Happy Holidays! As the festive season approaches in America’s Next Great City, we are all holding our breath in hopes of robust sales for our merchants and service providers and few traffic problems as shoppers rush home with their treasures. Let’s keep our fingers crossed.

Our friend, neighbor and best selling author, David Baldacci is releasing his new blockbuster, Long Road to Mercy in November. We thought this would be the perfect time to send our writer Kathleen McDonough to talk books and new characters with the author.

Great interview by Kathleen, and a highly anticipated bestseller—available just in time for gift giving! Thank you Kathleen.

MJ Cincotta and our editorial staff have put together some great holiday events, gift ideas, and party planning options for your consideration this season. Michael Evans of Helga’s Caterers asks What’s Your Party Style? and shares some great ideas. Thanks Michael!

Linda Barrett brings us A Taste of Cider and some selections for our seasonal consideration and enjoyment. Cider’s back!

What’s new in kitchen and bath design? We sent Analiese Kreutzer to find out... and we name some of the area’s best contractors.

Interesting story from Amanda Socci on how Fairfax County Schools are Igniting Student Success, and Financial Advisor Dan Lash shares thoughts on Special Needs Planning which should be helpful for families thinking ahead for their children with special needs.

Our Allison Chase Sutherland is back on the hunt for those special getaway spots close by. And she’s found one in Virginia’s Hunt Country. Read about The Black Horse Inn and dream about booking your own ultimate Hunt Country escape. Thank you Allison.

Not sure why, but suddenly ramen is all the rage. Ramen houses are popping up everywhere and we couldn’t be happier! Rene Sklarew reviews Jinya Ramen Bar in the Mosaic District and loved it! Try it—you’ll love it, too!

What’s an Amberg IMS 5000? Amanda Scarangella of the Metro Dulles Corridor Project will tell you in her Tysons Update article on the amazing progress of the Silver Line.

Every other month is simply not enough to get you all the news you need to know—there’s just too much going on around us. Early in November, and in an effort to keep up with Tysons many changes and opportunities, we’ll be launching TysonsToday.com, a thrice-weekly email to keep our readers informed, engaged and closer as a community. You can subscribe at www.tysonstoday.com. Stories, updates, personalities, restaurant deals, fun, contests and conversations on what’s next in America’s Next Great City. We would love to have you join us!

As we do every year, we ask that you please consider our local merchants and service providers when making your holiday gift selections this year. Those dollars spent locally go a long way in supporting our local economy and the tax base that provides so many of the important services we receive and rely on. Our local merchants need our support today more than ever—let’s be there for them this year!

And while we’re on the subject, we have added a link on VivaTysons.com should you chose to donate this giving season to the American Red Cross in their efforts to help the many ravaged areas across the country. Every little bit counts.

As we celebrate our 10th year of publishing, please know how much all of us at Viva! appreciate your readership and support. This adventure has been amazing. Tysons! How lucky are we?

Finally, from all of us here at Viva!, please accept our warmest wishes for a safe and wonderful holiday season and best wishes for good health and prosperity in the coming year!

Cheers!

Princeess Jewelers in Vienna invites you to explore the Special Holiday Savings from November 26th–December 1st & enjoy our Annual Open House Friday, November 30th from 10 am to 8 pm.
Voted by Musical America as one of the most influential musicians today, renowned cellist Amit Peled returns to share his artistry with the historic 1733 Gofriller Pablo Casals cello. He has been described as having “the flair of a young Rostropovich.”

November 4

Tom Green
The State Theatre, 8pm, $25-28
Tom Green exploded on MTV with the groundbreaking comedy show “The Tom Green Show.” Before reality TV, YouTube and social media existed, Tom Green’s man-on-the-street pranks changed television forever. Don’t miss this insanely hilarious evening of stand up.

November 6-7
The Lone Bellow
Trio Acoustic Tour
Special Guest Naia Izumi
The Barns at Wolf Trap, 8pm, $25-35
Known for transcendent harmonies, serious musicianship, and raucous live performances, this Americana trio makes “earnest and magnetic folk-pop... built to shake the rafters” (NPR).

November 7
Koo Koo Kangaroo
Really Really Sweaty Tour
Jammin Java, 7pm, $15-25
Koo Koo Kangaroo is the dance-a-long comedy show from Bryan and Neil, two friends who set out to experiment with live music and make it more fun. Armed with nothing more than an iPod, two mics, one giant rainbow and some gold sneakers, Koo Koo Kangaroo puts on an all-ages dance party that invites everyone to join in.

November 7
John Lloyd Young
The Barns at Wolf Trap, 8pm, $35-45
Earning a Tony Award for originating the role of iconic singer Frankie Valli in Jersey Boys on Broadway, John Lloyd Young is a master of singing the classics with a “disciplined one-in-a-million high tenor shading into falsetto that he can direct through the stratosphere” (The New York Times).

November 9
A Night of Grander Music
Featuring Molly Nuss, Audrey Mormann, Michelle Ann, Nick Cirillo
The State Theatre, 7:30pm, $27-30
A Night of Grander Music represents the premiere of Grander Music LLC featuring four amazing artists making their debut. The songs will be presented with unique multimedia and other visual accompaniments to provide an unforgettable musical journey. November 9
Intro to Djembe Drumming and Drum Circle
The Old Firehouse 1440 Chain Bridge Road, McLean VA 22101, 7-8:30pm, $12/$8 for MCC tax district residents
Back by popular demand! Join in a creative (and de-stressing) Friday evening master class for families. Participants will learn the elements of Djembe Drumming from artist Kofi Dennis and then use those skills in a group drum circle. This class is designed for those eight and up, and it is recommended that families participate together. Children under 14 must have a parent register with them. Fee includes admission and drum rental.

November 9-10
Ronnie Spector & The Ronettes
The Barns at Wolf Trap, 8pm, $50-55
Few groups in history are capable of defining an entire era in pop music. With hits like “Be My Baby” and “Baby, I Love You,” Rock & Roll Hall of Famers Ronnie Spector & The Ronettes are one of those groups: the embodiment of the heart, soul, and passion of ’60s female rock and roll.

November 10
Cargo and The Heavy Lifters
Jammin Java, 8pm, $15-25
“With groovy guitar licks and bursting soulful lyrics, Cargo & The Heavy Lifters provide an exemplary look at what American music sounds like. With covers and originals, the group focuses on the old school aspects of blues, rock and even country.” - On Tap Magazine

November 11
Tyler Ramsey
Jammin Java, 8pm, $15-15
Praised by NPR, Stereogum, WNYC, and The Huffington Post, Tyler Ramsey is a multi-instrumentalist equally at home playing guitar, piano, keyboards, bass, and percussion, but is best known as a talented fingerstyle guitarist and singer-songwriter in the burgeoning western North Carolina music scene.
November 11

2018 TASTE OF GREATER SPRINGFIELD

Waterford Receptions, 6715 Commerce Street, Springfield, VA 22150, 3pm-6pm, $10-30

Now in its sixth year, Taste of Greater Springfield features local restaurants providing samples of their favorite dishes. Several Virginia breweries and wineries will showcase their finest offerings.

November 13

ADRIAN LEGG

Jammin Java, 7:30pm, $20-25

Globally acclaimed by critics and fans alike for his unique acoustic and electric fingerstyle guitar playing, Adrian Legg masterfully blends diverse musical styles, influences and inspirations to create a distinctive sound all his own. With multiple awards and accolades spanning four decades, Legg has been heralded as a “guitarist of astonishing virtuosity, (whose) imagination and melodic invention seem unbounded,”(Q magazine)

November 14

NICOLE ATKINS

The Barns at Wolf Trap, 8pm, $22-27

After making her Wolf Trap debut opening for The Avett Brothers this summer, Nicole Atkins returns for a more intimate performance at The Barns. “When Nicole Atkins sings, she sounds like Roy Orbison, Patsy Cline and Janis Joplin all rolled into one voice.” (NPR)

November 15

THE SCENE AESTHETIC

Jammin Java, 8pm, $15-25

The elusive duo of Andrew de Torres and Eric Kimberlin are returning to the stage to reconnect with those who’ve followed them through multiple projects and paths. This tour celebrates over 10 years since The Scene Aesthetic’s release of their landmark, self-titled album.

ALAN DOYLE WHITNEY ROSE

The Barns at Wolf Trap, 8pm, $25-30

Alan Doyle chalks up a lot of where he is right now—with both his third solo album and his second book released in October 2017—to luck. And yet, one listen to A Week at The Warehouse makes it plainly clear that there’s a lot more than luck at play in this decades-long, awards-studded career. Don’t miss this chance to see one of Canada’s greatest (and luckiest!) artists rock The Barns at Wolf Trap stage with country-tinged, radio-ready tunes.

MAGGIE ROSE

The Barns at Wolf Trap, 8pm, $22-27

Blurring the lines between country, pop, and rock with shades of Aretha Franklin, Grace Potter, and Janis Joplin, musical star on the rise Maggie Rose blows audiences away with supersized vocals and award-winning songwriting.

November 16

BLUE WATER HIGHWAY

Jammin Java, 8pm, $15-25

Blue Water Highway comes from the working class, coastal town background that has informed the work of so many of rock’s greatest writers and artists. They take their name from the roadway that links their hometown of Lake Jackson, Texas to Galveston, where folks work hard and play hard. Blue Water Highway’s music is the soundtrack for their lives.

November 17

FAMILY FUN WITH FOLEY

Led by Recent Cutbacks

The Old Firehouse, 1440 Chain Bridge Rd., McLean VA 22101, 2-3:30pm, $12/$8 for MCC tax district residents

Foley (or the creation of sound in film and on stage) is one of the most creative and fun ways to play with storytelling. In this workshop, families will explore the sounds we can make with our voices and with everyday objects to imitate sounds of the world. With a mix of demonstration, trial and error, and games, this hands-on workshop explores the ways sound is made. This class is designed for those 8 and up, and it is recommended that families participate together. Children under 14 must have a parent register with them.

NOVEMBER 17

"HOLD ON TO YOUR BUTTS"

A Recent Cutbacks production

The Old Firehouse, 1440 Chain Bridge Rd., McLean VA 22101, 6pm, $19/$14 MCC tax district residents

Sixty-five million years ago, dinosaurs ruled the earth... Twenty years ago, Jurassic Park, a movie about dinosaurs came out that ruled the box office. Now, two actors and two Foley sound effects artists perform a live, “shot-for-shot” remake that was named a Critic’s Pick and Top 10 Comedy Show of 2014 by TimeOut NY. Running time: 60 minutes.

NOVEMBER 17

ANTI-SOCIAL CLUB ALBUM RELEASE PARTY

Derd Berner + Spectrums

Jammin Java, 10pm, $12-20

The DC-area alternative rock band, Anti-Social Club, features a sometimes brooding, sometimes soaring, and often infectious blend of compelling melodies and hooks, all swirling rhythmically around a core of poignant lyrics and heartfelt vocals.

NOVEMBER 18

MC LARS

Jammin Java, 7:30pm, $15-25

MC Lars is the creator of post punk laptop rap and lit hop, which he has extended and powered into a fusion of rap, punk, rock, ska, pop, and other genres. He speaks to and for people of all ages, lifestyles, and perspectives, and is a storyteller, covering love, life, loss, confusion, and hope.

NOVEMBER 21

HOT DUB TIME MACHINE

The State Theatre, 9pm, $10-13

Since first launching his time-travelling, dance-through-the-decades’ audio-visual party concept in 2011, Sydney’s Tom Loud has grown his project into an absolute monster. Hot Dub showcases songs from every decade and genre of music—60s rock, 70s disco, 80s cheese, 90s house, noughties electro, 2018’s radio hits—and winds and waves it into one expansive, electrifying, music history lesson. Each song is played in chronological order—mixed live on turntables—and complemented with archival concert footage/music videos on massive screens (narrated by a virtual spaceship air hostess), led by Hot Dub’s own rapturous MCing and hugely animated antics.

NOVEMBER 23

THE NIGHTHAWKS WITH BILLY PRICE

The State Theatre, 9pm, $20

Washington’s favorite bad boys, the Nighthawks, are masters of electric Chicago Blues and the kings of sh*t kicking roadhouse rock. They’re not called America’s Best Bar Band for nothing!

