. During Somerset’s Maple Weekend Taste and Tour, visitors can visit sugar camps to learn about the history, watch tree tapping and syrup making, and sample products for free.

“We are known in Somerset County for our taffy treat we call “spotza” that is thickened maple syrup poured over crushed ice to make gooey taffy, our burnt sugar gobs (like whoopee pies), and burnt sugar cake that is even available in local grocery stores,” he said proudly. “But go outside this county and nobody has ever heard of these; we have our own unique vernacular here.

History of Maple Harvesting

It is said that the American Indian first made maple syrup. They used a sloping cut, or gash, two inches deep and 2.5 inches long in the maple tree. A knife or wood chip was inserted into the gash, allowing the sap to flow down it into a ground receptacle made from bark caulked with pitch, or hollowed-out logs.

By 1765, settlers changed the Indian’s style of tapping. They trimmed off the bark, chopped a ¾-deep hole into the trunk and inserted a sloping trough that funneled the sap to a

Maple Syrup, Anyone?

Travel to Pennsylvania’s Maple Festivals

There’s nothing like the sweet, sticky, amber-colored goodness of pure maple syrup over a steaming stack of pancakes. Especially in late February and March, when maple syrup harvests take place in our region.

When you think of maple, you most likely envision Vermont or Canada. But did you know that maple production flourishes in Pennsylvania? It is the fifth largest producer, and well worth a weekend excursion.

“Historically, the maple history here in Somerset County goes back to the 1760s, to now four and five generations of maple producers,” said Mark Ware, executive director of the Somerset Historical Center that features reproductions of three maple sugar camps from the 1860s to modern times to show how trees are and were tapped for what they locally call “sugar water.”

“Since there is only 2% sugar in the sugar water, you can’t tell it’s sweet until you boil it down. It takes 40 gallons of sugar water boiled down and condensed to make one gallon of syrup,” Ware explained. Trees with the highest sugar content are the sugar maples, or hard maples, followed by the red, or soft, maples. And harvesting relies on Mother Nature.

spile (spout) into the receptacle. Boring holes began around 1774. Originally made of wood, the spiles were then created from galvanized cast iron, eventually transitioning to metal spiles and buckets. Plastic tubing has been used since 1965 to vacuum the sap more efficiently to a gathering vat or storage tank.

Sugarmakers boil the sap, watching carefully. As it thickens, it gets hotter, and is ready when it reaches 7 degrees above the boiling point of water. Left longer, it crystalizes, eventually becoming like granular sugar. The finished maple syrup is filtered and put into containers for sale or made into other treats like ice cream, candy or jelly. Pure and all-natural, it is ideal for enjoying on ice cream, barbecue, steamed rice or vegetables, and of course, pancakes, waffles and French toast.

There are a number of ways you can experience maple firsthand through farm tours, festivals, tree-tapping demonstrations and samplings.

Visit Maple Farms

Tioga County, in northern central Pennsylvania, is one of the most popular destinations for maple products and production. Stop at Brookfield Maple Products, an organic maple producer and Pennsylvania’s largest maple producer Patterson Maple Farms, known for its syrups and product line.

Visits to Loch’s Maple and Fiber in the Endless Mountains region of Northeastern Pennsylvania showcase the production of the product used for their popular syrups, candies and signature “Maple Popcorn.”

Bring the family to Indiana, PA’s Andy’s Own Pure Maple Syrup, a fourth-generation family business producing maple syrup for more than 50 years. Each spring, more than 200 gallons of syrup are extracted from more than 700 local trees, using a blend of modern equipment and traditional values to make some of the best maple syrup around.

Enjoy Maple Festivals

The majority of Pennsylvania’s maple festivals take place from the late February into early spring.

The free, self-guided Maple Weekend Taste and Tour (March 10) hosted by the Somerset County Maple Producers Association includes 16 sugar camps where visitors can learn about syrup production and traditions and sample maple products.

The Pennsylvania Maple Festival takes place March 17-18 and 21-25 in the Laurel Highlands, culminating at the annual festival in Meyersdale, also known as “Maple City USA.” This festival features a variety of family-friendly activities including maple syrup production, sugar camp, demonstrations, living history, live entertainment, children’s activities and a tractor show. Don’t miss the Grand Feature Parade (Sat, March 1), Lions Club pancake breakfasts (March 16-17, 21-24) and the “Legend of the Magic Water,” historical pageant brought to life by more than 100 local residents to depict the discovery and history of maple syrup (March 17, 23, 24).

Camp Elder holds its Mount Hope Maple Madness event (February 24 and March 3, 9 to noon), featuring a pancake breakfast, crafts vendors, and an outdoors maple sugaring experience from tapping to the creation of the sweet, pure syrup.

Where pumpkin spice might be the craze in the fall, maple is the most-searched for term this time of year. Move over pumpkin, maple is poised to be the next big thing! ✶

Highland Maple Festival

For a taste of maple in Virginia, visit the Highland Maple Festival in Monterey (March 10-11, 17-18). Designated a “local legacy” by the Library of Congress, this festival has been continuously occurring for 60 years, drawing up to 50,000 visitors. Highlights include buckwheat and pancake breakfasts, maple donuts, locally-harvested trout dinners, antiques, arts and crafts, and bluegrass music and clogging.

When I heard about Our Mom Eugenia, a one-year-old restaurant in Great Falls, I immediately invited my friend Evelyn Xeron to have lunch there. Evelyn is a serious home cook who travels to Greece every summer to visit family. I knew she would enjoy sampling this taste of her homeland, and her immediate reaction was positive. She said the modern Greek taverna is just the kind of place she and her family would look for when they’re traveling in Greece. Though this was a cold snap in January, I temporarily felt transported to a sun washed Greek island, if only for the afternoon.

Rustic, yet modern, Our Mom Eugenia is a casual neighborhood restaurant with wood paneling from a Virginia barn and whimsical paintings of Greek life adorning the walls. Several family style tables are available for groups, and you may hear a few diners speaking Greek around you.

We were greeted by one of the owners, Philip Hobson, who works in the front of the house. Philip and Alex Hobson are Chef Eugenia Hobson’s sons who opened this restaurant with their mother, and then named it in her honor. On this chilly day, the warm interactions make you feel like you’ve been invited into the Hobson family home.

For a while now, Eugenia’s sons had been dreaming of owning a restaurant where their talented mom could showcase her inventive Greek cuisine. Eugenia attended an Athenian culinary school, but also gleaned her recipes from cooking with her mother and grandmother. When she moved to America, Eugenia became the chef at Mykonos Restaurant in Rockville, and then moved to Nostos Restaurant in Tysons.
“We had been looking for a place like this for a while,” says Alex Hobson who lives in the Great Falls neighborhood. They opened Our Mom Eugenia on December 6, 2016 and have enjoyed the support of enthusiastic regulars ever since.

Phil says his mother prepares dishes that are lighter than northern Greek staples like Moussaka, although the traditional dish is still on the menu here. “My mom is from an island in the Ionian Sea on the West Coast of Greece called Zakynthos. It's south of Corfu and Cephalonia. Zakynthos has more vegetation and rain. My mom's food doesn't use a lot of oils or heavy stuff. She likes light cuisine,” says Phil. “If you go more to the north, the dishes are heavy, with a lot of meats and sauces, because of the weather. Further down south, the cuisine gets lighter and lighter. Down in the islands we eat a lot of fish.”

Fish dishes are often among the dinner specials, while lunch features daily options like lamb burgers and Cabbage & Carrot Salad. “She cooks a soup every day, and also a lunch special. At dinner, we offer more fish specials like sea bass or rockfish,” Phil explains. We were at the restaurant on Thursday, so we tried the lunch special called Gemista, which in Greek translates to “the ones that are filled.” The ones, in this case, were a duo of roasted green pepper and tomato filled with cinnamon-laced minced meat and rice. This healthful entree softly fills your mouth with its lightness. “It’s a favorite of the hair salon employees next door,” says Phil. “They order it every week.”

Chef Eugenia smiles from her window in the kitchen, as she watches the rapt reactions to a flaming appetizer called Saganaki—Kefalograviera cheese set ablaze in brandy. She has clearly mastered conventional Greek cookery but incorporates recipes that reflect the palates of her native island. Vegetarians, pescatarians, dairy free and gluten free folks will all find inspiring options here.

A carafe of luscious green olive oil sits on the table, intended for the restaurant’s crusty bread dotted with oregano. An assortment of appetizers includes customary Greek dips like Tzatziki, Melitzanosalata and Taramosalata, but with standouts like Feta Psiti—a crisp puffed pastry covered with sesame seeds wrapped around a wedge of gooey feta cheese. This pastry arrives on a bed of arugula, and is drizzled with golden honey. You could share it, but you won't want to. Evelyn and I finish every bite, and she observes, “Greeks are starting to get more modern with their food. They’re going beyond the basics. I’ve never had anything like this. It reminds me of a Greek candy called Pasteli; it’s bar made with honey and sesame.” I think this captures Chef Eugenia’s signature style, taking beloved Greek ingredients and reimagining them in new ways.

An appetizer that’s ideal to share is the tart Patzaria & Pistachio Skordalia. Chef Eugenia has slowly baked the claret-colored beets that encircle Skordalia, a hand-whipped mash of garlic, potato and olive oil, then sprinkles it all with crushed pistachio nuts. This balance of textures and flavors is what modern gastronomies strive to achieve.

You will find a predictable Greek Salad with cucumbers, tomatoes, red onions bathed in vinegar and oil, and an Island Salad, that contains romaine lettuce. Both incorporate a hearty helping of feta cheese. Save room for dessert though, specifically consider the beignet-like Loukoumades, fried dough puffs bathed in honey and peppered with cinnamon and sesame. They are traditionally served for celebratory events, but you can have them any day at Our Mom Eugenia.