NOVEMBER 24

JANIS JOPLIN & JIMI HENDRIX TRIBUTE

The Barns at Wolf Trap, 8pm, $25-29

DC’s finest musicians come together for one evening honoring two of rock’s most legendary immortals with renditions of their smash hits, career bests, and much more. Featuring performances by Party Reese, Kelly Bell, Jonathan Sloane, Tommy Lepon, Mama Moon, Deleta Gillespie, Mary Shaver, Jeff Hall, Kristie Dilascio, Scott Ambush, Chuck Underwood, Michael Andre Aubin, Deren Blessman, Robbie Cooper, Andy Hamburger, Sonny Petrosky, Bill Starks, Vince McCool, and Wayne Sulc.

NOVEMBER 25

JOHN EATON

George Gershwin & Friends

The Barns at Wolf Trap, 2pm, $25-27

NOVEMBER 29-23

A CIVIL WAR CHRISTMAS

1st Stage Tysons, $15-39

It’s 1864 and Washington, D.C. is settling down to the coldest Christmas Eve in years. “History lessons and holiday warmth sit cozily alongside each other” (The New York Times) in this pageant of carols by Paula Vogel, the Pulitzer Prize-winning writer of “Indecent.” Stories of many intertwining lives—spanning from the battlegrounds of Northern Virginia to the halls of the White House—demonstrate that the gladness of one’s heart is the best gift of all. This “rich and moving play with music” (Variety) is a treat the whole family will enjoy.

Hordestock Presents
HORDE TIMES AND WEIRDNESS FEAT.

BIG O AND DUKES & HTAW LIVE
Jammin Java, 8pm, $20-25

In the early 2000s the Big O and Dukes show was forged in the fires of WHFS and continued to grow in popularity as they took on other radio markets from Baltimore, MD to Phoenix, AZ. In 2007, the boys found themselves back at the one station that they both had always dreamt being on, the talk superstation 106.7 WJFK in Washington, DC. Unfortunately, the ever changing world of radio found the once beloved talk radio station flip to sports in 2009 and the Big O and Dukes show seemed lost in the ether forever. A Big O and Dukes live show at Jammin Java is an event not to be missed. Chad and Oscar will bring their unique comedic style to the stage for a recording of their podcast, only with hundreds of your soon to be closest friends in attendance.

December 1

RED BARAAT
The Barns at Wolf Trap, 8pm, $30-35

“Imagine a New Orleans street band playing Indian Bollywood tunes with a go-go beat — you can’t? Then just listen, because your day is about to get better.”

Jammin Java Presents
Todd Wright's Sixteenth Annual
SANTA CLAUSTULER-F@%! CHRISTMAS SPECTACULAR

Jammin Java, 8pm, $15-30
(Saturday show is seated, Sunday show is standing.)

Tis the third and the second nights before Christmas
When Santa Claus gathers some sixty musicians
To play holiday songs without ever rehearsing
Making music and magic with minimal cursing

And before all this holiday dust starts to settle There’ll be polka, folk, rock and the heaviest metal
So get tickets now or you’ll be out of luck
And you won’t get to say that you got "Clauster...."

As a member of the Monkees, Michael Nesmith was beloved by the teens of the late ‘60s and early ‘70s, the popularity of the TV show and band began to rival the Fab 4 (the band the show was paying homage to), selling more than 75 million records worldwide.

Nesmith shocked many in the entertainment industry when he walked away from The Monkees and his bandmates in 1970 to start The First National Band, fusing country music with rock n’ roll.

That band scored an early hit with “Joanne,” but then had trouble reaching the charts again, eventually fizzling out.

Over the ensuing years, Nesmith has taken part in numerous Monkees reunions, and more recently has turned his attention to getting The First National Band back together.

Earlier this year, while he was out on tour with former Monkee, Micky Dolenz, Nesmith suffered congestive heart failure, which required a quadruple bypass and some badly-needed time off.

But he’s back to full strength and recently played the Birchmere in Alexandria, VA. Afterwards, he took some time to talk with Viva Tysons about his legacy and future.

Loria: First off, hope you’re feeling better. Can you update your fans on the state of your health?

Nesmith: My health is much improved and each day that passes things continue to improve.

Loria: Tell me about the band you’re playing with now. Do you feel the spirit of the original First National Band guys when playing these songs—especially (original collaborator) O.J. “Red” Rhodes?

Nesmith: Yes—all of these guys have a resonance with the FNB—and even Red’s fairy dust still lays over everything.

Loria: How do you feel songs like “Silver Moon” and “Little Red Rider” hold up today?

Nesmith: That is a hard question and I’m not sure I or anyone could give you a reasonable answer. Somethings just seem to affect the public in a way that makes them popular and sends them out into the collective consciousness with a special spin. I have never done that on purpose—and frankly don’t know anyone who can.

Loria: The band was heralded later on as being very influential, even though the albums didn’t sell huge. What does it mean to you to know that people look back on the music fondly?

Nesmith: It’s a nice acknowledgement. And really more and more the kind of reactions I depend on.

Loria: I think many people are always going to remember you as a member of The Monkees first; reflecting on your career, what does that label mean to you—to know you were a part of something that touched so many (and still does!)

Nesmith: It remains the centerpiece of my professional life—it was a lot of fun—and I will always treasure being a part of it.

Loria: I understand your sons are both involved in music—what advice have you given them and did they listen?

Nesmith: I gave them no advice. They are natural players and play what they love and want to hear.

Loria: What do you enjoy about being on stage in 2018 and how does it compare to 50 years ago?

Nesmith: The tech makes all the difference—great mikes, speakers and mixing boards—lights and all the other production are elements that have really improved over the years and make it a real joy to play live.

Loria: What else are you working on? Anything you want to promote or let people know about?

Nesmith: I am focused on the First National Band for a while. It is a rich mine with lots more to give.

You know him as a best-selling author of page-turning thrillers, with over 130 million books in print. But it might surprise you to learn that David Baldacci lives, works and plays in our community. A native Virginian, he and his wife of nearly 30 years, Michelle, are long-time residents who have raised their two children in the area. It was a distinct pleasure, therefore, to have the opportunity to meet this well-known “neighbor” at his Reston office, which is equal parts writer’s retreat and literary power hub, a book-lined reader’s paradise that exudes the serene charm of a beloved bookstore. We spent our time together talking about storytelling, creative inspiration and his newest release, Long Road to Mercy.

A Writer’s Life

With 37 novels for adults and six books for younger readers published to-date, you might conclude that David Baldacci has been writing all his life, which isn’t far off the mark. Baldacci recalls fondly that his mother gave him his first writer’s notebook when he was just a boy in Richmond. A way to record the stories that seemed to constantly spring from his imagination, as well as observations about the world around him, the habit of filling that notebook ignited a spark of creativity that helped the budding writer to emerge.

By the time Baldacci had graduated UVA Law School and moved to Washington, DC to practice law, he had turned his hand to writing screenplays, even securing an agent in Los Angeles, but failed to catch the attention of Hollywood. “I suppose my stories were ahead of the trend when it came to the types of movies studios were interested in producing at the time”, Baldacci says, “so I switched from screenplays to novels.”

While he continued to practice law, he surreptitiously worked on his first novel, which was written, rewritten and polished over three years. It was a story that sprung from an observation: “I was practicing law in DC and worked near the White House, where I would occasionally see the presidential motorcade and secret service agents, which, of course, gave me an idea.”

The finished manuscript was submitted to the (then) dozen or so publishers of note, with a cover letter promising them a read they wouldn’t be able to put down. Sent as much in the belief that his work was as good as any thriller on the shelf, it was also a bold challenge to the editors...
he was sure would relish the opportunity to prove him wrong. It was Baldacci who was right—they couldn’t put it down—with every publisher vying for the rights to his first novel, Absolute Power (later to become a major motion picture starring Clint Eastwood).

With one book and a young family, Baldacci wasn’t completely sure he’d be able to make a career out of writing, so stayed with his “day job” at the law firm for another year before he finally took the plunge and became an author, full time.

Twenty-four years on, Baldacci says he’s never regretted the decision to seize “the chance to do the job I love”, where, for him, work is play.

The Making of a Storyteller

As to how his skills as a storyteller really developed, Baldacci readily points to his grandmother who lived with the family in Richmond and mesmerized him from an early age with stories of her home in Southwest Virginia. Also, it helped, he says, that his was an Italian family, full of colorful tales of their own, which further underscored storytelling as an integral part of everyday life and which he credits with helping to launch him and his siblings into professional and creative careers where good story telling informed and elevated their endeavors.

If the best attorneys are also good storytellers, then his years practicing law only helped him to further hone his writing skills, teaching him to be organized and disciplined and to take a long term approach to the process. For Baldacci, there’s no perfect place or time to write. Unlike authors who rely on regimented rituals and routines to get their words on the page, Baldacci is constantly writing in his head, finding source material all around him. As he explains, “Some mornings all I have to do is open the blinds to find a story.” Great if you’re a prolific writer of best sellers, but given his proclivity for action-packed thrillers, it might make his neighbors a bit nervous if they knew.

“Inspiration comes every day,” Baldacci says, helped along, no doubt, by being an avid reader and a man with many interests and endless curiosity about what’s going on in the world. He recognizes that breadth of knowledge is important to a writer, not only because it feeds the creative flame but because he’s repeatedly found that the most surprising of obscure facts can end up being useful in the most surprising of ways (and are often to be found sprinkled throughout his books).

Baldacci believes that it’s important to write what you know, but argues it is absolutely vital to write about what you would like to know. “It’s the natural curiosity and reach for knowing that has fueled storytelling since the cave man; it’s what lifts and makes buoyant the prose and plotting of the best books,” he says.

From the outset of his literary career his novels have touched on important topics, because he’s a man who wants to inform and believes his stories should have a point, but his readers can always count on the boy in Baldacci to deliver a ripping yarn.

For him, writing isn’t a hobby, or even a job, but a lifestyle that influences every aspect of his day-to-day life. “I’m happiest,” Baldacci acknowledges, “when I’m in the middle of writing a book. When I’m finished, I can’t wait to start the next one.”

The Power of Place

As to the strong sense of “place” present in his stories – with so many of his books set in our own back yard of Washington DC and the surrounding Metro area – Baldacci explains, “It’s impossible to live in this area and not be struck by the vitality and energy that’s unique to it. This is a place that attracts some of the brightest people, people with ideas and agendas, with the wish, and very often the power, to make things happen.” And because this is the nation’s capitol, where actions have worldwide impact, the stakes are higher, making it the perfect setting for the thrillers Baldacci is most famous for writing.

As a life-long resident of Virginia, Baldacci finds that his Reston office and nearby home, just a stone’s throw from DC’s seats of power, serve not only as his family anchor but also as the source of ongoing literary inspiration.

Indelible Characters

With compelling plots and dynamic settings drawn from the surrounding milieu, his stories require no suspension of belief. It’s seems only natural that many of Baldacci’s protagonists hail from the worlds of espionage or national and international policing. Likewise, his peripheral characters just as believably are journalists, policy wonks and local law enforcement officers. No contrivances necessary, these are the people indigenous to our unique metropolis. Baldacci excels at creating charismatic characters that drive his stories and whose motivations, strengths and weaknesses consistently connect with readers.

In order for these characters to come to life on the page, however, Baldacci must be part fiction writer, part journalist. He researches, digging deep to discover who these characters are and what makes them...

It’s the most wonderful time of the year. But, we know that, sometimes, entertaining for the holidays can be stressful! If you’re hosting family and/or friends for a get together this year, continue reading for some tips and tricks for how to pull off a memorable holiday celebration with minimal stress, regardless of if you’re a DIY fan or if you’ve called in the professionals for some back-up!

Do-It-Yourself

If you’re going the do-it-yourself route and have a group coming over to celebrate the holidays, there are several different ways to approach the food, depending on the nature of your event. If you’re hosting a traditional Thanksgiving, Christmas or Hanukkah meal, a family style dinner might be the way to go for you! Family style dinners are a cozy, intimate way to serve your guests. With platters served on each table, your family and friends have the ability to select their portions through self-service. In order to successfully carry out a family style meal, a key factor is ensuring there is enough space at the tables to comfortably fit your guests, as well as the food and drinks.

Alternatively, maybe you’re hosting a New Year’s Eve pre-party before heading out into the city to ring in the New Year... This could be a great time to try heavy hors d’oeuvres. With heavy hors d’oeuvres, you can tailor your selections to provide a mix of stationary portions for all to share (think: baked brie & crackers or fruit, or spinach artichoke dip with fresh crudité), as well as bite-sized individual servings of your favorite appetizers, such as pear and prosciutto crostinis, grilled beef hibachi skewers, or shrimp cocktail martini glasses.