A steady flow of customers continues most of the afternoon, as the word’s gotten out by word of mouth and from food critics praising Our Mom Eugenia. “I would drive across the bridge for this,” says Evelyn as we prepare to leave—a high bar reached for any Maryland resident. This is a neighborhood restaurant for diners seeking a homey yet epicurean dining experience.

TASTE OF TYSONS
Why do you exercise? Do you want to look better? Feel better? Improve your health? All of the above?

We all know exercise has it's many benefits. Being physically active keeps us slimmer, gives us energy and improves our self-confidence. But what can exercise do for our heart health? February is National Heart Health Month, so we figured it's the perfect time to take a deeper dive into the benefits of exercise and how it helps improve your heart health.

Worldwide, heart disease and strokes are the leading causes of death. Some of the risk factors for heart disease are cigarette smoking, high blood pressure, abnormal cholesterol levels, diabetes, sedentary lifestyle and obesity. There's good news though! You can lower your risk substantially by making some changes to your current lifestyle.

Physical activity can be just as beneficial to your heart as medication in many cases. Johns Hopkins research has found that pairing exercise with a Mediterranean diet, maintaining a healthy weight and not smoking can actually reduce the chance of death from all causes by 80 percent. Understanding the benefits of physically activity and how it keeps your heart healthy can be quite the motivator to get moving:

- EXERCISE CAN LOWER BLOOD PRESSURE. Having high blood pressure is a major risk for heart disease. Exercise acts like a beta-blocker—it lowers blood pressure and slows down your heart rate. This is true when you are at rest or exercising.

- EXERCISE HELPS MAINTAIN A HEALTHY WEIGHT. Being overweight can put stress on the heart and is also a risk factor for heart disease. Exercise, along with a healthy diet, can help you maintain a healthy weight.

- EXERCISE HELPS BUILD AND STRENGTHEN MUSCLES. Combining aerobic exercises and strength training is key for optimal heart health. Aerobic exercises consist of walking, running, swimming, hiking—anything that gets that heart pumping. No matter your fitness level, these exercises help the muscles draw oxygen from your blood. This in turn keeps the heart from having to pump more blood to your muscles.

- EXERCISE CAN HELP YOU QUIT SMOKING. Smokers who become more fit often quit smoking. Those that already live an active and healthy lifestyle are less likely to start.

- EXERCISE EFFECTS THE DEVELOPMENT OF DIABETES. According to Johns Hopkins research, combing both aerobic and strength training exercises has shown to reduce the risk of developing diabetes by over 50%. The muscles are better able to process glycogen. When glycogen is impaired, this leads to excessive blood sugars (diabetes).

- EXERCISE HELPS REDUCE STRESS. Stress is hard on the heart. Whether you’re a runner, weight lifter or enjoy yoga, you’re helping reduce your stress levels.

- EXERCISE HELPS REDUCE INFLAMMATION. With regular exercise, inflammation decreases. This helps with the effects of heart disease.

What amount of exercise should you aim for to get these heart health benefits? Anything is better than nothing. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, it is recommended that adults get 150 minutes (broken out into smaller increments) of moderate-intensity aerobic exercise per week and two sessions of about 30 minutes each of resistance training per week.

If getting started seems overwhelming and you don’t know how to get going, consult with a certified, professional trainer at Fitness Together! Our 1-on-1 personal training will help you get the most out of your workouts and in turn, help keep your heart healthy!

Wedding Parties

With Spring upon us, wedding season is about to kick into high gear and we know those calendars will be filling up quickly! If you or someone you love is planning a wedding for this year, you’re in luck... We’ve got the scoop on all of the wedding-related celebrations you might be involved with from engagement to wedding day, and beyond!

Engagement Party

The first of many wedding events, the engagement party provides an opportunity for the happy couple to celebrate their big news with family and friends. There are no hard and fast rules as to who should host such an event, giving free reign to anyone who would like to do so. Size varies from small and intimate to large, while formality may range from backyard barbecues to a cocktail party, or even an elegant dinner in the private room at the couple's favorite restaurant.

Bridal Shower

Traditionally hosted by close friends or family of the bride and/or groom, bridal showers are a time for the women in her life to dote on the bride-to-be. These days, however, it’s not always just about the bride. Many couples opt to have a couple’s shower en lieu of, or sometimes in addition to, the bridal shower. Again, size typically varies depending on the host and the location of the event, and the style of the shower may range from heavy hors d'oeuvres, to multi-course meals, or even simply a desserts shower. Many hosts will also incorporate a theme for the shower décor and food, and may include games and activities throughout the event, in addition to the opening of presents.

Bridesmaid Luncheon

The bridesmaids luncheon is an event hosted by the bride to thank her bridesmaids and other close females involved in the wedding for all of their love and support throughout the engagement process leading up to the big day. Most brides choose to hold the event the day before or the day of the wedding in order to ensure all bridesmaids are able to attend. Menus may range from the traditional finger sandwiches, pastries, fruit, tea and charm cake, to whatever the bride believes best represents the group's tastes. The main purpose of the bridesmaid luncheon is for the bride to have one last get together with her favorite women before the wedding where they can eat, drink and be merry.

Rehearsal Dinner

Usually held the night before the wedding as a way to kick off the wedding festivities, the rehearsal dinner may vary in size and formality based upon the host's preferences. Some opt to keep things casual and include all out of town guests, whereas others may opt for a more upscale dinner for the immediate family and bridal party only. The parents of the groom traditionally host the rehearsal dinner, though nowadays it may also be hosted by the bride's parents, the couple themselves, or a combination of the three.

Wedding Reception

Traditionally hosted by the bride's parents, the wedding reception is a time for your closest friends and family to celebrate with you and your new spouse after watching you become Mr. and Mrs. From small intimate celebrations with a favorite few, to grand receptions that include the couple's immediate family and friends, as well as extended family and family friends, celebrating the new married couple is a time everyone looks forward to! Dinner, dancing, and toasts to the new couple often comprise the fun of the wedding reception, though the style, theme and menu are very customized to fit each bride and groom's unique personalities and preferences.
After Party

After parties are becoming quite popular among the millennial crowd as it gives the newlyweds another opportunity to spend time with their guests in a more casual setting, and it gives everyone else a chance to get more face time celebrating their loved ones’ nuptials. The after party may range from a formal event held by the bride and groom or a loved one, or may be as simple as designating a meet up spot at a local watering hole near the couple’s hotel blocks. No matter the formality, this can be a fun addition to the wedding night for those couples who want to increase the amount of time with their friends and family on their wedding day.

Post-Wedding Brunch

Another way to keep the party going with all of your favorite people is the post-wedding brunch. It may be hosted by the newlyweds, their parents, or anyone else close to the couple who feels so inclined, and serves as a great way to maximize time with your family and friends who came to celebrate you (if you’re not leaving right away for your honeymoon). These events are typically held the morning after the reception, with breakfast and brunch items making up most menus. Many times these post-wedding events are held at the hotels where the couple has reserved a block of rooms for their guests, or at one of the parents’ homes to simplify things for everyone involved.

Adding square footage to the kitchen is no guarantee that it will function any better than its cramped predecessor.

A Herndon homeowner recently interviewed some 20 remodelers seeking ideas for expanding a 10’ x 12’ production kitchen into something more generous. The goal was a plan that better supported her interest in baking and entertaining, and her husband’s enjoyment of cooking.

Several propositions were put on the table. But it wasn’t until Sun Design Remodeling’s Jon Benson entered the scene that the owner saw the real problem, and how to amend it.

“Every contractor we spoke to had one basic idea: extend the existing kitchen ten feet to the rear,” the owner recalls. “But this would only have resulted in a longer and still-too-narrow space not integrated into a rear-facing suite that included a family room one-step below the kitchen.”

Benson, by contrast, identified the “configuration” of the two rear rooms and breakfast zone as the core problem—and proposed removing a knee-wall separating kitchen and family room, while raising the family room floor six inches to an even level with the kitchen.

“Jon's insight made all the difference,” the owner observes. “It's the primary reason the plan works.”

 Expansion and Reconfiguration of Circa 1990's Kitchen

Sun Design Remodeling Converts Cramped Production House Plan Into Gourmet Kitchen Perfect For Entertaining

(At Top) Bump out breakfast A 8’x21’ foot “bump-out” extending across the home’s rear elevation forms the living space needed for a substantially more generous kitchen/ family room suite. The nearly 13 foot course of MI windows dramatically increases available natural light. The custom-designed island supports work triangles while functioning as both a dining counter and a serving station.

(Above) Before At just 10 square feet, the surface of the original food prep island was just one of many limitations in a 120 square foot, builder-grade kitchen.
A veteran remodeler who has published several books on woodworking, Benson says that homeowners often misdiagnose space-planning considerations by failing to prioritize the benefits they are seeking.

“This couple was transitioning into life as empty-nesters,” Benson says. “They’re socially very active and wanted a floorplan that would allow them to entertain 12 to 15 people several times a month. Unfortunately, the existing kitchen/family room floorplan didn’t circulate well at all.”

Moreover, a double sliding glass door on the rear elevation took up wall surfaces needed for a more optimal plan. To reach the deck from the breakfast area, one had to circumscribe the knee wall, step down six inches and pass through the slider.

“It was a waste of space,” the homeowner asserts, “but we didn’t see any alternatives.”

Other emergent owner priorities: “a brighter, lighter interior with views; work triangles that better support cooking, baking clean-up; a significant increase in storage capacity; a balanced, lively interior design with well-articulated wall elevations.”