Drop Off Service

Another alternative for hosting the holidays is to hire a caterer for drop-off service. This is a great option for those who want help with preparing the food, but want to tackle the set-up and hosting themselves (and it’s also a great cost savings alternative!). You can still serve up heavy hors d’oeuvres or a lovely family style meal this way, or you might choose to serve your meal buffet style. Buffets are always an excellent option, particularly for those who want to serve a wide variety of food choices to their guests. Buffets provide greater flexibility, allowing guests to pick the items that most satisfy their palates, as well as controlling how much or little of each item is served. They also serve as a great way to provide a dramatic focal point for your event due to the endless display possibilities.

Full-Service

If you’ve called in for some back up and have a full-service caterer helping to make your holidays memorable (and alleviating some of the pressure on you!), you have a few additional options for service styles. First, you could plan to do food stations. Food stations are a fun, interactive alternative to buffets that allow for increased flexibility and menu options, but provide your guests with even more opportunity to customize their meals and to promote mingling. Multiple stations are set up, usually with a common theme at each station. For example, you may find a DIY potato bar with all the fixings at one station, whereas at the next station you would find a variety of sushi and sashimi, and other Asian favorites. Food stations are also a great way to provide an additional dimension to your reception. Depending on how elaborate you want to get, food stations can give chefs a great opportunity to have more face time with guests while providing interactive food displays as they prepare some of their signature dishes made-to-order!

Finally, a tried and true option for an elegant holiday celebration is the sit down dinner. Sit down dinners typically consist of a multi-course meal in which each course is often plated and served individually to guests. This option allows your guests to feel pampered, and is traditionally used for more formal affairs. Drawbacks to the sit down dinner include a more focused menu, as well as greater expense due to the increased staffing requirements to adequately serve your guests. However, formal sit down dinners can be quite regal and beautiful!

Remember that there is no one ‘right way’ to host a gathering, and what works for one family may not be the best for the next. When choosing a service style, keep in mind the size of your party, family traditions, and the formality of the event and go with the route that works best for you. No matter which service style you choose, your loved ones will be thankful for your hard work and planning. And you all can celebrate together with good food and good company. Happy Holidays!

It’s holiday time again. And time to think about how you’re going to decorate the outside of your home this holiday season.

Drive through any neighborhood and you’ll delight in the festive holiday décor on a number of homes—houses are that are tastefully outlined in lights and glow with holiday enthusiasm. And although you could decorate your home yourself, creating one of those enviable homes is easy with the help of a professional holiday decorating company.

Homeowners love the turnkey service of a design professional that includes design, installation, maintenance and service, post-season removal, packing, and offsite storage of holiday decorations. They no longer have to get on a ladder or find room to store all those lights.

“Our aim is to make decorating as stress-free and easy as possible, year after year,” said Dave Dolak, owner of Christmas Décor of NoVa, Inc., serving Tysons, McLean and nearby neighborhoods.

“The core things we recommend to enhance a home’s exterior include LED lighting and decorations,” Dolak explained. “For lighting, outline the roof and windows, trees and shrubbery, and provide ground lighting for beds and walkways. These different levels of lighting give homes a symmetrical look. Place custom-designed wreaths on doors and/or windows and decorations like tin soldiers near the front door.”

Using a professional decorator enables coordination of décor elements and colors for a cohesive look—even with white lighting. Who knew there was a difference between warm white and cool white lights!

A professional’s knowledge can also protect your home. “Our installation practices do not damage the house: we use plastic brackets on gutter lines, specific magnets on metal roofs, and removable adhesive stickers on windows. There are no nail holes, staples, or drilling needed,” added Victor Tirondola, CEO of Holiday Decorating by Manor Works Painting, serving homeowners from Reston to Leesburg and beyond.

Both companies are affiliated with Christmas Décor, and utilize their design tool, professional-quality lighting and decorations not available in stores, and warranties for all products.

A Toast To Cider

Virginia Cider is an Ideal Complement to Any Holiday Celebration

By Linda Barrett

During the holiday season, many people begin to contemplate which wine or champagne they are going to serve for holiday meals and celebrations. As an alternative, why not consider one of Virginia’s fine ciders? It can be as dry as wine, slightly bubbly like champagne and as refreshing as beer. Virginia cider offers a charming way to celebrate with style. Like wine, cider styles range from dry to sweet, still to sparkling, simple to complex. It pairs well with foods or can be enjoyed simply by itself.

“Cider is equally as food friendly and beautiful as wine when paired with the right food, and can make the whole experience better,” said Sarah Showalter, co-owner of Old Hill Cider. “And there are so many options for cider, depending on what you’re serving.”

She recommends her Farmhand cider with its full body and tannins to pair with poultry, and her Yesteryear cider, a bright and sharp cider, with maple-glazed ham or salmon. End the meal with their Season’s Finish, an ice-style dessert cider that pairs ideally with desserts, cheeses and dried fruits.

Showalter’s is one of the few cideries with its own orchards and farmstand market where people can purchase apples. Some apples are specific to cider making, while others, like the heritage apples Old Virginia Winesap, Jonathan, Stayman, Albemarle Pippin and Black Twig serve as dual purpose: eating or cider. A new variety of dessert apple is GoldRush.

Cider’s History in Virginia

Once the daily drink in early Colonial America, cider was popular with people like George Washington, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson. Jefferson created a champagne-like cider made with Hew’s Crab apples that was his “table drink,” and throughout the 19th century, cidermaking took place in every community.

“Cider was the beverage of choice in Virginia for many years before wine or beer, during a time when water was considered unhealthy. And since the first Thanksgiving celebration was held here in Virginia, why not bring the cider back to Thanksgiving as an alternative to wine?” said Courtney Mailer, owner of Blue Bee Cider, Virginia’s first urban cidery.

Sadly, throughout our history, with the Industrial Revolution and the changing tastes of the growing immigrant population, cider fell out of favor and beer became a more popular drink of choice. Prohibition dealt another blow to the cidemaking industry.

FUN CIDER FACTS

- Cider is fermented like wine
- Apples must be ground before pressing prior to fermentation
- Artisan ciders are created by blending different apples
- Many cider apples are not ideal for eating
- In Virginia, hard apple cider can contain up to 10% alcohol by volume without capitalizing (adding sugar). Above 10%, it must be labeled as “apple wine.”
- Hard apple cider making is the fastest growing segment in the alcohol business
Cider is making a comeback here in the United States, however. Today, Virginia is the 6th largest apple-producing state by acreage and is enjoying a renaissance of artisanal hard ciders as evidenced by the growing number of cideries and the availability of ciders in restaurants and bottle shops.

Blue Bee Cider has been planting its own orchard to help bring back from extinction the prized Colonial-era heritage apple varieties used for their own ciders. They have the largest orchard producing Harrison apples in the world.

“Cider apples are different from table apples, just as wine grapes are different from table grapes,” so you can select a cider to match any cuisine, Mailer explained. For traditional Virginia fare and salty hams, she recommends her Charred Ordinary cider, and for poultry, the Mill Race Bramble, with its berry notes. For December holidays, enjoy the Firecracker, a dessert cider made with apple brandy from Catoctin Creek Distillery that is rather like an apple Port-style wine. And for a nice (and less expensive) alternative to champagne, try the Aragon 1904.

What is Cider?

The Virginia Tourism Corporation describes cider as “fermented apple juice just as wine is fermented grape juice. The best cider, like the best wine, is carefully crafted from fruit chosen for cider making.”

Cider involves no grain and it is not cooked; it is pressed from apples specifically selected for their tannin, acid and sugar levels.

The term “cider” is considered “hard cider.” However, it has a lower alcohol content than wine due to the lower sugar level in apples as compared to grapes. You may see cider in the refrigerated section at your grocery store, but that is merely unfiltered apple juice with no alcohol content. Outside the United States, the word “cider” refers exclusively to alcoholic drinks.

Cider pairs particularly well with many foods, often better than wine. A dry cider with heavier tannins can substitute for a red wine and pair with meat dishes. A crisp cider with a higher acid level works well with rich, buttery dishes. Off-dry cider goes with smoke and spices, and works well with grilled vegetables. Sweet cider pairs brilliantly with vinegary or spicy foods like barbeque or Thai. Dessert ciders go with anything.

This holiday season, why not include several of Virginia’s fine ciders with your celebrations? You just might make a new tradition of your own.

Cider Week VA: November 9-18, 2018

In September 2012, Virginia’s Governor Bob McDonnell established a week dedicated to hard cider in order to both celebrate the tradition of crafting hard cider in Virginia and raising awareness about its popularity throughout the Commonwealth. Virginia was the first state to do so. The week-long celebration, November 9-18, 2018, features special tastings, pairings, dinners, events and workshops, including the Alexandria Cider Festival held at the Lloyd House in Old Town on Saturday, November 17th. Significant improvements in diagnostic imaging have come about in recent years, making it much easier for physicians of all sorts to more accurately diagnose a wide range of diseases and disorders.

Temporomandibular joint (TMJ) diseases and disorders are no exception.

Exactly what is TMJ, and how serious can it be?

As stated above, TMJ stands for temporomandibular joint. You have likely heard of it in reference to a disorder, which really is called TMD - temporomandibular (joint) disorder.

According to the nifty little slideshow on WebMD (https://www.webmd.com/oral-health/ss/slideshow-tmj-tmd-overview) about 12% of adults have it, and it's more common among women than men.

Your jaw's joints (one on each side) are actually the most complex of all the joints in your body. Not only do these sliding hinges allow you to open and close your mouth, the joints also allow forward-back and side-to-side movement. No other joint in your body is designed to move on three axes!

There is a small disc of cartilage that acts as a cushion in these joints, between your lower jaw (mandible) and sides of your skull near your temples (hence, the 'temporo' part).

When there is a problem in the functioning of the joint on one or both sides - if you experience pain when you move your jaw, pain in your ears or face and neck, or other similar issues—you could have TMD.

There are many causes, and various treatments, but you should see your doctor or dentist as soon as possible to prevent long term damage.

Stress, leading to clenching your jaw or grinding your teeth—even in your sleep, is frequently the culprit. However, it may not be the only cause. A misaligned bite is also a common cause of TMD, in both children and adults. Even infants can be affected, but it usually begins showing up in children from about six years old up.

Only through clinical exam and diagnostics can the cause of your specific issue be determined, though, and the correct treatment applied. This is especially true for children.

(Yes, any reasonably intelligent person can self-diagnose TMD. But if you don't know the cause, you can't successfully self-treat.)

Due to the improvements in diagnostic imaging mentioned in the first paragraph, precise causes of TMD can be identified and appropriate treatments applied.

All forms of imaging have some positive value, but magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) is the most sensitive, according to a study done by a team of maxillofacial surgeons in India in 2012 (https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC3519803/).

It used to be that plain old x-rays were the only tool available, and the team found they are fine for detecting changes or damages to the bony structures. The team also found that ultrasonography¹ is good for diagnosing disc derangement, and computed tomography (CT)² scans were excellent for detecting the shape and condition of the bones (whether diseased or healthy).

For the most detailed picture of the TMJs, American maxillofacial surgeon and researcher Dr T. A. Larheim says:

“Magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) may depict joint abnormalities not seen with any other imaging method and thus is the best method to make a diagnostic assessment of the TMJ status.” –Larheim, TA; Cells Tissues Organs. 2005;180(1):6-21. (https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pubmed/16088129 )

This level of excellent imaging is especially necessary in the diagnosis of childhood and adolescent TMD. Many factors can contribute to the development of TMD in children, sometimes as young as 5.

Macrotraumas—usually trauma to the chin (so common in the toddler and preschool years) can contribute to TMD in very young children.

Microtraumas—from parafunctional habits such as Bruxism, clenching, hyperextension, and other repetitive, habitual behaviors are a contributor for some children.

Anatomical factors of the teeth, jaw and skull, nervous tension, head-and-neck posture, and psychosocial elements, as well as connective tissue diseases are additional... factors in the development of TMD in children, adolescents and adults alike.

Because effective treatment depends upon accurate diagnosis, it is highly recommended that if you or a loved one are affected by possible TMD you ask for an MRI for the best possible view into the cause of the issue.

It costs more, yes. But it can save you time, money, and physical pain compared with ineffectively treating TMD based on a lesser detailed diagnostic image.

¹ Ultrasonography is an examination with a transducer that both sends the sound waves into the body and receives the echoing waves. When the transducer is pressed against the skin, it directs small pulses of inaudible, high-frequency sound waves into the body.