Benson’s first call: delete the sliding glass door and introduce an 8’ x 21’ “bump-out” on the south-facing rear-elevation. The strategy re-configures the existing floor plan into an L-shaped great room that incorporates the family room as a sitting area (with hearth) visually linked to the kitchen and breakfast zone.

The re-designed west side elevation now includes a sliding glass door for easy deck access. The plan also introduces a new south-facing window in the family room.

“The increase in natural light is really uplifting,” the owner says.

To support the “bump-out”, the weight for the home’s second floor has been shifted to a steel I-beam resting on two concealed vertical supports.

With the bump-out now in place, Benson specified 13 linear feet of triple-ply MI windows poised above 21 feet of quartz counter surface. The cabinetry houses a dishwasher and a double-unit stainless steel sink.

Next step, remove the knee wall. The freed-up floorspace—now clad in oak with 4” planks—inspired the design team to radically re-invent the floor plan, and explore color-coordinated interior design themes.
With the knee wall gone, the design team introduces a 42” x 90” food preparation island and dining counter perfectly positioned for easy-access to the new breakfast zone, family room and deck as well as support for several kitchen work triangles.

Each wall elevation is, in turn, elaborated for a specific role.

Maggie Bailey, Sun Design’s specialty designer was summoned to convert an interior wall comprised of wall-to-ceiling cabinetry into a more functional storage solution: “The interior wall cabinetry wasn’t especially useful,” Bailey says. “The refrigerator absorbed some of the wall space, but the more the telling issue was the fact that the owner had so many otherwise-needed cooking tools stored away in the basement.”

To assure the utility of the proposed solution, Bailey inventoried the entire kitchen, then developed a plan to replace the cabinets with a 48 inch pantry with double doors.

The refrigerator was re-located to the east-side elevation, convenient to the oven stack and six-burner range oven. With the food prep island completing critical work triangles, step-saving efficiencies prevail in all directions.

Wall elevations are perfectly crafted throughout: the black glaze island base and flooring in contrast with white subway tiles and Arctic-hued cabinet facings present a tone-on-tone visual play that is both eye-catching and calming.

The distinctive backsplash field behind the cooktop is a 3” x 6” bianco gloss in a running bond pattern. Ceiling-flush glass-facing cabinets provide display space for ceramic collectibles.

“What really works is the unity of the design, and the interior sight lines,” the owner attests. “Guests in the family room are in visual contact with those in the kitchen. We have dinner parties several times a month. Plus, book groups and church gatherings—so this really suits our needs.”

Loving a pet is easy. Taking care of it takes knowledge of how to ensure that it has the healthiest and best life possible. You may only think of health care when a pet is sick, but consider how wellness care can truly enhance their quality of life.

When you provide regular wellness care, you create a timeline. This way when you bring your pet in for its yearly examination the veterinarian can see if any physical or behavioral changes have occurred and create a track record for their progression. Regular examinations can also detect some disease processes early, before they become a problem.

“Our entire focus at VIP Petcare is to maintain wellness in your pet; not necessarily to treat problems after they occur,” said Dr. Katryna Fleer, DVM and Medical Director for VIP Petcare. “If we can keep your pet healthy through something as simple as regular checkups, vaccinations and routine healthcare, they will live longer and richer lives. And that makes us all happy.”

Pet wellness care can extend beyond the medical checkups as well. For instance, microchipping. Because even indoor pets can also escape when people come in and out of the door, your cats and dogs should all have microchips. Think also about our country’s recent natural disasters and how during the chaos of floods and fires, pets can become separated from their owners. Microchipping is a simple process that takes only seconds, but creates a lifetime of security should your pet become lost.

At VIP Petcare, we think it’s important for pet parents to not only provide preventive care for their pets, but to understand why it is important, and what part you can play.

Here are some tips on how to provide wellness care for your pet:

- All pets should get a yearly examination from a veterinarian.
- Older pets should be examined more frequently.
- Get an annual fecal test to check for multiple intestinal parasites and diagnose any diseases. A fecal test can be included in all packages at VIP Petcare and requires only a simple collection of your pet’s feces.
- Get a heartworm test or feline leukemia virus (FeLV) screen
- Control parasites like fleas and ticks with a monthly parasite protection program.
- Brush your pet’s teeth and provide regular dental care.
- Deworm.
- Update all vaccinations to prevent disease. Check the vaccine recommendations at vippetcare.com, and ask your veterinarian for recommendations based on your pet’s history, current health and lifestyle.
- Microchip your pet as a form of permanent identification.
- Trim nails.

Wellness care doesn’t have to be expensive. With the VIP Petcare Community Wellness...
Clinics the wellness visit itself is free and there is only a small charge for any related fees such as vaccinations, tests or treatments. Even a microchip implantation is inexpensive at only $19 for a lifetime registration. Check the VIP Petcare website for locations and hours.