² Computed tomography, or CT, refers to a computerized x-ray imaging procedure in which a narrow beam of x-rays is aimed at a patient and quickly rotated around the body, producing signals that are processed by the machine's computer to generate cross-sectional images, or "slices", of the body.
If you’re planning a kitchen or bathroom remodel next year, consider some of these rising trends in color, materials, technology and design to create your dream space.

Tile < TERRAZZO

Terrazzo—a composite of marble, quartz, glass and other materials—isn’t new. In fact, it has been around since ancient times, but it has been making a comeback this year, a trend you can expect to continue into 2019. In the kitchen, use it for decorative accents or on walls, shower floors or countertops. In the kitchen, terrazzo spices up a backsplash, counters, walls or floors. It comes in an array of colors, and the new porcelain terrazzo is available in polished or matte finishes.

Cabinets < INJECTING VIBRANT COLOR

One of the biggest trends in kitchen design is color. All-white kitchens have dominated for quite a while, but now cabinets in blue, green and gray are increasing in popularity. If you opt for white cabinets or open grain wood, you can inject vibrant color through your appliances. Bosch refrigerators are available in bold colors and Viking offers its ranges and refrigerators in a variety of exciting colors.

High Tech BATHROOM

Interesting and helpful high-tech for the bathroom includes motion-detecting faucets, automatic temperature regulators and mirrors with built-in LED lighting or integrated touch screens that control lighting or let you check the day’s weather forecast or your schedule as you get ready for the day.

Technology SMART APPLIANCES

Technology in the kitchen, such as smart appliances, has been around for a number of years, but appliance apps still get mixed reviews. You might want to rely on a smart speaker like Alexa or Google Assistant to help out in the kitchen. These devices can look up recipes, set cooking timers, order groceries and more.
Aging IN PLACE

According to Katie Peters, project designer with Bowers Design Build, another trend is toward timeless materials combined with practical elements that allow homeowners to age in place. Peters says the plumbing industry has begun to respond. One manufacturer has come out with a line of hand-held shower assemblies that double as grab bars.

Vintage OR CONTEMPORARY

Although classic designs never go out of style, the main trends in bathroom design now lean toward either vintage or contemporary. To get the vintage look, use antique mirrors and light fixtures and repurpose an old dresser or other piece of furniture as a vanity.

If contemporary is more your style, go for clean lines and warm tones like grays, whites and earth tones as well as seamless shower doors and large tiles for a sleek look.

Fixtures

Homeowners have a variety of metal finishes to choose from for cabinet hardware, faucets, light fixtures and more. Matte sheens remain popular, according to Peters. Brass has been trending for more than a year. If you’re looking for a newer trend, go with golden brass, darker bronzes and matte black finishes. Mixing metals also is popular. To mix metals, consider choosing an element such as a pendant light or faucet as an accent in a different metal such as rose gold.

Counters < QUARTZ

Quartz countertops have been trending for a while and don’t seem to be waning in their popularity. According to the 2018 U.S. Houzz Kitchen Trends Study, “Engineered quartz overall beat out granite 43 to 34 percent among homeowners updating countertops.” Especially popular are quartz countertops that look like marble. Quartz is durable and requires less maintenance than granite.
Water Spaces

< OPEN SHOWER

Open shower spaces have expanded to incorporate both a bathtub and a shower, often with a simple glass barrier separating the water space from the rest of the bathroom.

Cool Kitchen APPLIANCES

If you’ve ever been frustrated by limited space in the refrigerator or freezer compartment of your fridge, you’ll be happy to hear that more brands are offering the flexibility of column units. These stand-alone appliances mean you don’t even have to place your refrigerator and freezer next to each other. Refrigerators come in 24, 30 and 36-inch models and freezers are available in 18, 24, 30 or 36-inch options.

The concept of cooking directly on your countertop may be hard to imagine, but that’s just what hidden induction units allow you to do. Induction cooking uses electromagnetism to heat pots and pans very efficiently while remaining cool to the touch. The units can be mounted beneath your counter, and when you’re not using the area for cooking, you can use it as you would any other area of your countertop.

Open STORAGE

In both kitchens and bathrooms, open shelving is replacing some of the cabinetry. This can be tricky to keep neat and aesthetically pleasing, but it has the advantage of keeping essentials accessible and is perfect for dishes or towels that are uniform in shape and color, which helps keep the look neat and organized.

A n interior remodel and screened porch addition to a fifty year old home in north Arlington generated a lot of buzz this past September when locals had a chance to view the makeover for the first time courtesy of an Open House sponsored by Sun Design Remodeling.

The changes to rear elevation rooms incorporate a new gourmet kitchen almost 40% larger than the previous galley design. The revised space, in turn, segues to a screened-in porch and grilling deck that features garden views and an alfresco dining venue with rotating fans, a skylight and even a pizza oven.

Chris and Cynthia Heimann, who have occupied the home for 16 years, have found the new plan a boon to everyday life—and perfect for entertaining.

According to Craig Durosko, Sun Design’s founder and chairman, the Heimanns initially considered building a new addition, but the remodeler asked them to also look at an alternative approach which would entail re-configuring living space within the envelop of the existing home.

“The Heimanns had actually upgraded the kitchen a few years ago, but the stairwell connecting the first and second floor took up over 12.5 square feet of front-to-back floor space restricting the kitchen’s width to about ten feet,” Durosko recalls.
The home’s southeastern corner, however, was occupied by a mostly unused home office accessible via a short hallway with a powder room off to one side. These rooms absorbed over 100 square feet of floor space and (importantly) did not abut the staircase.

Measurements in hand, Durosko and team saw an option of relocating the kitchen to the opposite side of the rear elevation.

“There were lots of infrastructure considerations, but—as a space plan—the move made sense,” the remodeler recalls.

Searching to better rationalize the home’s first level, lead designer Clare McCaffrey saw early-on that achieving the scale and symmetry appropriate for the new dining porch would entail moving the rear access door to a spot in the middle of the rear elevation.

This in mind, McCaffrey developed plans for a corridor between the sitting room and the new kitchen which would also accommodate the relocated powder room.

With a course of casement windows assuring abundant natural light, and custom-designed built-ins displaying art books and collectibles, the hallway is a natural adjunct to the sunny reading room that formerly provided a rear access door.

Moreover, aesthetically, the new room is entirely compatible with the more nuanced and articulate interior design scheme that is explored throughout.

Homeowner Cynthia Heimann, who is a commercial architect, was especially pleased with the collaborative input of both McCaffrey and specialty designer Morgan Hutchinson.

“They were exceedingly aware of what’s on the market and what would work in relation to our developing interior design scheme,”

(At Right) KITCHEN FLOORPLAN
The floorplan called for eliminating an office in the home’s southwest corner and relocating the powder room to a newly-designed corridor situated between the kitchen and a sitting room. The rear door was moved to the kitchen for better access to the dining porch and grilling deck.

(At Left) SITTING AREA
Perfect for reading, the revised sitting area is steps away from a corridor (rear door right) designed to display art books and other collectibles.

(At Right) KITCHEN WITH ART DISPLAY
Specialty designer Morgan Hutchinson’s interior emphasizes softly muted tones while exploring design details from the home’s existing architecture. By replicating an elliptical arch used in several front-facing rooms, Hutchinson created a niche for art display that borrows front-room colors for background.
the homeowner recalls. “The proposed box bay window in the kitchen, for instance, required only a two foot cantilever, yet provided critical storage and clean-up space, and opened-up a really beautiful backyard view that brings the room to life.”

The food prep island and dining counter, which includes a cook-top range, a sink and seating for three also provides cabinetry for china and crystal ware. The frameless acrylic cabinets in combination with gray wall paint further reinforce understated elevations in which small variations in color and texture stand-out.

An eye-catching pattern in the Avalon marble that surfaces the island was cut out of a larger slab specifically for this application. Likewise, the honed granite surface around the sink helps anchor the color scheme.

On a related note, Hutchinson makes a reference to the elliptical archways in the home’s front rooms via the unique niche she created for displaying a framed poster the couple had purchased in France many years ago.

“It’s the personalization that makes the whole feel so much like home,” Cynthia Heimann says. “On that score, Morgan and Clare were quite personable, and very easy to work with.”

As the largest school district in the state of Virginia and the 10th largest in the United States, Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS) is constantly striving to provide quality education to its nearly 190,000 students through innovative advancements in education and technology. One such advancement began in 2013, when FCPS teachers, principals, and school board members convened special meetings with parents and local community leaders for one year to discuss a new ideology. In 2014, FCPS formalized that ideology by adopting the Portrait of a Graduate program, a modern roadmap with specific guidance to help students achieve success in life by learning 21st century skills in the classroom.

Ohio-based non-profit Battelle for Kids originated the Portrait of a Graduate program locally sometime before 2013. In November 2017, Battelle for Kids acquired EdLeader21, and in February 2018, created a national movement, 21By2021, encouraging at least 21% of the school systems in the United States to adopt the Portrait of a Graduate program.

Though the exact origins of the Portrait of a Graduate program are unknown, FCPS has clearly been at the forefront of this movement, being one of the first school districts to adopt this model of education. Interestingly, the major influence of FCPS adopting the Portrait of a Graduate program was then-superintendent, Karen Garza, Ph. D., who went on to become the new CEO of Battelle for Kids and is now hoping to copy the success of FCPS in more school districts across the United States.

As per Dr. Garza, “the Portrait of a Graduate program served as the foundation...” for the FCPS 2015-2020 strategic plan, aptly named ‘Ignite,’ because it seeks to ignite, or set in motion, discrete goals including that of student success. With input from the community, FCPS curated a tailored version of the Portrait of a Graduate program to help students acquire specific skills: communication, collaboration, ethical and global citizenship, creative and critical thinking, and the ability to become goal-directed and resilient individuals.

Instructional Technology Integration Division at FCPS

In keeping with the spirit of the FCPS strategic plan and preparing students to reach their highest potential through Portrait of a Graduate, FCPS created an entire division, Instructional Technology Integration, to meet the growing demands of supplying its students and educators with appropriate technology to help with classwork and computer access at home.

Instructional Technology Integration (ITI), a vital component of the FCPS Department of Information Technology, is extremely busy in its day-to-day work, ensuring that all schools and offices can use digital tools, including FCPS 24-7 Learning (a.k.a. Blackboard), FCPS eCart (electronic Curriculum, Assessment, and Resource Tool), the Google suite for education, and Technology@Home, to name a few.

Instructional Technology Integration Division at FCPS

In keeping with the spirit of the FCPS strategic plan and preparing students to reach their highest potential through Portrait of a Graduate, FCPS created an entire division, Instructional Technology Integration, to meet the growing demands of supplying its students and educators with appropriate technology to help with classwork and computer access at home.

Instructional Technology Integration (ITI), a vital component of the FCPS Department of Information Technology, is extremely busy in its day-to-day work, ensuring that all schools and offices can use digital tools, including FCPS 24-7 Learning (a.k.a. Blackboard), FCPS eCart (electronic Curriculum, Assessment, and Resource Tool), the Google suite for education, and Technology@Home, to name a few.
ITI has also begun work on providing equitable access to technology to all students. FCPS calls this equitable access FCPSOn because it is “on a journey” to enhance student learning by providing students access to technological devices on a 1-to-1 basis. According to the Coordinator of Instructional Technology Integration, Derek Kelley, “FCPSOn is in the beginning stages and provides equitable access to technology and to instructional practices that lead to Portrait of a Graduate outcomes for ALL students.” Though some schools have already implemented FCPSOn during the 2016-2017 school year, FCPS estimates completing its journey with FCPSOn and securing 1-to-1 devices for its K-12 students by 2023.\(^1\)

Incorporating Technology in Instruction

While ITI does not dictate the frequency or consistency of technology within classrooms, it supports the decisions of instructional staff in determining the best usage to teach students. As per Derek Kelley, “When teachers plan, they consider which tools and approaches will best support student learning. Sometimes, technology is the best option. At other times, traditional tools work best.” Kelley also explains that technology decisions may be influenced by subject matter, in which specific areas including mathematics and social studies require implementation of additional digital resources whereas other subject matters do not.

FCPS balances the integration of technology in instruction through its implementation of digital citizenship. In society, the concept of digital citizenship requires technology leaders to help its Internet users become well informed and responsible in the ways they use information technology. In the school setting, FCPS has expanded the concept of digital citizenship by making the responsibility a shared one among students, school administrators, instructional staff, and even parents.

FCPS views digital citizenship as a meaningful way to prepare students to enter a society full of technology. ITI helps support best practices in digital citizenship to help students “… in developing healthy and responsible technology habits,” notes Kelley.\(^\ast\)

We Need YOU!
We Welcome all Insurances
All parents worry about their children's futures—it's part of the job. Parents of children with special needs may face more uncertainty. Some of the biggest concerns special needs parents have are financial. Mapping out your child's financial future can seem like a daunting task, but having a plan in place can help ease your fears.

There are complex legal and governmental issues surrounding disability so planning for the long term can be tricky. The wrong decision might create a tax burden or render a child with special needs ineligible for government benefits. Having a strategic plan that maps out your vision for your child's future can lessen some of the uncertainty. Below are three things I recommend parents of children with special needs do to secure their future:

■ Create a letter of intent—No one knows your child better than you do. If something were to happen to you, how can you express your wishes for your child's future and share all the facts about your child's wants, needs, and care? While not a legally binding document, a Letter of Intent will serve as a guide for future caregivers and cover topics such as: daily schedule, medical history, education, benefits received, and your vision for your child's future.

■ Create a special needs trust—Work with an attorney to create a special needs trust. Such trusts are an important part of your child's long-term financial plan. The trust will serve to benefit your child in two ways: A trustee that you identify in the trust document will manage the assets inside the trust for the best interest of the beneficiary and limit the beneficiary's access based on the trust document's stipulations (i.e., The funds can't be used to buy a sports car, but can be used for food and lodging). The second benefit of having the assets in a trust will preserve the beneficiary's eligibility for public benefits, such as Medicaid and public housing. You should work with an experienced Financial Advisor and a Trust Lawyer to establish and fund the trust.

■ Name a trustee—The trustee is the individual or institution that is responsible for administering the trust in accordance to your trust document. A trustee is usually not the same person that is named as a guardian. A trustee can be a close friend or family member or an institution, such as a bank or trust company. The trustee controls the money and is responsible for investing the assets and dispersing them as necessary. They should also serve as a partner to a future caretaker to help make and be the voice of reason when tough financial decisions need to be made.

A great place to start planning for the financial future of your child is with your Financial Advisor. You are planning for two generations—yourself and your child. Your Advisor will help you organize and prioritize your personal financial goals and wishes and help you create a long term financial plan for your child. With the rise of the Kardashians's fascination with plastic surgery, now older and younger patients are considering medical options for enhancing their appearance. Magdalena Jones is only 35, but she’s a huge fan of Bellafill. Four years ago, after her wedding, she was looking through her wedding pictures and was disturbed by the wrinkles around her mouth. “I noticed deep lines in those pictures. After I got my album all finished up, I thought, ‘I should do some kind of filler,’” says Jones, adding, “I don’t expect perfection. But my face could be a little bit softer.”

Prevention and Enhancement

Jones says that millennials like her believe in prevention rather than attending to skin care problems after they’ve been around for a while, “People would say that I looked so young, but those lines bothered me, and that’s what matters.” A few months passed, and Jones asked plastic surgeon, Dr. Ravi Dahiya, “Should I get more?” Dr Dahiya explained to her that the Bellafill process is unique. After a month, your body breaks down Bellafill, but then it starts making its own collagen in the same area. Over time, your body uses the microspheres in Bellafill to create a “scaffold” onto which a person’s own natural collagen develops. This collagen forms a foundation that adds volume to creases, acne scars, jowls and marionette lines, reducing their impact.

People who wish to avoid the expense and discomfort of regular visits to their doctor, should definitely consider Bellafill. It's is a cosmetic procedure that's designed to last—FDA studies indicate that it can smooth lines around the mouth for up to five years.

With most fillers, the body breaks the material down, and in about six months, patients will likely see a return of their deeper wrinkle lines explains Jones. “For people who hate injections, they won’t have to worry about getting them over and over again.”

Jones’s Bellafill treatment was in 2014, and four years later, she’s not added any extra syringes. “I like that I look natural. When you touch the areas, they’re soft, like my tissue. My smile is simply softer and looks more natural,” says Jones. “My face looked very natural right from the beginning. I ended up going out with my friends that evening. No swelling or bruising.”

Where to Find Bellafill

It’s important to verify that your surgeon is well-trained, since this is a long-term commitment. Dahiya is an international trainer in the use of Bellafill and was recognized by Bellafill’s manufacturer Suneva as one of the top 1% of injectors in the country. He is board certified with the American Academy and American Board of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery, the International Society of Hair Restoration Surgery, and principle physician at Dahiya Facial Plastic Surgery & Laser Center in Rockville, Maryland. Dahiya serves as medical director at Sechoir Beauty Bar in the Mosaic District in Vienna, Virginia where he offers facial consultations, injectables and follow ups.

When considering Bellafill you should include preparation and post-procedural planning. It may not be best to have big plans the evening and day after. Jones said she only dealt with mild redness after her procedure, but some patients experience bruising and swelling.

Dahiya's team takes before and after pictures to show their patients the changes over time.

They strongly recommend patients stay away from blood thinners like ibuprofen (Advil, Motrin) and avoid drinking alcohol for a few days before. The doctor will usually give you a skin test before injecting Bellafill to check for allergies or reactions. The average cost for one syringe is $950.

Post procedure, you'll want to ice the treatment areas. Homeopathics like Bromoline, which can diminish the appearance of swelling, and Arnica, which can reduce bruising, are healing options for patients too. Since you can't predict how you're going to react, it's a good idea to discuss these issues with your medical team in advance. Dahiya has his patients return six weeks after the procedure to check their results.

Dahiya has administered the product, which is made in San Diego, for nine years, and has seen it improved and reformulated. The experienced provider personalizes his treatment for each patient, but his general philosophy is, “To achieve that subtle look. I'm conservative with volume, because I want it to look very natural.”

People who seek a fresher, younger look should not wait until the aging process is difficult to reverse. The best approach to maintain a youthful look is to have procedures like botox and fillers before the aging process is too far along. “When someone comes in at age 65, and says they want to look like their friend Jenny, and Jenny has been my patient for the last ten years, it’s a lot harder to achieve those same results,” says Dahiya.

What is your biggest beauty splurge?
Eye cream. I see so many younger women with “crow’s feet.” Start early, day and night.

What is the beauty product will you would not leave the house without?
Mac Powder foundation

What did you formerly do that you realized wasn’t was worth it?
Eyelash extensions. I’m allergic to all of the types of glue.

What is your workout pick?
Dancing of course! I’m a competitive Ballroom, Swing and Latin dancer. I’m at the studio 4-5 times a week. For strength training I use Kettlebells with a personal trainer for maximum results.

What is your view on diet?
I don’t diet. I eat well from the start. My father used to say “Eat like a King in the morning, a Prince in the afternoon, and a Baron in the evening.” Most people starve themselves throughout the day and when they get home eat way too much, way to late. I also hydrate well. No caffeine.

What’s your spa fix?
Facials and Massages. With all my traveling, this provides me the best down-time while keeping my face fresh and my body healthy.

WellMedica would like to introduce the latest technology in non-surgical vaginal rejuvenation. It is called Geneveve—and it is a clinically proven treatment that is revolutionizing feminine wellness as we know it. Currently it is used in 52 different countries around the world and has benefited thousands of women improving their health and quality of life.

What is Geneveve?

Excessive stretching of the vaginal muscles is a common occurrence after vaginal birth or due to aging. Therefore, many have sought out different treatment options to help get their bodies back. Geneveve does all this and more. This treatment uses clinically-proven cryogen-cooled monopolar radiofrequency (CMRF) to uniformly deliver gentle volumetric heating while cooling delicate surface tissue. This unique technology stimulates the body’s natural collagen formation process.

What to expect?

Geneveve treatment is a comfortable, single-session, 30-minute treatment performed by a trained healthcare professional in an outpatient setting. During the visit, Dr. Dima uses a small treatment tip (about the size of your thumb) which is then inserted into the vaginal opening. The tip is then rotated while it alternately cools the surface and heats the soft tissue beneath. Women typically begin to feel the results at about 30 days and the full effect at about 90 days. Depending on how you respond, we may recommend a touch up treatment every year or as you see fit.

Is there any downtime?

During this treatment the vaginal tissue swells slightly. It is recommended that patients abstain from intercourse for 48 hours, although resuming other normal activities right after receiving treatment is acceptable. This includes exercise and bathing.

What does Geneveve treat?

Vaginal tissue ages over time. With age and childbirth, certain symptoms can occur such as vaginal dryness, urinary incontinence, sexual dysfunction, vaginal pain, air passing from the vagina, less satisfaction with intercourse, and increased self-consciousness. All of these symptoms are easily treatable with Geneveve and we have seen amazing results with our patients and around the world. In fact, 90% of the women who had the procedure in clinical studies, reported significant, sustained tightening, sensation, satisfaction and noticeably reduced bladder incontinence 12 months after treatment!

What makes Geneveve different?

Traditional invasive surgical procedures are expensive, can have a long and extremely painful recovery time and carry significant risk. Geneveve is non-invasive, painless, discreet, safe and very effective.

Banish Acne Scarring With Fractional Laser Or Microneedling!

If you’re disappointed with your skin and feeling like you could never be as confident as you’d like putting your best face forward, then rest assured that there are treatments available that address many mild to severe skin concerns.

Your face is the first thing you put forward, and acne scars can leave you feeling insecure and less confident. Years of mild to severe acne can take a toll on your skin, and over time you may see subtle or more obvious scarring leaving your skin looking uneven and pigmented. In recent decades, Laser technology and Microneedling has advanced incredibly far to be able to provide safe treatments that effectively address textural skin concerns. Regarding acne scarring, Fractional laser technology or Microneedling with product infusion has proven itself the optimal choices in lessening obvious signs of scarring, fine lines and enlarged pores for skin that’s brighter, smoother and naturally younger looking.

Fractional Laser is a very versatile system that works safely by puncturing the skin with tiny microscopic holes, leaving patches of skin between these holes untouched. The intact skin then works quickly and efficiently to rebuild the skin affected by the laser and encourages it to resurface smoother than before. Depending on the skin’s type, condition and concerns, each treatment is customized in strength and severity. Those with more apparent or deeper scarring may need more aggressive sessions which in turn require more downtime.

The Microneedling technology with product infusion uses multiple needles that vertically pierce the skin with an automatic vibrating function. When moved across the skin’s surface it stimulates natural collagen reproduction, while allowing fine channels to be created in the skin. The channels can carry up to 80% more topical nutrients, allowing for treatment delivery deep into the skin’s fibroblasts to feed the underlying cells found in the dermis and basal layer. This increased absorption of active ingredients into the skin creates stimulated repair and faster resurfacing results.

Which is the best choice for a person will be determined when seeing the clinician and talking about all concerns. The clinician begins preparing her patients by covering the treated area with a numbing cream for approximately one hour to make the procedure more comfortable. Although these treatments are tolerable, some patients may feel mildly uncomfortable. With the Microneedling there will be downtime of 3 to 4 days, with the Fractional laser depending on the intensity of the settings, any swelling or redness of the skin will last between 2 to 7 days with the skin feeling mildly rough and flaky. This is all a normal part of the healing process which should not be interfered with. We live in a time where no one needs to walk around with scar tissue or discoloration.

How To Deal With Hard Water Hair
By Danielle Emig

If you’ve noticed a sudden change in your hair but are still loyal to your go-to products, it could be time to take a look at your water. Water hardness differs from state to state and may be to blame. Read on to learn what hard water is, how it affects hair, and how to get your hair back to its roots.

What Is Hard Water?
Water that contains a large amount of minerals, especially calcium and magnesium, is called hard water. It forms as water passes through limestone and chalk. While hard water isn’t harmful, the buildup of minerals can change the texture and feel of hair.

Not sure if hard water is causing your hair troubles? Check the showerhead for any buildup that looks like white chalk, or notice if glassware comes out of the dishwasher looking cloudy. In addition, shampoos that aren’t lathering that much could be interacting with the minerals in hard water.

How Does Hard Water Affect Hair?
The dissolved minerals in hard water coat hair, which can make it feel rough and dry. While one study found that hard water doesn’t affect hair strength or elasticity, the buildup can make styling more difficult and cause color-treated hair to fade quicker. Since hair feels more straw-like and knotty, it’s also be more difficult to brush.

Where you live doesn’t need to ruin your hair. There are several things you can do at home to bring it back to its natural state.

INSTALL A SHOWERHEAD WATER FILTER
The filtration system removes excess minerals. Showerhead filters vary in price and can start at $100, but could be less expensive than loading up on clarifying products.

ADD CLARIFYING SHAMPOOS TO YOUR ROUTINE
Strip away buildup with a deep-cleaning shampoo. Combat the drying effects by following up with a deep-conditioning.