Other Ways to Keep Your Pet Healthy

As with humans, diet and exercise play important roles in your pet's care.

Good health requires proper nutrition based on their size, age, lifestyle and species, and like humans, many pets are suffering from weight issues that can cause serious health issues. Choose healthy pet food options (your veterinarian can make recommendations) that are appropriate for your animal, keeping in mind that their nutritional needs differ from those of humans. You cannot feed them the same foods you feed the family. Ensure that fresh water is always available. Clean food and water bowls regularly.

All pets need lots of exercise to remain healthy, both through physical movement and mental stimulation. Play is a wonderful way to enjoy time with your pet while boosting exercise requirements. Invest in toys that stimulate your pet mentally, even when you're not available to play.

Don't overlook the importance of human contact. Your pet needs and wants your love and attention. A pet that is ignored or left alone for extended periods of time will not be as healthy as one that interacts regularly with family members. Interaction also helps boost socialization skills.

And did you know that pet ownership has wellness benefits for humans too? Studies have shown that pets can help alleviate feelings of loneliness and social isolation. In fact, a study by the Research Center for Human/Animal Interaction at the University of Missouri College of Veterinary Medicine indicates that interaction with animals can increase a person's level of the oxytocin, a beneficial hormone that helps a body heal, grow new cells and create an internal environment for health.

There is no greater joy than the love shared between your pet and your family. Ensure a longer and healthier relationship with wellness care.
Silver Line construction contractors meandered through the below-freezing, near record-low temperatures along with snow and ice, and are looking toward some busy months as Phase 2 work continues from the Wiehle-Reston East Metro station to the end of the line in Ashburn.

Here’s a look at some of what to expect and what not to expect in the coming months:

- Pedestrian Tunnel: Work continues on the pedestrian tunnel that will carry passengers on moving sidewalks to and from the main terminal at Dulles Airport and parking garage 1. Moving sidewalks will be tested. Shuttles will continue to run until the tunnel reopens.

- Track work: Track installations will take place all along the alignment. Retaining wall construction continues in the median of the Dulles International Airport Access Highway (DIAAH). Yard lead work continues and aerial guideway track at the airport is being prepared for installation of systems equipment.

- Electric Power: Energizing the electrical systems in selected sections of track and service buildings such as traction power substations will begin. Communications and power lines are being relocated to allow access to the west end of the Herndon Parking Garage. Power lines for future signage and power gates along the DIAAH will be installed. Cabling continues to provide power to traction power substations, train control rooms and tie breaker stations.

- Reston Town Center Station: Installations on pedestrian bridges on the north side of the station and ongoing finishing work on bridges on the south side.

- Herndon Station: Construction of the pavilion on the north side of the station between the Dulles Toll Road and Herndon Parkway will begin soon. Fairfax County continues to work on a parking garage it is building near the existing Herndon-Monroe Park and Ride. Work on the roofing of the station vault is headed for completion. Slight changes in the Dulles Toll Road location are being made.

- Innovation Center Station: The most complete of all the stations, roofing work nearly complete as work on the pavilions and pedestrian bridges continues.

- Dulles Airport Station: Clearly visible as crews work to complete the roof. Electrical work continues.

- Loudoun Gateway Station: Station precast work continues and pedestrian bridges are in place.

- Ashburn Station: Steel roof erection should begin in March. Pedestrian bridges have been installed on south side and are almost ready for installation on the north side.

- Rail Yard: Duct banks and manholes are being installed.

- Start-up: Preliminary planning for start-up will continue involving contractors, the Airports Authority and the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority.
The second phase of the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project (DCMP) closed out a busy year in 2017, and hit several milestones along the way.

In January 2017, all 251 column supports for the Dulles Airport Metrorail Station aerial guideway were completed and Capital Rail Constructors (CRC) crews began installing both ballasted and direct fixated track.

April 2017 brought with it the arrival of pedestrian bridge spans on site. Track work continued and the first of the prefabricated traction power substation buildings was installed. Construction of Phase 2 officially reached 56 percent.

Structural steel started going up for maintenance facilities and other structures at the Rail Yard in May 2017. These facilities will be critical to maintaining clean, durable Metrorail trains for many years to come. Throughout the summer, crews were busy roughing in the mechanical, electrical and plumbing systems at four stations.

By August 2017, CRC crews began putting in place pedestrian bridges. These bridges will provide access for Metrorail passengers to reach the Silver Line stations. The first pedestrian bridge was set on the south side of Innovation Center Metrorail Station.

As autumn rolled around, construction of the aerial guideway structure at Dulles Airport Metrorail Station was completed.

In the spirit of the holiday season, DCMP and CRC partnered to provide 181 full Thanksgiving meals to families in Fairfax and Loudoun counties as part of the Loudoun Hunger Relief and Reston Cornerstones 2017 Thanksgiving Donation Drive in November.