TRY AN APPLE CIDER VINEGAR RINSE
Mix 1/3 cup apple cider vinegar and 1 quart of distilled water. Shampoo, rinse, and finish with the apple cider mixture, leaving it on for a few seconds before rinsing. It’ll remove buildup and add bounce and shine back to hair.

FINISH WITH ARGAN OIL
Apply pure argan oil to damp hair to restore moisture. Focus on the ends and avoid the roots to prevent hair looking greasy.

The Truth Behind Clarifying Shampoos
Chelating shampoos, also known as clarifying shampoos, use ingredients that bind to minerals and other buildup. When you rinse the shampoo out, the minerals and gunk from styling products go with it. Clarifying shampoos are drying because they also remove natural oils, so it’s best to limit their use to once a week or once a month, depending on how dry your hair is. Always follow up with a deep conditioner to combat any drying effects.
HOW TO RESTORE COLORED HAIR

If hard water has dulled your dye, you don’t need to increase the damage with frequent touch-ups. Instead, ask your stylist for a glaze or gloss which adds shine and pigmentation on strands. The drugstore beauty aisles are also packed with at-home formulas that aren’t damaging, as long as you follow the instructions.

Glazes and glosses differ slightly. A glaze is a temporary formula that can be clear or have slight pigment to add shine. It does not use peroxide or ammonia to deposit color into cuticles, but instead sits on top of strands. A glaze can last one to two weeks and is primarily used to boost shine.

A gloss is a semi-permanent, transparent formula that smooths the surface by filling in strands. It adds a protective layer for shine and color longevity. A gloss can last three to four weeks and is best if you’re looking to maintain your current color.

On the Other End of the Spectrum: Soft Water

Soft water contains only small amounts of minerals. With soft water, it can feel difficult to rinse out all the shampoo and conditioner, and hair may feel limp and greasy. Try volumizing products to prevent limp hair, and use only a small amount of conditioner on the ends to prevent weighing down the roots. As with hard water, a clarifying shampoo in your routine can help remove product buildup.

Conclusion

Before you change your routine, determine if you have hard or soft water. If you’re worried your water is doing a number on your hair, get tips from your stylist. He or she should be able to suggest products or methods based on your hair texture.
Anti-Aging Beauty Secrets

By Marta Bota
www.mbfacedesign.com

We’re all bombarded with images of beautiful women in magazines, on the runway, and in social media. It can make even the most secure female feel a little rattled. In our obsession with youth culture anyone over the age of 35 can end up feeling like a “has been”. But that is so far from the truth!

We, as women, need to embrace all that comes with maturing. Life experience, depth, maturity, wisdom, independence, and the feeling of empowerment in our choices! Age doesn’t mean that we have to give up looking beautiful. Age shouldn’t define or limit you. A woman who has “come into her own” is the most beautiful creature of all and, with some simple anti aging routines, you can slow down Father Time and maintain your youthful glow!

Here are some of my own personal anti aging tips!

Beauty Sleep

There is no truer statement than this! Getting proper rest with a good night’s sleep not only feels great but this is the time that the skin repairs itself. Sleep is necessary to maintain your beauty.

Sun Protection

We all love the sun! It’s rays provide Vitamin D and being outdoors promotes a healthy lifestyle! Sun exposure without adequate skin protection, however, causes premature aging. Be sure to use a sunscreen with a high SPF to protect your skin from the sun’s harmful rays. Sunscreens have chemicals that can cause irritation, allergic reactions, and cancer. I recommend using organic sun-care products. My favorite product line is Limelife by Alcone. I love their products because of the natural ingredients. Limelife by Alcone Perfect Sunscreen has an SPF 30 and will protect without any harmful ingredients! It doesn’t get any better!

Hydration

Drinking water throughout the day not only flushes out toxins, keeping you healthy, but it hydrates the skin from the inside out. H2O is one of the best beauty treatments on the planet!!! Use the 8 x 8 rule by drinking 8-eight ounce glasses of water to stay hydrated!

Exercise

Staying fit is truly the fountain of youth! As we age we lose muscle and our body fat redistributes itself. Working out with weights helps keep our muscles tone and body fat down. Remember to check with your doctor before starting any exercise routine and modify it according to your age and health issues.
Healthy Diet

A well balanced, healthy diet keeps our mind and body working efficiently, lowers our risk of getting diseases, and keeps us looking great! It’s the best defense when it comes to anti aging! Each of us has different health concerns, different needs, different metabolism, therefore it’s best to check with a nutritionist for your ideal dietary plan!

Get Social

As humans we are social creatures. As we age our social circle gets smaller as we experience more losses in our lives. We may be retiring, experiencing the empty nest, as well as other life changes. It’s vital for our mental health, well-being, and our overall health to stay connected to others. Being connected on social media outlets is a great way to reconnect with old friends and family members who may live far away. Joining social groups and/or staying active in church or other religious gatherings helps us stay connected to our faith as well as community! This has proven to keep you mentally healthy and even extend your life!
Lady in Red
(and Metallic, Animal Print, Leather)

BY JULIE HOLLAND

Yesss! Hello yummy months!
The season of feasts, bubbly, glitz and glam.

A red dress is an obvious choice during the holiday season, but which red dress is the question. Of course, if you want to veer away from this classic color and branch out a bit, there’s never been a better time to slip into leather, animal print and metallics (and all things shiny and ornate). Maybe even all of the above worn at once. Or maybe you’re not quite that adventurous, but could be convinced to work these elements in with a coat, shoe or accessory.
If you’re looking for that wow factor red dress, give these a try:

- Nordstrom Lace Sheath Dress; $129
- Revolve ruffle Marisa Maxi Dress; $299
- Ted Baker Ruffle pocket detail; $245
- SimplyDresses.com Maxi bow back dress; $149
- ShowPo Off the shoulder high-low dress; $77

Happy holidays and glamifying with these animal prints:

- ASOS black and white leopard print dress, $72
- ASOS animal print cape coat by Lavish Alice, $118
- ASOS animal print dress, $92
- J.Crew leopard print pumps, $198
- Anthropologie Leopard Trench Coat, $218
And if you're feeling bold, with a hint of sass, have a strut in items like these:

- Lulus Leather Studded dress, $54
- Bilbys Leather skirt, $29
- Evesaddiction.com Black leather choker necklace, $28
- ASOS metallic high neck long sleeved bodycon, $60
- Revolve Silver Metallic twist front dress, $89
- Revolve Sequin long sleeved dress, $258
- Macy’s Betsy & Adam bronze sequined sheath dress, $259

VIP’s Turn Out for the Shepherd’s Center of Oakton-Vienna Annual Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon

The Shepherd’s Center of Oakton-Vienna (SCOV) recently hosted their annual Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon at St. Mark Catholic Church where SCOV had the opportunity to thank the many volunteers that play a significant part in the success of the charity’s mission.

The event was supported, in part, by Bright View Senior Living/Great Falls.

The SCOV Pin Award for outstanding service was presented to volunteers Leigh Banducci; Bill Grove; Mary Harrigan; Marta Linares; Scott Schroth; Ann Streb and Jayne Young. In addition, SCOV chose this opportunity to recognize the continued support of Delegate Mark Keam by presenting him with the SCOV Certificate of Appreciation.
McLean Woman’s Club Holds Wine-and-Cheese Event to Preview December Homes Tour

Planning For Tour Underway Since February

On September 20 the Woman’s Club of McLean held a festive wine and cheese reception to preview its annual Holiday Homes Tour on December 6th. The gathering at McLean’s historic Pleasant Grove Church included principals involved in the tour, club members and leaders, local officials, tour house homeowners, advertisers and sponsors and special guest Virginia State Senator Barbara A. Favola, honorary 2018 Homes Tour host.

This year’s tour will be the 52nd mounted by the McLean Woman's Club, with all proceeds benefitting numerous local charities and nonprofits, such as Share, Inc; Second Story, the McLean Project for the Arts, Claude Moore Colonial Farm and Fisher House, as well as funding scholarships and education.

The four houses to be on December’s tour are located in Langley Forest, River Oaks, McLean Hamlet and Odrick’s Corner (off Lewinsville Road). Each home will be decorated with the holidays in mind and will highlight family life in McLean. In addition, one or two homes will host a boutique and an auction of chances on a variety of merchandise and services.

Woman’s Club members have been working on the tour since February, when they solicited ads for the tour brochure. During the summer, they selected the homes, prepared the brochure and began publicity.

Tour tickets are available to the public at Mesmeralda’s Gifts of McLean, Karin’s Florist of Vienna and Great Dogs of Great Falls, or may be obtained on tour day at the featured homes.

MPAartfest Brought Art, Music, Food and Fun to McLean Central Park

By Bethany Nguyen

On October 7, 2018 McLean Central Park came alive once again as MPAartfest, now in its 12th year, offered something for guests of all ages. Selected by Sunshine Artist Magazine as one of the Top 100 Fine Art and Design Shows in the USA, the festival featured the work of nearly 40 selected artists, creative interactive experiences, new food vendors, expanded musical offerings and more.

A one-day juried fine art show and sale, MPAartfest featured the work of visual artists showcasing a wide variety of media and styles—from painting to woodturning, jewelry, contemporary ironwork, and more. McLean Central Park transformed into a lively landscape of mini art galleries showcasing and offering for sale the work of acclaimed artists from the Mid-Atlantic region and beyond. Along with the artists’ tents and food from local restaurants, MPAartfest featured the best of DC’s musical artists performing in all genres, from jazz to world-music and beyond. MPAartfest also offered a variety of art and STEAM (STEM+Art) activities to engage creative minds and captivate art-lovers of all ages.

Building on the success of last year’s diverse musical offerings, MPAartfest offered a full day of lively and varied musical performances featuring everything from Go Go and jazz to world-music and a 15-piece big band. This year’s performers include Project Locrea, Cecily, The Dave Kline Band, The JoGo Project, Rose Moraes, Little Red & The Renegades, and Blues Alley Youth Jazz Orchestra.

MPA’s STEAM Village was filled with a variety of STEAM (STEM+Art)-based learning stations dedicated to involving guests in Art+Engineering, Art+Math, Art+Architecture, Art+Nature and Art+Sound activities. Other art highlights include the Children’s ArtWalk, an awe-inspiring open-air gallery displaying teacher-selected artwork from students representing local public and private elementary schools. And teens and adults in attendance were invited to sketch live models in MPA’s Open Air Art Studio.

On the food front, MPAartfest 2018 featured the much-loved Café Beret, where guests enjoyed wine and beer provided by The Wine Outlet. The event also offered food from a variety of eateries, including Taco Bamba, Rocklands Barbeque and Grilling Company, Assaggi Osteria and Pizzeria, Red Hook Lobster Pound, Big Cheese, Sweetbites Café and Bakery, Crepe Love, and Zinga Frozen Yogurt.

MPA is grateful to the many long-standing and new sponsors who support this community-wide celebration of the visual arts: MPA’s lead community sponsor the McLean Community Center, event co-sponsors Fairfax County Park Authority and TD Bank, along with committed members of our community including TTR Sotheby’s International Realty, COMPASS Realty, Freedom Bank, BOWA, The Langley School, Deirdre Maull Orthodontics, McLean Community Foundation, McLean Properties, Kathleen Murphy, Nancy & Steve Perry, Debbie & Leo Jardot, Montessori School of McLean, Vinson Hall Retirement Community, Crushed Cellars, Fairfax Woman Magazine, and additional supporters including: ARTSFAIRFAX, Virginia Commission for the Arts, and The National Endowment for the Arts.
George Mason University’s College of Visual and Performing Arts presented its 13th annual ARTS by George! benefit on Saturday, September 29, 2018. The philanthropic event raised support for student scholarships in visual arts, dance, music, theater, computer game design, film and video studies, and arts management, as well as for the Mason Community Arts Academy, the Green Machine Ensembles, and the Great Performances at Mason series. “This event has become one of the premier nights on the artistic and social calendars of Northern Virginia because there is, quite literally, no other evening like it anywhere,” shared Rick Davis, Dean of the College of Visual and Performing Arts. He continued, “our patrons saw brilliant student performances and interactive exhibitions up-close; met faculty, staff, and students (and each other!); partook of first-class food and drink; and placed bids on one-of-a-kind items in both silent and live auctions—all before gathering in the Concert Hall to see a world-class headliner. It was a non-stop feast for all of the senses, including the heart, mind, and soul.”

On site alone, the event raised more than $50,000! Overall, the benefit garnered more than $140,000 in support of CVPA student scholarships and community arts programs, which include the Great Performances at Mason series at the Center for the Arts, Green Machine Ensembles, and the Mason Community Arts Academy.

Inside the 10 open studios and rehearsal halls, guests enjoyed behind-the-scenes access and sneak peeks of upcoming student productions, such as Big River: The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. This year’s event also featured first-time showcases by the Mason Community Arts Academy and the Green Machine Ensembles. As guests traveled from one showcase to the next, they were treated to a scrumptious cuisine and beverages from local purveyors, including Catering by LT and Bonefish Grill, among others. The ARTS by George! benefit event would not have been complete without the Silent and Live Auctions, where guests bid on a chance to win an array of exclusive arts-related items and experiences. The highlights of this year’s auctions were: an orchestra conducting experience, including dinner with Anthony Maiello, CVPA faculty and conductor of the American Festival Pops Orchestra, and the opportunity to guest conduct at a concert during the orchestra's 2019/20 season at the Center for the Arts; and, a luxurious weekend in Virginia’s wine country with two nights in a suite at The Rooms Up There in the charming village of Marshall, plus private car service and dining at a myriad of fine restaurants, wineries, and eateries, such as Red Truck Bakery, Field & Main, The Front Porch, Whole Ox, Miracle Valley, Naked Mountain, Three Fox, Blue Valley, and Cobbler Mountain. Bidding kiosks were set up throughout the deLaski Performing Arts Building and staffed by CVPA students throughout the event.

The evening’s festivities culminated with a Gala Performance by multi-Grammy Award®-winning vocal sensation The Manhattan Transfer with the American Festival Pops Orchestra. Since the early 1970s, this legendary quartet has revolutionized vocal jazz with its impeccable harmonies and crisp interpretations of classics. They gained mainstream popularity with the release of their hit single “Operator,” as well as the remake of their signature song “Birdland.” Most recently, The Manhattan Transfer joined a cappella group Take 6 in the PBS Special, The Summit: The Manhattan Meets Take 6, which was released this past spring. Also, in 2018, the celebrated quartet released its first album in a decade, entitled The Junction. For this concert, they joined the American Festival Pops Orchestra and its Artistic Director/Founder Anthony Maiello to present a dynamic evening of vocal and instrumental swing, doo-wop, jazz, and pop. The orchestra appeared under the batons of both Maestro Maiello and The Manhattan Transfer’s Musical Director of 39 years, Yaron Gershovsky.

The Mason Jazz Vocal Ensemble made a special appearance, directed by Dr. Darden Purcell, CVPA Director of Jazz Studies/Jazz Voice. This award-winning student group performed “Dreams” and their tour de force, “No More Blues,” a piece custom-arranged for them by AFPO Composer/Arranger-in-Residence, Bryan Kidd. In a joint statement, Jay Speer and Donn Smith shared: “we were thrilled to be co-chairing this year’s ARTS by George! and feel proud to support the stellar work being done by students, faculty, and staff in George Mason University’s College of Visual and Performing Arts and Center for the Arts. Their creativity, passion, and talents inspire us as individuals and elevate us as a community.”
Preparations for this year’s annual Holiday Homes Tour are now complete, with the Tour set for Thursday, Dec. 6th from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. A 52-year tradition of the McLean Woman’s Club, the event will focus this year on four large, elegant homes in conventionally varied styles on large lots in four sought-after neighborhoods – Langley Forest, River Oaks, Odrick’s Corner (off Lewinsville Road) and McLean Hamlet. Each home will have been decorated with the holidays in mind and to highlight family life in McLean. Parking is easily available near the four homes.

In addition, the Tour house in River Oaks (Arbor Lane) will host a Holiday Boutique, including sales of jewelry and accessories, handmade wreaths, gift baskets and donated new commercial products. This will be in addition to a silent auction there of gift certificates from First Stage, J. Gilbert’s, Ruth’s Chris Steak House, Clyde’s, Fleming’s, Smith’s of Bermuda, The Village Grill, The Lebanese Tavern and other local businesses.

All proceeds from the Tour will benefit local charities and nonprofits, such as Share, Inc; Second Story (formerly Alternative House), Capital Caring, The McLean Project for the Arts, Claude Moore Colonial Farm, Fisher House and the McLean Volunteer Fire Department, as well as underwriting scholarships and education.

Ticket booklets are on sale at Mesmeralda’s of McLean, 1339 Chain Bridge Road; Karin’s Florist, in Vienna, 527 Maple Ave., East; and Great Dogs of Great Falls, 9859 Old Georgetown Road. Tickets will also be available at the tour houses on Dec. 6th. Cost is $30 before Dec. 6th (the day of the tour) and $35 on Dec. 6th. The ticket booklet contains addresses and detailed descriptions of each house, along with an area map.

Tour Houses

House 1 (Langley Forest). This 6,800-square-foot brick Colonial (on a 0.82-acre lot) was built in 1986 and has had several additions. The home has five fireplaces, six bedrooms, five full baths and one half-bath. It has a large attached garage, a wood deck, a 512-square-foot pool and an open porch. The lower level walk-out contains a theater room, an exercise room and wet and dry bars. The two-story home reflects excellent construction quality, according to county listings.

House 2 (River Oaks). This residence, custom-built in 2014, sits on a flat, half-acre lot in an area known for its pastoral environment and convenient location. The 10,000-square-foot home has an open floor plan with two kitchens, a morning room and a formal living room. There are 10-foot ceilings on the main level and 9-foot ceilings on the second and lower levels. The home has six bedrooms (four ensuite), a multifunction lower level and an oversized deck and screened patio.

House 3 (Odrick’s Corner). This home’s site has a historical connection to an 1872 farm in the area owned by Alfred Odrick, a former slave and namesake of the adjacent park. This massive, multigabled home was built in 2003 as the model for the Bellmeade subdivision off Lewinsville Road. It has seven bedrooms and six-and-one-half baths. Visitors will enter through handmade, bronze double doors to white marble flooring and four chandeliers in the foyer and dining room. The house will be extensively decorated, maintaining both family and Christmas traditions.

House 4 (McLean Hamlet). This lovely traditional brick Colonial lies at the end of a long cul-de-sac in McLean Hamlet, a neighborhood of 507 homes in various styles along tree-lined, winding streets. Since it was built in 1967, the home has been altered, redecorated and upgraded numerous times by the present owners, who have lived there since 1981. They created a master bathroom suite, added a bedroom, bathroom and play room and built a sun room that overlooks a landscaped backyard. The home has four bedrooms, three baths, one half-bath, three fireplaces, a spacious lower level and an attached garage.

Independent seniors who are commissioned military officers and their immediate family, as well as government workers of an equal rank from select agencies.
Here in Northern Virginia, it’s difficult to purchase a property in a community that doesn’t have a homeowner’s association. In many townhome, condominium and single-family neighborhoods, the association rules define residents’ relationships with each other.

What is a Homeowner’s Association?

A homeowner’s association (HOA) is “an organization in a subdivision, planned community or condominium that makes and enforces rules for the properties within its jurisdiction,” according to Investopedia. “Those who purchase property within an HOA’s jurisdiction automatically become members and are required to pay dues, known as HOA fees.”

Homeowner’s associations are most often created by the real estate developer of a planned community containing multiple single-family homes or units like condos. Most HOAs are incorporated and subject to state laws. An HOA also differs from a “community association,” a non-governmental organization that may serve as a social club, service organization, or other intentional grouping.

HOAs or condominium associations are governed by an elected board of directors enforcing and overseeing the HOAs governing documents including the Articles of Incorporation, the Declaration of Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (CC&Rs) and By-Laws. They may restrict or define what is allowed or not allowed in a community, like the color of paint, fencing, or landscaping. They also set penalties for nonconformance and violations that can include fees, forced compliance, or in some cases, litigation.

Having a Dispute with Your Homeowner’s Association or a Neighbor?

“If you have a dispute, the first thing to do is review your copy of the governing documents, including the Declaration of Covenants, Amendments, By-Laws, Articles of Incorporation, Architectural Guidelines, rules and regulations,” recommends John Cowherd, a local construction and real estate attorney with Cowherd PLC. “Those governing documents function as a binding contract between the homeowner, the HOA, and other neighbors in the community.”

“One topic that gets a lot of attention is architectural restrictions. These may dictate what kind of mailbox you must put on your property and whether you can build an addition or convert your garage into living space, for example.” Common homeowner mistakes include making improvements to the property without first considering HOA architectural restrictions. An owner may need to ask permission of both the HOA and the city or county before breaking ground. A homeowner might construct an addition without checking whether they need to first apply for permission from an architectural review committee. However, if the homeowner inadvertently overlooks a legally-enforceable requirement, they may later be required to tear down the improvement and start over.
“It is easier to get approval ahead of time rather than deal with a rude awakening with a notice of violation and requirement to attend a hearing,” Cowherd said. “To complicate matters further, HOAs sometimes overstep their enforcement authority or misinterpret their own governing documents. An owner should not be forced to comply with requests that aren’t well founded.”

If you receive a letter from your HOA, consult the governing documents to ensure the rule they are trying to enforce actually exists or was not changed through an amendment, and whether the HOA actually has the authority to enforce the rule.

Bear in mind any deadlines to respond referenced in the notice letter. Failure to attend a hearing or meet a response deadline can discredit your claim and enable the HOA to push through their enforcement, whether or not they are in the right. The governing documents or state law may impose other deadlines that may not be referenced in the letter but nonetheless apply.

Try to maintain a positive relationship with your board members. Often they are trying to do the right thing and want to enforce the rules uniformly. You don’t want to create a perpetual war, either with the governing body or your neighbors. “If disputes are not approached with an eye toward achieving an amicable settlement, they can become so acrimonious that the board and owner, or neighbor and neighbor, go on fighting over things as long as they are living there,” Cowherd said. “You want to avoid that.
Realize that if a dispute arises, the owners’ best interests is usually to settle it so that everyone can live peacefully together.”

When Do You Need An Attorney?

“Often the time to call in an attorney is when things have gotten to the point where you have tried everything, and the dispute persists,” Cowherd continued. “I’m often called in when the owner’s letter, email or phone calls haven’t worked. That’s when it’s necessary to see what legal options are available.” Bringing an attorney in early in a dispute ideally helps to avoid escalation into what may seem to be an intractable conflict or waiver of property rights.

In the initial consultation, an attorney will review the governing documents, and determine whether a forensic engineer must be brought in for a professional opinion.
“Many times it is less expensive to fix the problem rather than spend the money to retain an attorney,” Cowherd advised, since most attorneys charge by the hour.

What Can An Attorney Do?

An attorney can prepare a lawsuit, file it and take it to trial. When selecting an attorney, look for one with specific experience in resolving disputes of this kind. Ask “Have you ever handled a case of this kind?” “How many?” and “Do you have a plan for how we should investigate and pursue this?” If they don’t have a strategy, it may not be a good fit. Ask the attorney, “Are there any deadlines imposed upon us legally that we need to file to preserve our claim?” A qualified attorney will know these answers. Homeowners should be aware that most of the attorneys with experience in community association law ordinarily represent the boards of directors in these kinds of disputes.

When disputes arise, emotions become involved. “These issues touch people very deply, and emotions can be overlooked,” Cowherd said. “People often feel like their life is under siege, and it only takes a few months before it becomes an incredible strain on someone’s time, budget and health. Most people do not have familiarity with the legal and construction technicalities to negotiate with their board or neighbor from an informed position. This can add frustration. Property owners may struggle to find the contractor, enGINEER or attorney that is a good fit for tackling their dilemma. Yet, consultation with qualified professionals working for the property owner may be essential to charting a path to an amicable resolution or success in court.”

Hopefully, you will never have a dispute with your homeowner’s association. After all, living peacefully in a community is the goal for everyone.
The Black Horse Inn is—in a word—exquisite. A mere 40 miles from Tysons, The Black Horse Inn rests comfortably in the rolling, bucolic Virginia Hunt Country near Old Town Warrenton—a mecca for horse lovers—where the Warrenton Hunt was established in 1883 and the first running of the Gold Cup took place in 1922.

Dating from 1850, the historic main house served as a hospital during the Civil War. The inn houses 10 elegantly appointed rooms and suites, meticulously decorated with an artistic and whimsical flair, many with four-poster canopy beds, Jacuzzi tubs, and fireplaces.