By December’s end, Phase 2 of the Silver Line had achieved over 5 million labor hours. That translated into 66 percent construction completion.

“I’m enjoying it, because it’s very rewarding to me,” remarked Crone. “My career goals when I first went to school would have been to work on a major project.”

Before accepting the Director of Program Operations position, Crone continued with WMATA for nearly 27 years rising through the ranks from Project Coordinator to Senior Program Manager. From 2000 to 2007, Crone even worked on Phase 1 of the Silver Line from the Metro side of the tracks. Joining the team on Phase 2 is just one more opportunity for him to propel the progress of the rail line forward.

Crone’s passion for construction has followed him throughout his career. It is this passion that has helped promote better transportation for the local community by bringing the Silver Line from Tysons out to Loudoun County.
WINTER COAT DRIVE:
WARMING HEARTS
AND HOMELESS

In the spirit of giving, the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project (DCMP) partnered with Capital Rail Constructors (CRC) to support the annual Winter Coat Donation Drive sponsored by Fairfax Supervisor Cathy Hudgins and the non-profit Cornerstones. Together DCMP and CRC donated approximately 200 coats and 50 winter accessories. These items go to local, unsheltered adults and children to help prevent frostbite, hypothermia and illness. During winter, the homeless population is at a higher risk of suffering these symptoms than most. With temperatures reaching as low as 7°F, a warm coat and a thick scarf can save a life!

Supervisor Hudgins’ office will be accepting coats through March 8, 2018. If you are interested in donating or know someone in need, please visit the Hunter Mill headquarters.

How to Solve Sudoku Puzzles

No math is required to solve a sudoku. You only need logic and patience.

Simply make sure that each 3x3 square region has only one instance of the numbers 1-9. Similarly, each number can only appear once in a column or row in the larger grid. The difficulty on this puzzle is easy.

OPENING LEAD:   ♠2

The money games at my club range from a modest tenth of a cent a point to the 'big' ten-cent game. Still, few regulars make a living at the table: the competition is tough.

'I've tried to earn some money for a rainy day,' one would-be pro told me, 'but right now a heavy dew would clean me out. Look at this deal.'

South won the first heart and led a trump to dummy's king and a trump to West's ace. East echoed with the five and deuce, promising three trumps. 'If the defense cashes a heart and continues hearts,' South told me, 'I ruff, draw trumps, and lead a club for ten tricks. But at Trick 4, West gave himself an extra chance: he shifted to the jack of clubs! Dummy won, but East signaled with the seven. When I led a heart next, West won, took the ace of clubs and gave East a club ruff.'

The deal came up in the big game, so West's defense saved his side a fortune. If East signals low on the jack of clubs, West will know he must try for two heart tricks.

The Amazon takeover has begun, and it’s not the “same day delivery” Amazon I’m talking about. It’s about the birth of a nation ruled by warrior women. In the past year, we’ve seen women rising up and collectively crushing American men (and their gonads) for crimes of sexual harassment. One by one, men out there are being identified and humiliated, losing their jobs, and even being put behind bars. So, let this be a warning to all you testosterone titans—you can run but you cannot hide. The Amazon women will find you under every slimy rock in the country.

There’s no profession which has been immune from this purging, either. Perverts have been plucked from every industry including politics, sports, movies, culinary, and even publishing. If Vanna White spun the Wheel of Abusers in the entertainment category alone, her arm would crumble from fatigue. Just a few of the sleazy seducers who have been called out are Harvey Weinstein, Ben Affleck, Bill Cosby, Kevin Spacey, Matt Lauer, Russell Simmons, Mario Batali, and Steven Segal.

Buh-bye, guys. I know this wasn’t the kind of exposure you wanted. So, you better hire great PR people and a team of shifty lawyers to save your sorry tushies.

Naturally, the Hollywood Amazons have come out roaring the loudest. Empowered by women like Ashley Judd and Meryl Streep, they chose the Golden Globes as the perfect venue to unleash their fury. Those speeches incited their sisters into such a feverish pitch, they were running around with their manes on fire. Trust me. There is no fuel on earth more potent than estrogen plus anger. Smelling fresh blood, the Amazons quickly disemboweled the likes of Harvey Weinstein and Kevin Spacey, expertly carving the potent moguls into impotent castrati. Their mantra, #timesup, was mentioned approximately one billion times during their fire and brimstone sermons delivered from the golden pulpit. The Hollywood Amazons chose to wear black gowns, as a statement of their solidarity. It might be noteworthy to mention that the gowns showed a lot more than solidarity. Many wore decolletages, exposing plenty of boobage while plunging to the navel. Others had slits up to the hip bones. Some were fashioned from see-through fabrics, with a few strategically placed embroidered leaves barely covering their vital organs. I’m guessing that the “statement” was: "Please look at my body parts, but if you touch any of them, you’ll be missing three of your own!"