The fabled Fox and the Grapes exudes character, with its own private entrance down the stairs at the back of the house, reminiscent of a charming Hobbit dwelling. You will be welcomed at the entrance by white roses and baby’s breath. A fox statue sitting atop an authentic Bordeaux wine barrel surveys the realm—a hunting horn, equestrian boots. Golden grapes hang from the ceiling. Let’s heed Aesop’s cautionary tale and not touch them. Just head up to the main house for a glass of wine if fancy strikes. The fieldstone walls with recessed wooden windows filtering the light through lattice-climbing English Ivy, hand-hewn wooden beams, and a wrought-iron bed are straight out of a fairy tale.

Another remarkable design, the Room with a View has a unique attic architecture with Palladian windows overlooking the countryside. The handsome Jeffersonian Room displays many a fine touch. And the spacious Hunt Box Suite adjoining the barn is where you will encounter, among other fine horses, the sleek black stallion Dante, mascot of the Black Horse Inn.

Awaken to a gourmet country breakfast in your fanciest pajamas, including the signature scones. Partake in Hunt Country Tea in the afternoon with sherry or port in the library or back sun porch. Sip wine and nibble on a cheese platter on the patio by the footbridge over the pond fountain. Roam the 20-acre estate and revel in being one with nature.

An equestrian center, the Inn also accommodates horses in their hunt stables for overnight visits, providing the ultimate convenience for owners of equine guests. “We’re equestrians and we want our guests to enjoy the horses.”

Great Falls readers may wish to take their horses on a little getaway. Fortunately for those of us who can’t actually bring our own horse, the Inn kindly offers several enticing equestrian packages for fall.

Hunt Country Fox Hunting

The Inn also offers opportunities for experienced riders interested in participating in an authentic day of fox hunting. They will coordinate hirelings and transport you to hunts.

Owner/Expert Equestrian Lynn Pirozzoli and her fiancé Peter are up at the crack of dawn for fox hunting with the Loudoun Fairfax Hunt near the little hamlet of Hamilton. Their fine steeds are a Gypsy Vanner/Thoroughbred cross and a Clydesdale/Cleveland Bay, like the Queen’s horses. The horses clip-clop down the lane and then they’re off into the fields of singing grasshoppers, tail-wagging beagles howling in delight.

“On early fall mornings, the mist comes off the field and steam comes off the horses. It’s just very magical to me,” describes Lynn.

“I’ve been riding since I was knee-high to a grasshopper - jumping, 3-day eventing. When I came to Virginia, I went fox hunting and fell in love with it—the camaraderie with the people and the genuine good fun. What could be better than letting the horses do what they do naturally—run in a herd.”

Linda Devan, Joint Master of Fox Hounds, notes, with up to three hunts per week, “this is the heart of hunt country in the United States.” The fox hunters follow a strict protocol and are “very respectful of the property of the friendly landowners.”

Lynn recounts unforgettable equestrian adventures while on riding holiday, galloping on the beach bareback and swimming on horseback in Ireland with Willie Leahy, Master of the Galway Blazers, one of the most renowned fox hunting groups in Ireland.

Unlike in Ireland and England, in Virginia we just enjoy the fox chase and the countryside—time and time again. It’s just such a natural thing to do in Virginia.”

Hunt member Christine Vinkus points out, “There are places and vantage points you can’t get to any other way.”

Mimosas and Gin Richardson’s Maple Bacon Bites are always a hit at the tailgate, a hunting tradition.

The Inn is also a much-acclaimed wedding destination, with its opulent formal ballroom The Gilded Fox. Just outside, flagstone terraces back to the tranquil countryside and mountains beyond. The dashing Peter in his scarlet coat and top hat escorts the bride who rides side-saddle on horseback. Very regal.

The Front Porch, The Plains

For an elegant yet casual dinner in another historic railroad house, continue your countryside meanderings 15 miles to the Front Porch, www.frontporchtheplains.com. Their authentic Portuguese Kale Soup transported me straight back to Lisbon. Truffle mushroom ravioli was a flavorful spot-hitter. Locally sourced scared pork tenderloin was expertly infused with a hint of apple bourbon sage butter. Reserve an upstairs table and step into another era as depicted in the vintage movie poster of Anita Ekberg and Marcello Mastroianni. Park out back and be welcomed through the back door by the effervescent Christophe Michaux and friendly, knowledgeable servers. As they say in Virginia, “Slow down and set a spell.” And of course, savor the flavor.

Better yet, savor the whole experience. It might just be impossible not to. ❖

"WHEN EXPERIENCE COUNTS"
Righteous Ramen in the Mosaic District

It would not be a stretch to say diners in the DMV are hopelessly in love with ramen. Consequently, when Jinya Ramen Bar opened up in Mosaic District, there was a lot of excitement. Of course, many restaurants enjoy a buzz when they first open, but with Jinya Ramen Bar, it’s fair to say that the enthusiasm has not worn off. Stop in for a weekday lunch, and virtually every seat is taken. Diners eat at the bar, and give their names to wait for a table. So, what’s all the fuss about?

I asked Maxine Poole, assistant manager at South Moon Under, a women’s clothing boutique located one block away from Jinya what she thought of Jinya Ramen Bar. Poole says she loves to go there and always orders the Old Skool Ramen, “It’s really nice when you can eat outside, and they have interesting cocktails and sake. You can even create your own bowl with ingredients you choose. I guess ramen is super popular right now.”

Located between Alta Strada and Matchbox, near the Angelika Film Center, Jinya is smack in the middle of the beating heart of this growing neighborhood. The Mosaic District’s restaurants and stores are attracting customers from local office buildings, people living among the jumble of condominiums, and those pursuing a lively place to shop and eat. And despite all the excellent choices here, Jinya has definitely amped up this community’s lunch game.

“When JINYA Ramen Bar’s Founder Tomonori Takahashi arrived in the United States in 2010 from Tokyo, he realized that the ramen available in this country lacked the traditional taste and flavor of ramen. It’s then that he decided to open JINYA,” explains Avinesh (Nash) Rana, Ramen Bars’s executive chef at the Mosaic District location, in an email. “The tare, the sauce, and the broth are all [his] family recipes.”

Jinya Ramen Bar is beloved by soup enthusiasts for the signature stocks made from whole pork bones and vegetables. They add bonito, dashi and kombu to make it a little thicker than your average homemade soup, but not too thick. “We incorporate ingredients imported from Japan, including our spices and peppers, dried seaweed and fish shavings,” Rana adds. “The noodles are made daily and are meticulously aged for three days to maximize their flavor. We offer thick, thin and spinach noodles.”

What should you know about ramen? Ramen is considered Japanese comfort food. Though, the soup originated in China, it has become one of the most popular dishes in Japan and Taiwan. Ramen is usually budget friendly, and offers a number of variations including vegetarian versions.

Ramen is typically served with ingredients like Chashu, or fatty slices of roasted pork. But there’s also Kakuni, or braised pork belly.
Bamboo shoots, called Menma, give ramen its salty flavor. You’ll rarely see ramen without Negi, or chopped green onions, although some people swap onions for leeks. Moyashi are the raw and cooked bean sprouts which give ramen its crunch. Tamago, or boiled eggs, are commonly added, along with seaweed called Nori or Wakame.

There are multiple kinds of broths too. Shoyu is a soy-sauce-infused broth usually made from chicken, and that is what you’ll find in Jinya’s “Old Skool” ramen. Shio is a salty, clear chicken broth, while Miso broth is flavored with soybean paste. Miso is typically thicker, with a rich complex flavor. Tonkotsu is cloudy white broth made from pork bones and pork fat. “The Tonkotsu Spicy and Tonkotsu Black, both made with our signature pork broth and simmered for over 10 hours, are JINYA’s most popular ramen,” Rana states.

Along with traditional Japanese ramen, Jinya also serves modern Japanese dishes and beverages. Their small plates include fried tempura-battered vegetables; my favorite side is Jinya’s Brussel sprouts. I can’t get enough of those crispy cruciferous treats. The shareable pork Gyoza are crised in a pan and served with gyoza sauce, which is traditionally made from rice vinegar, soy sauce, ginger, garlic, chili flakes and sesame oil—a combination that renders it both tangy and sweet. Another standout is Takoyaki, a common street food in Japan. The Instagramable appetizer consists of battered and fried diced octopus on a stick, served over egg tartar with colorful toppings—fried tempura noodles, kewpie mayo and smoked bonito flakes.

For those seeking lighter selections, Jinya offers tasty salads like the Jinya Quinoa Salad, Spicy Tofu Salad and Seaweed Salad. The menu also features Jinya’s mini-tacos, which contain salmon poke, pork Chashu with kimchee, and spicy tuna, all encircled in a crispy wonton shell.

Other satisfying choices, on days you don’t feel like slurping, are Jinya’s rice bowls. These contain an assortment of ingredients including chicken, beef and seafood garnished with egg, onion, spinach and sesame seeds. Jinya’s Tokyo Curry Rice Bowl is comprised of ground chicken in a spicy curry sauce. Jinya offers decadent crispy chicken tenders during happy hour. The white meat chicken is encased in crunchy batter with Ponzu sauce on the side. You can accompany their sake cocktails with a bowl of wasabi peas or salty edamame. My favorite snack is the Jinya Bun, pork Chashu with baby greens wrapped in a spongy roll.

Jinya Ramen Bar is truly a festive experience, but prepare to wait unless you get there early. Happy slurping! ✯

Workers constructing Phase II of the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project recently rolled out a strange-looking piece of equipment called an Amberg IMS 5000, not exactly a name that rolls off the tongue or alludes to any visual inference.

The tool, which somewhat resembles a yellow scooter, has been employed by the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority (MWAA) and purchased by the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority (WMATA) to survey and assess project data on Phase 2 of the Silver Line.

The equipment was manufactured in Switzerland by Amber Technologies AG. One person maneuvers the three-wheeled trolley along the track alignment as a multidimensional scanner and computer system mounted on top records the position of an object based on pre-determined orientation points.

In unofficial terms, it tells you how the location of one object compares to the location of another object. And then another object. And another. The process continues until all relevant object locations have been assessed to produce a report comparing the location of one object, such as a metrorail train car, to another object, such as a wall or a hanging sign.

On the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project, these orientation points have been placed by Capital Rail Constructor crews on track walls, safety walk troughs and other stable locations.

“This equipment will provide detailed reports about the project to better guarantee a safe environment,” said John Kearney, construction manager for the Dulles Corridor Metrorail Project. “For example, the equipment has the ability to tell us that the metrorail train car will pass safely underneath an overhead road sign, through a station or past a train moving in the opposite direction.”

Transportation enthusiasts should start gearing up for more project accomplishments. This is one of the early steps in the process that will allow the project to begin placing railcars on the track for testing, project officials said.

WMATA is the first institution in the United States to obtain the Amberg IMS 5000 for surveying railways and surrounding structures. Permission to geek out granted!

NOVEMBER DECEMBER

SCORPIO 10/22 - 11/21: Inspiration strikes! Don’t let the idea pass. It will be crucial in coming days.

SAGITTARIUS 11/22 - 12/21: You might find yourself over-committed or burdened by mid-month. Sort out racing thoughts by turning to silence.

CAPRICORN 12/22 - 1/19: Holidays take a happy turn this year with unexpected guests or gifts. A surprise is in the works.

AQUARIUS 1/20 - 2/18: If the holidays leave you brooding instead of celebrating, take time to reflect on your own power to make the life you want.

PISCES 2/19 - 3/2: Holiday spirit overtakes you this year, whether it be Hanukkah on the 2nd or Christmas on the 25th. Simple cheerfulness goes a long way with loved ones.

ARIES 3/21 - 4/19: The first quarter moon on the 15th leaves you thinking about home. Dignity is critical for you this month in public places.

TAURUS 4/20 - 5/20: News this month might rattle you at first, but stars say you can use some information to your advantage. You have the necessary skills.

GEMINI 5/21 - 6/20: A mere sliver of the full moon is missing on Thanksgiving, the 22nd, but the night (and your heart) feel full.

CANCER 6/21 - 7/22: Your plans near completion as the stars align to bring opportunity.

LEO 7/23 - 8/22: The New Moon on the 7th will bring a dark night, but the day threatens to be fabulous. Enjoy.

VIRGO 8/23 - 9/22: The family will be visiting, but why break the bank on new furniture? Perfect cleanliness and flowers fit into the budget.

LIBRA 9/23 - 10/21: A little something extra comes your way this month. It may sparkle or clink but don’t judge.

Award-winning Nostos restaurant has a variety of traditional and new Greek dishes to stimulate your senses. Choose from over 70 wines from several different regions of Greece to pair with food or simply for the pleasure of your palate.