As sleazy as the Hollywood bunch might be, however, the juiciest scandals are coming from the politicians. Even better is when they’re from the hybrid species, Politician/Entertainer. Take Senator Al Franken...please. He was busted when a photo surfaced of him groping a sleeping female reporter on a publicity junket. The senator’s reaction to the accusation was typical of every guy who ever got his hand caught in the cookie jar. (Every pun intended). He was forced to go on a de rigueur "Apology Tour" written by his P.R. staff. During his televised mea culpa, Franken basically said he was NOT guilty of most of the accusations and had different recollections of the rest. He also said, "Nothing I did brought dishonor to the institution."

Wowzers, Al. That was really touching. And by that, I mean once again you touched women in really bad places. I guess your rationale is: 1. Unconscious women are fair game. 2. It’s difficult to bring dishonor on an "institution" not unlike Sodom and Gomorrah.

So, where’s it all going to end? Well, as a self-appointed spokeswoman for the Amazons, I’ll give you my predictions. In the future, booze will be banned from any celebrations which are attended by both men and women, making the concept of "a fun party" obsolete. TMZ’s Harvey Levin, the E! channel, and all the tabloids will become extinct. The Super Bowl will be replaced by the Lingerie Bowl. The only movies that will be made, produced, and directed will be in an entertainment industry run by females. All bestselling novels and screen plays will be about self-absorbed women's spiritual quests to find out "who they are." And, of course, Oprah will run for President.

The only minor downside is that our population is doomed since there won’t be any men left with their reproductive organs intact. But, that’s okay. It’ll give them something to roar about!

CANCER 6/21–7/22: Energy is on your mind—yours and others. Focus on nutrition and get enough sleep. This will become essential as you move through March, a month that could be surprisingly demanding.

LEO 7/23–8/22: Consider planning a long weekend now, rather than a budget-blowing vacation this summer. The stars predict unexpected expenses. You’ll want to be prepared.

VIRGO 8/23–9/22: Does every project have to be started and completed in one shot? Counter your perfectionist tendencies by working on ordinary tasks during short time spaces.

LIBRA 9/23–10/21: The equinox on March 20 is Libra’s day. Take the day to consciously balance romance and friendship. Your spouse or partner can use a little extra of one or the other.

SCORPIO 10/22–11/21: To improve a relationship this month, give more than is expected; expect less in return. Someone who loves you needs your extra effort just now but won’t ask for it.

SAGITTARIUS 11/22–12/21: Flexibility serves you well as the month comes to a close. Don’t hesitate to try something new. A surprise is in store.

CAPRICORN 12/22–1/19: Spring. Ideas. Those two go together as the changing season sparks new plans. Consider your available time and resources then choose the most promising.

AQUARIUS 1/20–2/18: Stay alert for people who blame others for everything and avoid the blamers this month. What you hear may or may not be the truth so don’t act on rumor. Get information.

ARIES 3/21–4/19: Take your bows, Aries. You’ve been center stage for quite a while. Now it’s time to thank the audience and take your seat. Won’t be long, though. By the end of the month, your leadership will be in demand.

TAURUS 4/20–5/20: Stand up straight and throw your shoulders back! Adopt a posture of strength to address the bumps in the road this month. But remember they are just bumps. Keep a positive attitude.

GEMINI 5/21–6/20: This month give yourself the same tender loving care you give your kids or your cat. Take a break. Get a treat. Take your medicine. By mid-month your attention to your personal needs pays off.

CANCER 6/21–7/22: Adopt a sympathetic attitude this month as you work and play with others. Everyone has their struggles. Look beyond yours to get inspiration.

LEO 7/23–8/22: Make sure you are cultivating friends that actually care about your success. Some do; some don’t. Find the ones who do care for you and care for them back.

VIRGO 8/23–9/22: Time to ask yourself what you want to accomplish in the next two years. You’ll have some forks in the road coming up. If you know where you are going, you’ll know which path to take.

LIBRA 9/23–10/21: The second full moon of the month on the 30th brings a repeat of a task or situation you have come to think of as difficult. Start thinking of the situation as meaningful and look for the lessons.

SCORPIO 10/22–11/21: The New Moon on the 16th might be barely visible, but that’s the time to turn the lights on. Plan for something fun and joyous at mid-month. It will take you far.

SAGITTARIUS 11/22–12/21: A personal dispute may seem threatening to your peace of mind. Consider honestly what you have done to contribute to the problem. You might be able to change your approach, but either way, you can only change yourself.

CAPRICORN 12/22–1/19: April opens with holiday, family and some fun. Let this carry you through the month as you consider how best to make every day more festive.

AQUARIUS 1/20–2/18: A little romance is in the air for April. It might be a connection with your loved one or it might be a feeling of awe at nature. Revel in it.

PISCES 2/19–3/20: You can, to some extent, choose your destination. As April dawns, start thinking of what you can do to be stronger and healthier so you can get where you want to go, not just where the winds send you.
